Cincinnati Beats Detroit in Series Game 5-3

Blast Rowe from Mound in Fourth As Walters Has Tigers in Check

Gorsica Hurls Shutout Ball in Relief Role--Win Is Tonic for Reds as Ripple Homers

By JUDSON BAILEY

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3. (AP)—Cincinnati's rebellious Reds, who were counted out yesterday, were counted back into the 1940 World Series today with a 5 to 3 triumph over the Detroit Tigers on the superb three-hit hurling of "Lucky Bucky" Walters.

The warm, happy Cincinnati constitutents, 30,640 of them, cheered their heroes' every move as the willowy right-hander redeemed a wild start and his supposedly weak-hitting teammates raided Schoolboy Rowe for all their runs in the first four innings.

The tide of battle turned a complete somersault as Walters, after walking the first two men he faced and giving up two runs in the first inning, settled down to retire the Tigers in order in five of the remaining eight frames.

The only hits he gave up were a single to Charley Gehringer in the first, a double to Pinky Higgins in the fifth and another two-bagger to Hank Greenberg in the sixth, when Detroit got its final run.

In contrast the Reds pelted Rowe who lost only three games and won 16 during the regular campaign for all their runs and eight of their nine hits before he was relieved by Rookie John Gorsica with one out in the fourth.

The Reds were set down in succession in the first, but bunched four singles in the second, a single and a home run by Jim Ripple in the third and successive doubles in the fourth.

Gorscia, a right-hander who had been expected to be held in reserve as a starter for the fourth game, allowed only one scratch single in the eighth inning and let no other runners reach first base in the 4 2-3 innings he worked. But his matchless performance came too late.

The National League champions, who pulled Walters out of his opening jam with a minimum of damage by means of a fast double play, put up a tight defense thereafter and never were in danger of being overtaken.

It was the first time that a club

Chamberlain Out Of Cabinet and Out of Politics

Former Premier Resigns and Ernest Bevin Gets His Post

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 3. Britain-at-war sent Neville Chamberlain into political oblivion tonight, interring appeasement in the pages of history, and gave the working man a wider wedge in the nation's leadership.

Chamberlain, a tragic, sick, old man, resigned his cabinet post of lord president of the council, quit his position at the head of the still dominant Conservative party and told Winston Churchill, in a characteristically perky letter, of "my unshaken confidence that under your leadership this country, with her Allies and associates, will succeed in overcoming the forces of barbarism which have reduced a great part of Europe to a condition little better than slavery."

Churchill, warmly, told Chamberlain: "You did all you could for peace—you did all you could for victory." Then he elevated to the war cabinet none other than Ernest Bevin, former dock worker who is almost certain to be the "man on horseback" when—and if—there is social revolution in England.

Bevin Third Socialist

Bevin, third Socialtist in the inner cabinet, entered the government only last May as minister of labor and literally turned this vital wartime office upside down with his energy.

Japan To Attack Singapore If U. S. Enters the War

May Make Britain's Ejection from India Another Aim

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

ROME, Oct. 3 (AP)—Japan will attack Britain's great naval base at Singapore if the United States enters the European war or if the British refuse to accept expulsion from East Asia, Premier Mussolini's newspaper indicated today.

Should all this happen, then Britain's ejection from India would become another aim of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis in a general world war, the authoritative commentator Mario Appelius wrote in Il Popolo d'Italia or Milan.

Britain, under no condition, will face a third theater of war, Appelius added, with the Germans already laying air siege to the British isles and the Italians attacking in Egypt.

He forecast other world-shaking events to come in the wake of Japan's alliance with Germany and Italy, the visit of Ramon Serrano Suner, Spanish minister of government, to Berlin and Rome and the declaration of Russian newspapers that Moscow's relations with the Axis are "satisfactory."

Action "Imminent"

Without disclosing when and where they would happen, Appelius said such events are more or less imminent.

With confirmation lacking from Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's African headquarters, authoritative circles discounted rumors current here that Italian forces had occupied Matruh, British advance base 90 miles east of Sidi Barrano on the road to Alexandria and the Suez Canal.

While Editor Virginio Gayda demlared in Il Giornale d'Italia that the United States would think long before "plunging headlong into any great and dangerous adventure," Appelius said American entry into the war would mean a worldwide scramble for the populous markets of the Far East.

Good Base For Japan

French Indo-China, the latter added significantly, is an excellent base for Japanese military operations against Java and the Dutch East Indies—where the United

British Warships Land Troops for Defense of Malta

Report Sighting Italian Fleet Running for Home

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 3—The British battle fleet has executed a four-day sweep of the central and eastern Mediterranean and landed sorely needed reinforcements on the besieged fortress island of Malta, the admiralty announced tonight.

As in the past, the British asserted that the Italian fleet, sighted at a great distance, ran home "at high speed."

Malta, which lies vulnerably below Sicily, has been under almost constant air siege since Italy entered the war; indeed, at one time the Italians expressed a belief they had destroyed its usefulness as a base for air and naval operations.

The British have never acknowledged that to be a fact, and tonight's communique made it clear that Malta still is an important element in the developing war in the Mediterranean.

In its newest maneuver, the admiralty acknowldged, the fleet was attacked thrice by Italian warplanes but sustained no damage and shot down four of the attackers.

"The Mediterranean commander-in-chief reported that a strong enemy naval force was sighted by our reconnaissance aircraft 100 miles from our fleet," the announcement related.

"But since it was already steaming toward its base at high speed it was not possible to force an engagement."

London Has Quietest Night in a Long Time

Only a Few Bombs Dropped but Other Sections Are Raided

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 4 (Friday) — Shielded by a low cloud bank and its usual anti-aircraft barrage, London early today and last night had one of its lightest night raids of the twenty-seven-day old German air-blitz.

German bombers twice gave up completely and left the metropolis alone during the hours they usually are hitting the hardest. Some bombs fell, however, before midnight in the northwest and southeast suburbs.

In contrast to the nightly toll of casualties heretofore for twenty-six consecutive nights, there was not so much as a scratch reported up to an early hour this morning.

One small village near an ancient castle in southeast England was bombed during the night. Raiders were reported also over a southwest coast town and another in Wales.

The quiet here was shared by a strange silence prevailing along the channel coast opposite Britain, where the RAF has carried out vicious nightly attacks on invasion ports.

Raid Inland Points

The air ministry said nevertheless night operations were "in progress as usual"—meaning apparently that inland targets were bearing the brunt of the night's foray.

German warplanes moved unseen in the high haze above London all day today, apparently loosing their bombs by chance rather than calculation, and struck repeatedly at the industrial midlands in perhaps the heaviest series of daylight raids since the war began.

Tonight the sirens again lifted their chorus of warning, signaling the twenty-seventh consecutive nightly raid on the city. The anti-aircraft batteries, which had reddened the skies from morning to evening in one of the mightiest daytime barrages ever sent aloft, opened up.

Bombs fell on two districts in southeast London during this first, brief night attack. Less than an hour later the warning whistle split the air again for the second assault before midnight. Nazi bombers passed over the northwestern suburbs, faking the old familiar route.

Shellbursts Unseen

So low were the clouds over London that individual shell bursts could not be seen; instead there was a brilliant, continuous reflection along the horizon.

During the day, explosives fell heavily in the southeast and northwest sections of the metropolis in four separate attacks from bombers hidden in the murk and the hot barrels of the ground guns were lifted in reply only by the aid of directional finders.

Nine London districts were bombed during the day as were outlying towns to the west and north and the midlands generally but re-

Many Republicans Register in State

Leaders Pleased with Outlook; Campaign Starts Next Week

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP)—A Republican campaign caravan will begin a tour of Maryland's twenty-three counties early next week, W. David Tilghman, Jr., chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, announced today, and will end with a final drive for votes in Baltimore.

At the same time Tilghman said Republican leaders were elated over reports of the county registration held Tuesday, and that a Republican trend was "noted everywhere" in the state.

"Added to the expected Republican registration," he said, "there was a large turnover of Democratic and independent voters in the counties, men and women who registered as Republicans so they can vote for Mr. Willkie and the party candidates."

He said the "situation in the counties is splendid" and that "this movement will be bolstered by the caravan."

Gamelin, Daladier and LaChambre Committed for Trial for War Guilt

French Government Will Also Demand Trials for Many Others

By The Associated Press

VICHY, FRANCE, Oct. 3.—The Supreme Court at Riom formally committed former Generalissimo Maurice Gustave Gamelin, former Premier Edouard Daladier and former Air Minister Guy La Chamire to trail today for responsibility in France's "war guilt" cases.

The government, it was announced, also will present a demand for the formal commitment of others of those now held in administrative custody. They include former premiers Leon Blum and Paul Reynaud, and former minister of the interior Georges Mandel.

No definite date has been fixed for the trial.

Jean Zay To Be Tried

Jean Zay, one-time minister of education, will be tried by court martial tomorrow at Clearmont-Ferrand on charges of desertion from the army.

During the last few days of the supreme court's investigation into the "war guilt" case fifty-three witnesses were called including General Maxime Weygand, who succeeded Gamelin as head of the British-French land forces, General Louis Colson, General Eugene Mittelhauser, formerly in command of French forces in the middle east; former Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, and former Minister of Information Louis Oscar Frossard.

Weygand was appointed last month to a new command in Africa, but has not yet left France.

Serious Charges Made

Daladier has been accused in authoritative quarters of sending France to war when he knew the nation was unprepared; Gamelin has been charged in the press with faulty military preparation and faulty direction, and La Chambre has been accused of telling Parliament the French air force was satisfactory when the wa started.

A communique said they had submitted some information on which they intend to base their defense.

Willkie Hopes To Unite Labor into A Single Group

Favor Labor Act, but Criticizes Administration by New Deal

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3 (AP)—Appearing for the first time on a campaign platform with his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary, Wendell L. Willkie called tonight for legislation to change the administration of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

The Republican presidential nominee, speaking after a long ovation in floodlighted Forbes Field also said that he would use the office of president to try to unite the divided forces of labor.

Before a crowd estimated by police at 30,000 to 31,000, Willkie made a major labor address after McNary had introduced him with the statement:

"Our crusade to redeem America from New Deal doubt and defeat is united — united as to candidates, as to issues, as to party and to that great body of citizens who, placing country above party, march with us on our historic mission."

Favor Labor Act

Willkie, looking fresh after a four-hour trip through the smoky steel mill sections of Allegheny county, declared that he had been an early advocate of the National Labor Relations Act and that he would continue to support it.

"I hate starvation wages," he said. "I hate the sweat shops. I despise any man who profits unjustly by those who labor. Against such a man I will wield the big stick of Theodore Roosevelt."

He urged that management and labor voluntarily write into their contracts a provision for "a cooling off period — a delay before using their economic weapons."

Against Coercion

He said that just as labor must be freed "from coercion by unscrupulous employers, so must you be freed from the control of any crooked racketeers who have found their way into the labor movement."

The latter problem, he added, is essentially one for labor itself.

Saying that administration of the Wagner act "has been condemned by employer and labor alike," Willkie declared that "the mal-administration of this act has been — and it is — one of the most shocking tragedies in the history of American industrial relations. x x x

"It would therefore seem to me wise, before materially changing the act, as many suggest, to change the administration of it. This would require some special legislation, but that problem is not insuperable.

"If a wiser administration of the act does not produce the results we all want — good relations between

British-Rumanian Relations Serious

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST, Oct. 3 (AP) — Shaky Rumanian-British relations suffered a sharp setback today with the disappearance of a second prominent Briton within thirty-six hours and a summary Rumanian rejection of Britain's protest over treatment of five more of her nationals accused of sabotaging oil operations.

The British legation announced Percy Clark, 60, president of a Ploesti oil engineering firm, was kidnaped from a Bucharest hotel this afternoon under circumstances similar to the seizure of A. Miller director of the British-dominated Astra-Romana Oil Company, yesterday.

Iron Guardists were accused by the British of engineering both abductions. The Iron Guard formally denied the charges and Rumanian authorities declared they could do nothing in either case.

Reginald Hoare, British minister, immediately called his staff together at a "highly important and very secret conference." At the same time the legation described as "distored" a German version of the Rumanian note which said Hoare himself was accused of implication in the alleged sabotage.

Big Things Are in the Offing, Berlin Sources Say; Partial Confirmation Comes from Rome

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Oct. 3 (AP) — Private sources who usually are well informed said tonight that Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini would meet tomorrow in the Brenner pass to put the finishing touches on a busy diplomatic performance that has already brought Japan into the Axis and may soon bring Spain.

Official quarters refused to confirm or deny this, but left hints that big things were in the offing for tomorrow.

Reports from Rome added support to statements in private sources that Hitler and Mussolini as well as their foreign office staffs already were on the way. Italian informants in Berlin had similar information.

Seek To Involve Spain

The impending meeting — now taken for granted here in private circles as well as in Rome—links it to a week of political activity that already has seen three of the —heaviest-armed nations in the world joined in a military alliance —Germany, Italy and Japan. These new discussions it is understood, will be primarily on the part Spain is to play in the war.

Official spokesmen continued to surround the affair with secrecy. "There is great diplomatic activity at present," said one, adding—that reports of the prspective conference constituted an "indiscretion."

The foreign office press chief, Paul Schmitt, already has left the city. If Hitler's plan was to go to the conference by train it would have been necessary for him to have left soon after noon.

Hitler and Mussolini already have met once this year at the Brenner. They conferred there in a railroad car on March 18, at which time, it was generally understood, final plans were made for Italy's subsequent entrance into the war at a critical stage.

Plans Kept Secret

Most sources here claimed complete ignorance of any Brenner developments. One remarked that it would of course be indiscreet to say where Hitler was going at any stated time. His movements during the war period have been kept

Defense Fund Is Raised to More Than 12 Billions

Last Big Appropriation Is Passed by Congress and Sent to Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The session's last big defense appropriation bill—$1,482,000,000 for conscription and other military purposes—received final Congressional approval today with a minimum of discussion and opposition.

Quickly the measure slipped through the Senate. A little later the House unexpectedly accepted a $12,700,000 increase written into the measure by the Senate. That action made the bill ready for President Roosevelt's signature, without the usual formality of resolving House-Senate differences "in conference."

The bill ran the total of appropriations and authorizations for defense at this session of congress up to $12,149,532,516, the House Appropriations Committee said.

New "Non-Political" Speech

The developments came a few hours after White House aides had announced that President Roosevelt would tell the story of the defense program in a "straight narrative" and "non-political" speech to be broadcast at 9 p. m., eastern standard time, on October 12 from private train at Dayton, Ohio.

Meanwhile, it was learned, that the great conscription lottery was scheduled for some day between

Report Typhoid Germs in Water Of British Ships in Baltimore

Engine Oil Diluted, Sun Says in Charging Sabotage

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Reports of attempted sabotage of British vessels sailing from Baltimore—of typhoid germs in water tanks and diluted engine oil—met tight-lipped official silence today although coast guard officials disclosed the city's port patrol would be trebled.

Coast Guard Commodore Carl H. Abel, recently named port captain of Baltimore, with full military powers under the espionage act of 1917, said about sixty coast guardsmen, would be added to the patrol.

At the same time, he refused to confirm or deny a Baltimore Sun statement that:

"It definitely is known that lubricating oil intended for use on ships carrying vital war materials out of this port to England has been diluted to such an extent that main bearings would have been ruined with its use."

The sabotage reports were linked also with an investigation of a typoid outbreak among seamen of a British freighter which loaded here recently.

Democratic Committeeman Noe Is Indicted for Income Tax Fraud

Louisiana Political Czar Accused of Crime During 1935.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3 & — Democratic National Committeeman James A. Noe, stormy Louisiana political power for a dozen years, was indicted by a federal grand jury today for income tax evasion in 1935 in connection with conduct of affairs of the win or lose corporation in which he was a stockholder.

Named with the former Louisiana governor were Seymour Weiss, convicted and much-indicted former Huey P. Long political lieutenant, and the corporation, which was formed in 1934 for handling oil business.

The government alleged the corporation had a net income of $337,165.55 in its first nine months of business. Long allegedly shared $70,660.62 in earnings and profits.

Noe, the third former governor to be indicted, was Louisiana's chief executive from January until May, 1936. His successor, Richard W. Leche, is under federal sentence of ten years on mail fraud conviction and Leche's successor, Earl K. Long, this week won dismissal on a flaw in an indictment charging conspiracy to carry "deadheads" on public payrolls.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP)—A Republican campaign caravan will begin a tour of Maryland's twenty-three counties early next week, W. David Tilghman, Jr., chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, announced today, and will end with a final drive for votes in Baltimore.

At the same time Tilghman said Republican leaders were elated over reports of the county registration held Tuesday, and that a Republican trend was "noted everywhere" in the state.

"Added to the expected Republican registration," he said, "there was a large turnover of Democratic and independent voters in the counties, men and women who registered as Republicans so they can vote for Mr. Willkie and the party candidates."

He said the "situation in the counties is splendid" and that "this movement will be bolstered by the caravan."

Gamelin, Daladier and LaChambre Committed for Trial for War Guilt

French Government Will Also Demand Trials for Many Others

By The Associated Press

VICHY, FRANCE, Oct. 3—The Supreme Court at Riom formally committed former Generalissimo Maurice Gustave Gamelin, former Premier Edouard Daladier and former Air Minister Guy La Chamire to trail today for responsibility in France's "war guilt" cases.

The government, it was announced, also will present a demand for the formal commitment of others of those now held in administrative custody. They include former premiers Leon Blum and Paul Reynaud, and former minister of the interior Georges Mandel.

No definite date has been fixed for the trial.

Jean Zay To Be Tried

Jean Zay, one-time minister of education, will be tried by court martial tomorrow at Clearmont-Ferrand on charges of desertion from the army.

During the last few days of the supreme court's investigation into the "war guilt" case fifty-three witnesses were called including General Maxime Weygand, who succeeded Gamelin as head of the British-French land forces, General Louis Colson, General Eugene Mittelhauser, formerly in command of French forces in the middle east; former Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, and former Minister of Information Louis Oscar Frossard.

Weygand was appointed last month to a new command in Africa, but has not yet left France.

Serious Charges Made

Daladier has been accused in authoritative quarters of sending France to war when he knew the nation was unprepared; Gamelin has been charged in the press with faulty military preparation and faulty direction, and La Chambre has been accused of telling Parliament the French air force was satisfactory when the wa started.

A communique said they had submitted some information on which they intend to base their defense.

Willkie Hopes To Unite Labor into A Single Group

Favor Labor Act, but Criticizes Administration by New Deal

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3 (AP)—Appearing for the first time on a campaign platform with his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary, Wendell L. Willkie called tonight for legislation to change the administration of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

The Republican presidential nominee, speaking after a long ovation in floodlighted Forbes Field also said that he would use the office of president to try to unite the divided forces of labor.

Before a crowd estimated by police at 30,000 to 31,000, Willkie made a major labor address after McNary had introduced him with the statement:

"Our crusade to redeem America from New Deal doubt and defeat is united — united as to candidates, as to issues, as to party and to that great body of citizens who, placing country above party, march with us on our historic mission."

Favor Labor Act

Willkie, looking fresh after a four-hour trip through the smoky steel mill sections of Allegheny county, declared that he had been an early advocate of the National Labor Relations Act and that he would continue to support it.

"I hate starvation wages," he said. "I hate the sweat shops. I despise any man who profits unjustly by those who labor. Against such a man I will wield the big stick of Theodore Roosevelt."

He urged that management and labor voluntarily write into their contracts a provision for "a cooling off period — a delay before using their economic weapons."

Against Coercion

He said that just as labor must be freed "from coercion by unscrupulous employers, so must you be freed from the control of any crooked racketeers who have found their way into the labor movement."

The latter problem, he added, is essentially one for labor itself.

Saying that administration of the Wagner act "has been condemned by employer and labor alike," Willkie declared that "the mal-administration of this act has been — and it is — one of the most shocking tragedies in the history of American industrial relations. x x x

"It would therefore seem to me wise, before materially changing the act, as many suggest, to change the administration of it. This would require some special legislation, but that problem is not insuperable.

"If a wiser administration of the act does not produce the results we all want — good relations between

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST, Oct. 3 (AP) — Shaky Rumanian-British relations suffered a sharp setback today with the disappearance of a second prominent Briton within thirty-six hours and a summary Rumanian rejection of Britain's protest over treatment of five more of her nationals accused of sabotaging oil operations.

The British legation announced Percy Clark, 60, president of a Ploesti oil engineering firm, was kidnaped from a Bucharest hotel this afternoon under circumstances similar to the seizure of A. Miller director of the British-dominated Astra-Romana Oil Company, yesterday.

Iron Guardists were accused by the British of engineering both abductions. The Iron Guard formally denied the charges and Rumanian authorities declared they could do nothing in either case.

Reginald Hoare, British minister, immediately called his staff together at a "highly important and very secret conference." At the same time the legation described as "distored" a German version of the Rumanian note which said Hoare himself was accused of implication in the alleged sabotage.

Mrs. Jessie Stewart Keyes

Police of Memphis, Tenn., questioned Mrs. Jessie Stewart Keys, mother of four, following discovery of the body of her close friend, Miss Estelle Johnson, in a dump heap. Examining doctors were at variance as to the cause of Miss Johnson's death—one attributing it to carbolic acid poisoning, another to pneumonia.

Big Things Are in the Offing, Berlin Sources Say; Partial Confirmation Comes from Rome

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Oct. 3 (AP) — Private sources who usually are well informed said tonight that Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini would meet tomorrow in the Brenner pass to put the finishing touches on a busy diplomatic performance that has already brought Japan into the Axis and may soon bring Spain.

Official quarters refused to confirm or deny this, but left hints that big things were in the offing for tomorrow.

Reports from Rome added support to statements in private sources that Hitler and Mussolini as well as their foreign office staffs already were on the way. Italian informants in Berlin had similar information.

Seek To Involve Spain

The impending meeting — now taken for granted here in private circles as well as in Rome—links it to a week of political activity that already has seen three of the —heaviest-armed nations in the world joined in a military alliance —Germany, Italy and Japan. These new discussions it is understood, will be primarily on the part Spain is to play in the war.

Official spokesmen continued to surround the affair with secrecy. "There is great diplomatic activity at present," said one, adding—that reports of the prspective conference constituted an "indiscretion."

The foreign office press chief, Paul Schmitt, already has left the city. If Hitler's plan was to go to the conference by train it would have been necessary for him to have left soon after noon.

Hitler and Mussolini already have met once this year at the Brenner. They conferred there in a railroad car on March 18, at which time it was generally understood, final plans were made for Italy's subsequent entrance into the war at a critical stage.

Plans Kept Secret

Most sources here claimed complete ignorance of any Brenner developments. One remarked that it would of course be indiscreet to say where Hitler was going at any stated time. His movements during the war period have been kept

Defense Fund Is Raised to More Than 12 Billions

Last Big Appropriation Is Passed by Congress and Sent to Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The session's last big defense appropriation bill—$1,482,000,000 for conscription and other military purposes—received final Congressional approval today with a minimum of discussion and opposition.

Quickly the measure slipped through the Senate. A little later the House unexpectedly accepted a $12,700,000 increase written into the measure by the Senate. That action made the bill ready for President Roosevelt's signature, without the usual formality of resolving House-Senate differences "in conference."

The bill ran the total of appropriations and authorizations for defense at this session of congress up to $12,149,532,516, the House Appropriations Committee said.

New "Non-Political" Speech

The developments came a few hours after White House aides had announced that President Roosevelt would tell the story of the defense program in a "straight narrative," and "non-political" speech to be broadcast at 9 p. m., eastern standard time, on October 12 from private train at Dayton, Ohio.

Meanwhile, it was learned, that the great conscription lottery was scheduled for some day between

Engine Oil Diluted, Sun Says in Charging Sabotage

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Reports of attempted sabotage of British vessels sailing from Baltimore—of typhoid germs in water tanks and diluted engine oil—met tight-lipped official silence today although coast guard officials disclosed the city's port patrol would be trebled.

Coast Guard Commodore Carl H. Abl, recently named port captain of Baltimore, with full military powers under the espionage act of 1917, said about sixty coast guardsmen, would be added to the patrol.

At the same time, he refused to confirm or deny a Baltimore Sun statement that:

"It definitely is known that lubricating oil intended for use on ships carrying vital war materials out of this port to England has been diluted to such an extent that main bearings would have been ruined with its use."

The sabotage reports were linked also with an investigation of a typoid outbreak among seamen of a British freighter which loaded here recently.

Louisiana Political Czar Accused of Crime During 1935.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3 & — Democratic National Committeeman James A. Noe, stormy Louisiana political power for a dozen years, was indicted by a federal grand jury today for income tax evasion in 1935 in connection with conduct of affairs of the win or lose corporation in which he was a stockholder.

Named with the former Louisiana governor were Seymour Weiss, convicted and much-indicted former Huey P. Long political lieutenant, and the corporation, which was formed in 1934 for handling oil business.

The government alleged the corporation had a net income of $337,165.55 in its first nine months of business. Long allegedly shared $70,660.62 in earnings and profits.

Noe, the third former governor to be indicted, was Louisiana's chief executive from January until May, 1936. His successor, Richard W. Leche, is under federal sentence of ten years on mail fraud conviction and Leche's successor, Earl K. Long, this week won dismissal on a flaw in an indictment charging conspiracy to carry "deadheads" on public payrolls.

British-Russian Trade Agreement Again Considered

Negotiations Believed Likely To Be Resumed Shortly

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 3. Negotiations for a trade agreement between Britain and Russia, whom the British regard as the "great outsider" among the European powers since the signing of the German-Italian-Japanese pact, are likely to be resumed shortly, semi-official circles intimated tonight.

Ivan Maisky, Russian ambassador, conferred today with R. A. Butler, under secretary for foreign affairs, on what authoritative quaters said was "the general political situation."

A Russian trade delegation has been in London for many weeks, and there have been sporadic efforts to negotiate a trade pact. Now that Japan is allied with the Axis powers, it is regarded as likely that concerted attempts will be made both in London and Moscow to reach some agreement.

One of the major obstacles to an agreement was Britain's seizure of the gold resources of the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, which voted union with Russia, and the Soviet's seizure of British assets in those countries.

It is expected that an agreement on this ancillary question will be made first.

Britain is in a position to supply Russia with rubber, tin and many other products needed by the Soviets and which could be delivered without interference form the Axis powers. In return Russia might trade lumber — the whole deal on a barter basis.

Some British sources have complained the anti-Russian views of foreign secretary Lord Halifax, a leading Anglo-Catholic, are a strong barrier to dealing with the Soviet union. Maisky did not get to see Halifax today.

Counties Preparing For Registration

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 3 (AP)—All counties except four—Montgomery, Washington, Charles and Cecil—have completed preparations for military registration day Oct. 16.

This report was made to Governor O'Conor at a conference today of his military advisers—Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, Lieut. Col. Henry C. Stanwood and Lieut. Col. Frank B. Hines, of the Maryland National Guard, and Lieut. Commander C. H. Bryant, of the naval militia.

The officers told the governor the need for adequate clerical assistance Oct. 16 formed one of the greatest problems. As a consequence, O'Conor announced plans for a half-day school holiday on registration day.

This would make teachers available to assist in the registration. The governor wired the county superintendents of schools and the Baltimore city school director to determine if they had any objections to the plan.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

The battle of England seems slated to bog down into a tragic winter stalemate of attrition warfare by air and sea, fraught for Britons and Germans alike with unimaginable horrors. Yet it also means that England will enjoy surcease from fears of the worst — successful Nazi invasion.

That, at least, is the now undisguised British view. Prime Minister Churchill's reshuffling of his war cabinet means that he is preparing to tighten England's belt for a winter of tit-for-tat warfare with the Nazi foe, carried to the bitter end. It is for that that Churchill has shaken up the leadership of his vast wa rmachine.

And he did it at a time when German invasion possibilities this year can be counted off in days, not weeks or months. His action means clearly that Churchill is now, as he was not a month ago, reasonably sure that it will not come at all, and utterly certain that it will prove a major disaster for Germany if it does come.

Appeasement Policy Dead

Retirement of aged and ailing Neville Chamberain, "sometime prime minister of England" (as epitaphs over dead statesmen in Westminster Abbey put it), has no other significance, for all the political hue and cry of his foes as he steps off the stage of British public life to dwell in idleness with bitter memories of might-have-beens. The appeasement policy he fathered to bring Britain to her hour of deadliest peril was already as dead as those same long-dead statesmen at Westminster. Chamberlain's going adds nothing to that.

But the revised Churchill cabinet and the timing of its revision, including Chamberlain's retirement, has a far more positive plane in the war trends than any echo it awakes of those regretted appeasment days. Britain's war captain is steeling his staff for a winter war of offense as well as defense. A Nazi invasion attempt looms to him today as a remote possibility, not a probability. If he thought otherwise, recasting his super war staff at this time would be risking serious confusion in such a crisis.

It still might come. The utterly unexpected is the favored technique of Adolf Hitler, even if it involves terrible risks. England can not yet relax her vigilance, nor throw all her air power into bombardment of Germany.

Yet she has now endured for three and a half months the most terrible war scourge any people has undergone. The Churchill cabinet shifts, pointed at carrying the winter warfare to the foe, clearly indicate the state of rBitish morale. They are proof-positive that no defeatist political undertow in bomb-blasted England is sapping at Churchill's authority.

The cabinet reshuffling seems too, to be Britain's direct answer to the German-Italian-Japanese pact. It tends to make Fascist press comment — counselling Japan on what to do, predicting her course, even forecasting Japanese siege of Britain's Singapore base on an "if" basis—sound like wishful thinking.

The Italian press Demarche might also be designed to cover Spain's failure to enlist against Britain, and the fact that Italy's own drive in Egypt is marking time except for Rome rumors of further progress. Time will tell about that; but no time is needed to see, in the London political developments, evidence that John Bull is just beginning to fight back.

Communists Seek Place on Ballot

Their Case Will Be Argued in Annapolis Next Wednesday

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 3. (AP)—A court hearing will be held here next Wednesday on a suit to force the state to place the names of three Communist party candidates on the November election ballot.

Albert Blumberg, Communist candidate for the United States Senate, entered the suit against Secretary of State Francis Petrott on behalf of himself and Earl Browder and James W. Ford, Communist candidates for president and vice-president, respectively.

Blumberg said Petrott had no right to withhold certification of the candidates to the boards of election supervisors, keeping their names from the ballot. He asserted that the party had obtained 2,068 valid signatures on its nominating petition.

The law requires at least 2,000 signatures on a nominating petition.

Petrott's answer to the suit included a letter from Robert E. Stripling, secretary of the Dies-House committee, which said the Communist petition "contains 2,200 signatures."

Stripling said the Dies Committee's investigation of the petition "disclosed evidence of fraud and misrepresentation in the securing of over 300 signatures." He added:

"If 300 signatures which are appended to these petitions are shown not to be genuine, then the party has not qualified under the laws of the state of Maryland."

Judge Ridgely P. Melvin will preside at the hearing in the Anne Arundel county Circuit Court.

Woodshed Discipline Ordered for Boys Who Egged Willkies

PONTIAC, Mich., Oct. 3 (AP)—Woodshed discipline—a "good old-fashioned whipping"—was ordered in court today for three boys who threw eggs at the Wendell L. Willkie party Tuesday, and the parents were promised help if desired.

Juvenile Judge Arthur Moore, in passing sentence also requiring the boys to apologize before their high school assembly, commented that "somehow the acts of these students in throwing eggs is only part of an un-American attitude."

"The hooting, yellowing, cat-calling and other similar incidents that attended Mr. Willkie's reception in Pontiac were in another fashion disrespectful, ill-mannered, and more an insult to the people of Pontiac than to Mr. and Mrs. Willkie," the judge said.

The boys nodded their heads when Judge Moore asked if they believed they should be punished. To the parents the judge said:

"If you don't feel that you are equal to the occasion, your sons can be taken to the Oakland county juvenile home, where they will be properly spanked."

Each parent elected, however, to execute the sentence himself.

One egg struck the Willkie car and spattered Mrs. Willkie's dress.

H. G. Wells Tells U. S. To Stay Out

British Author Says We Could Not Get Reasonable Settlement

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — The United States was advised today by H. G. Wells, British author, to stay out of the war "because your party politics would swamp anything like a reasonable settlement."

Wells arrived on the Cunard White Star liner Scythia, one of three British vessels that docked today with a total of 1,720 war refugees, and declared that Germany "is getting near the end of its tether."

The Scythia, out of Liverpool, brought 808 passengers, of whom 260 were children, including ninety youngsters coming under the auspices of the U. S. committee for the care of European children.

Also in from Liverpool were the Cunarder Samaria, with 811 passengers including 250 children, and the Furness-Prince liner Western Prince, with 101 passengers, thirty-seven of them children.

The Samaria had an exciting voyage, having been one of eight ships convoyed by four destroyers which were believed to have sunk some German submarines — "at lest two," passengers said.

Two days at sea, the Samaria was rocked by a violent explosion and adults and children were ordered to the lifeboats. But the explosion later was found to have been a depth charge from one of the destroyers.

fection was traced to the ship's water supply. The tanks and pipelines were immediately disinfected and medical authorities gave the freighter a clean bill of health.

When it docked at Halifax, N. S. a short time later, three more seamen were down with fever—and the infection again was traced to the water supply, sources here said.

Officials who declined to be quoted recalled that, during the World War, skilled saboteurs diluted ships' oil here with a substance of such consistency and specific gravity as to readily mix with the lucricant. Regarding the current investigation, the Sun said:

"How much damage to ship's machinery really resulted before the mischief was discovered, British sources are unwilling to discuss."

LONDON, Oct. 3. (AP), Six children, all about seven years old, were killed today when Nazi air raiders scored a direct hit on an elementary school in a midlands town.

Nazi Bomb Drops Near Troop Train

BERLIN, Oct. 4 (Friday) (AP) — Authorized sources said tonight that a German bomb of the heaviest calibre was dropped yesterday directly in front of a twenty-five-coach British troop train, creating "an unique picture of destruction."

In yesterday's aerial actions, it was added, Nazi bombing squadrons subjected South England and various cities along the southeast coast to heavy bombardment. Important supply centers were declared hit.

More than 100 planes, said the official news agency DNB, were over London and 300,000 pounds of bombs were dropped. "Great destruction" and fires in nine different areas in London were declared to have been left.

The authoritative commentary service Dienst Aus Deutschland asserted that the British during August and September lost 2,474 airplanes against 706 for Germany, indignantly saying that the British had put the case the other way around.

Airports Turned Down in Senate

Economy Group Eliminates Proposal to Spend $80,000,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Senate economy advocates scored their first victory in many months today when a voice vote in that chamber eliminated $80,000,000 proposed to start improvements of 4,000 airports.

Senator Adams (D-Colo), in charge of a catch-all deficiency appropriation containing nearly $200,000,000, succeeded in eliminating the item. He contended that it had been approved by the House as a result of "misleading propaganda intended to put members of Congress on the hot spot."

Holding up a map of the United States showing dots for 4,000 airport projects sought by the civil aeronautics board, Adams said there were some in every state and every congressional district.

"These projects have been sprinkled over the country until this map looks like it had the chickenpox," he complained.

There was no evidence of careful planning, he said, or that particular projects were needed.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) replied that there could not be too many airfields in case of emergency and that the projects were largely limited to cities and towns that now have airports.

Previously it had been reported that von Ribbentrop would go to Moscow for conferences designed to clarify the Russian-Axis relationship following signature of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo "joint action" pact.

Rumors filled Berlin all day today, most of them connected with the question when and whether Spain would enter the war to give Germany and Italy a means of striking at the British fortress of Gibraltar.

Information arriving by various avenues from Rome suggested that the whole broad subject of the Mediterranean, Africa, the southeast and near east was concretely involved in discussions in the Italian capital between Italian officials and Ramon Serrano Suner, the Spanish minister of interior.

The Churchill cabinet shifts, pointed at carrying the winter warfare to the foe, clearly indicate the state of rBitish morale. They are proof-positive that no defeatist political undertow in bomb-blasted England is sapping at Churchill's authority.

The cabinet reshuffling seems too, to be Britain's direct answer to the German-Italian-Japanese pact. It tends to make Fascist press comment — counselling Japan on what to do, predicting her course, even forecasting Japanese siege of Britain's Singapore base on an "if" basis—sound like wishful thinking.

The Italian press Demarche might also be designed to cover Spain's failure to enlist against Britain, and the fact that Italy's own drive in Egypt is marking time except for Rome rumors of further progress. Time will tell about that; but no time is needed to see, in the London political developments, evidence that John Bull is just beginning to fight back.

Girl Scouts Start Shopping Service

THURMONT, Md., Oct. 3 (AP)—Want somebody to do your shopping mind your child or run an errand? If so, just call the Girl Scout Service Bureau.

The bureau, just organized by the girl scouts, whose leader is Miss Ethel Crawford, has adopted the slogan "prepared for service."

When called upon by anyone in the community the bureau will send a scout to do the job.

Communists Seek Place on Ballot

Their Case Will Be Argued in Annapolis Next Wednesday

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 3. (AP)—A court hearing will be held here next Wednesday on a suit to force the state to place the names of three Communist party candidates on the November election ballot.

Albert Blumberg, Communist candidate for the United States Senate, entered the suit against Secretary of State Francis Petrott on behalf of himself and Earl Browder and James W. Ford, Communist candidates for president and vice-president, respectively.

Blumberg said Petrott had no right to withhold certification of the candidates to the boards of election supervisors, keeping their names from the ballot. He asserted that the party had obtained 2,068 valid signatures on its nominating petition.

The law requires at least 2,000 signatures on a nominating petition.

Petrott's answer to the suit included a letter from Robert E. Stripling, secretary of the Dies-House committee, which said the Communist petition "contains 2,200 signatures."

Stripling said the Dies Committee's investigation of the petition "disclosed evidence of fraud and misrepresentation in the securing of over 300 signatures." He added:

"If 300 signatures which are appended to these petitions are shown not to be genuine, then the party has not qualified under the laws of the state of Maryland."

Judge Ridgely P. Melvin will preside at the hearing in the Anne Arundel county Circuit Court.

Woodshed Discipline Ordered for Boys Who Egged Willkies

PONTIAC, Mich., Oct. 3 (AP)—Woodshed discipline—a "good old-fashioned whipping"—was ordered in court today for three boys who threw eggs at the Wendell L. Willkie party Tuesday, and the parents were promised help if desired.

Juvenile Judge Arthur Moore, in passing sentence also requiring the boys to apologize before their high school assembly, commented that "somehow the acts of these students in throwing eggs is only part of an un-American attitude."

"The shooting, yellowing, cat-calling and other similar incidents that attended Mr. Willkie's reception in Pontiac were in another fashion disrespectful, ill-mannered, and more an insult to the people of Pontiac than to Mr. and Mrs. Willkie," the judge said.

The boys nodded their heads when Judge Moore asked if they believed they should be punished. To the parents the judge said:

"If you don't feel that you are equal to the occasion, your sons can be taken to the Oakland county juvenile home, where they will be properly spanked."

Each parent elected, however, to execute the sentence himself.

H. G. Wells Tells U. S. To Stay Out

British Author Says We Could Not Get Reasonable Settlement

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — The United States was advised today by H. G. Wells, British author, to stay out of the war "because your party politics would swamp anything like a reasonable settlement."

Wells arrived on the Cunard White Star liner Scythia, one of three British vessels that docked today with a total of 1,720 war refugees, and declared that Germany "is getting near the end of its tether."

The Scythia, out of Liverpool, brought 808 passengers, of whom 260 were children, including ninety youngsters coming under the auspices of the U. S. committee for the care of European children.

Also in from Liverpool were the Cunarder Samaria, with 811 passengers including 250 children, and the Furness-Prince liner Western Prince, with 101 passengers, thirty-seven of them children.

The Samaria had an exciting voyage, having been one of eight ships convoyed by four destroyers which were believed to have sunk some German submarines — "at lest two," passengers said.

Two days at sea, the Samaria was rocked by a violent explosion and adults and children were ordered to the lifeboats. But the explosion later was found to have been a depth charge from one of the destroyers.

Report Typhoid

fection was traced to the ship's water supply. The tanks and pipelines were immediately disinfected and medical authorities gave the freighter a clean bill of health.

When it docked at Halifax, N. S. a short time later, three more seamen were down with fever—and the infection again was traced to the water supply, sources here said.

Officials who declined to be quoted recalled that, during the World War, skilled saboteurs diluted ships' oil here with a substance of such consistency and specific gravity as to readily mix with the lucricant. Regarding the current investigation, the Sun said:

"How much damage to ship's machinery really resulted before the mischief was discovered, British sources are unwilling to discuss."

HERE'S RISKIEST JOB OF ALL

A British army "suicide squad" of the bomb disposal unit of the Royal Engineers, are pictured above gingerly lifting a heavy German time bomb from the crater it caused when it fell into a west London street. Since the bomb might explode at any time these fellows are real heroes—and how!

British Prisoner Likes German Food

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—A letter, passed through the German censorship, from a British prisoner in Germany to his father here:

"We get the best food I've ever eaten. The camp guards are all extremely decent and intelligent.

"Tell all my friends how well I am being treated. Tell my pals in the army. Tell them in the navy.

"Above all, tell it to the marines."

Six Small Children Killed by Germans

LONDON, Oct. 3. (AP), Six children, all about seven years old, were killed today when Nazi air raiders scored a direct hit on an elementary school in a midlands town.

Four of the children, a crippled boy and three girls, had been sent to the town from London only two weeks ago.

Nazi Bomb Drops Near Troop Train

BERLIN, Oct. 4 (Friday) (AP) — Authorized sources said tonight that a German bomb of the heaviest calibre was dropped yesterday directly in front of a twenty-five-coach British troop train, creating "an unique picture of destruction."

In yesterday's aerial actions, it was added, Nazi bombing squadrons subjected South England and various cities along the southeast coast to heavy bombardment. Important supply centers were declared hit.

More than 100 planes, said the official news agency DNB, were over London and 300,000 pounds of bombs were dropped. "Great destruction" and fires in nine different areas in London were declared to have been left.

The authoritative commentary service Dienst Aus Deutschland asserted that the British during August and September lost 2,474 airplanes against 706 for Germany, indignantly saying that the British had put the case the other way around.

Airports Turned Down in Senate

Economy Group Eliminates Proposal to Spend $80,000,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Senate economy advocates scored their first victory in many months today when a voice vote in that chamber eliminated $80,000,000 proposed to start improvements of 4,000 airports.

Senator Adams (D-Colo), in charge of a catch-all deficiency appropriation containing nearly $200,000,000, succeeded in eliminating the item. He contended that it had been approved by the House as a result of "misleading propaganda intended to put members of Congress on the hot spot."

Holding up a map of the United States showing dots for 4,000 airport projects sought by the civil aeronautics board, Adams said there were some in every state and every congressional district.

"These projects have been sprinkled over the country until this map looks like it had the chickenpox," he complained.

There was no evidence of careful planning, he said, or that particular projects were needed.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) replied that there could not be too many airfields in case of emergency and that the projects were largely limited to cities and towns that now have airports.

Conference

strictly secret in most instances until it becomes officially desirable to make them public.

Previously it had been reported that von Ribbentrop would go to Moscow for conferences designed to clarify the Russian-Axis relationship following signature of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo "joint action" pact.

Rumors filled Berlin all day today, most of them connected with the question when and whether Spain would enter the war to give Germany and Italy a means of striking at the British fortress of Gibraltar.

Information arriving by various avenues from Rome suggested that the whole broad subject of the Mediterranean, Africa, the southeast and near east was concretely involved in discussions in the Italian capital between Italian officials and Ramon Serrano Suner, the Spanish minister of interior.

The Three-Point Program Advocated by Willkie

IS THERE anyone with a grain of sense who cannot subscribe to the three-point program advocated by Wendell L. Willkie for meeting the basic needs of this country today?

Willkie would encourage increased production—not just by putting more men into jobs at existing factories but also by fostering new industries. The country can well stand 700,000 of these new enterprises, he thinks.

Willkie would stabilize our tax structure and put it upon a scientific, efficient and equitable basis. There are many who may be indifferent about this because they are not hit by the payments of direct taxes, or because their direct taxes are small. But when they wake up to the cold facts that they are, nevertheless, paying numerous hidden taxes, that these are increasing, that the prospects are for still more of them and that they are boosting the cost of living in an upward spiral, they certainly will be moved to do something toward stopping them. But business and industry, also, need tax relief because the existing unjust and burdensome taxes have just about "got them down."

Willkie would cut the red tape that is paralyzing the country by simplifying the multitude of regulations now obtaining and cutting down the weight of government demands for reports, and by stopping the hostile attitude of government toward free enterprise. These things would do more than anything else toward boosting industry and creating new enterprises, thereby giving the jobs the people need.

The question can be repeated. Is there any one with a grain of sense who cannot subscribe to this three-point program of essential needs? There can be no argument that the needs exist. Only one way of obtaining them remains to citizens, and that is by ousting a national management that has utterly failed to give them.

Officials' Families Leave the New Deal

NEW DEAL DEFECTIONS continue apace, and it is of interest to note that in instances of late they are including the wives and children of office holders under the New Deal, whose livelihood is in their jobs, making it necessary for them to "stay straight" but whose hearts are nevertheless troubling them.

Notable is the case of the family of Col. Philip B. Fleming, the federal Wage-Hour administrator, whose whole family has deserted him politically. Even the thought that a Willkie victory might result in the removal of Col. Fleming from his important government post has failed to erase his family's abhorance of a third term and all it implies.

The political schism began to develop soon after the Republican convention last June. The first to break ranks was Col. Fleming's twenty-year-old son, Carson, who went to St. Paul, Minn., for the summer and worked at the Willkie campaign headquarters there. Mrs. Fleming was next in line—she deserted last month—but not even her husband was surprised this time, because she is a life-long Republican.

Col. Fleming didn't know that he was the family's sole New Dealer until this week when word leaked out that his daughter, Jocelyn, 19, a junior at Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pa., had resigned her position as president of the college's Young Democratic Club in order to become a charter member of the Willkie Club, which will hold its first meeting on the campus next week.

There was even an intimation that Col. Fleming, despite his position, might be swayed by the superior forces. Carson, a sophomore at Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., declared in a telephone conversation that his father was "getting less and less strong" as a New Dealer.

Perhaps the colonel, like a good many other economically restrained New Deal office holders, will translate his feelings into his secret ballot in the November election. Anyway, the defection of his family gives hope that the women and youth of the country will do the obvious thing there.

Historical Facts Refute A New Deal Slogan

NEW DEAL STUMP SPEAKERS continue use of the slogan that the issue in this presidential campaign is Roosevelt versus Hitler. But, as the New York Herald Tribune points out, they use this false representation in the face of the record of contempt for the Roosevelt administration on the part of Hitler and his agents.

"This contempt," says the Herald Tribune, "stems from the scorn of the man of prompt action for the delayer of many words. It is the reaction of the gangster whose pockets are filled with revolvers for the country squire who, unarmed, lectures the gangster on his duty to amend his ways."

The record of two years of history is cited to bear out this point.

"At the time of the Munich conference," the Herald Tribune notes, "Mr. Roosevelt, eager to see Germany appeased, urged Mr. Hitler to settle affairs at the conference table and to preserve the peace of the world. Mr. Hitler went about his plans for war and partition without the least attention to Mr. Roosevelt. In April of the next year the president asked Mr. Hitler to pledge himself not to attack other nations. Mr. Hitler replied by a two-and-one-half-hour tirade reciting Germany's pacific intentions, and went right ahead preparing for war. As the fateful Sept. 1 approached Mr. Roosevelt once more sought to restrain Mr. Hitler. He once more paid not the least attention to Mr. Roosevelt's desires. In fact, a few months later the German government published a 'white paper' the burden of which was that American diplomatic agents in Europe had been inciting the British, French and Poles against the Germans.

"It does not require detailed knowledge of the conduct of international relations to realize that this Hitlerian record is not the reaction of a man who is afraid. Quite the contrary, it is the reaction of a man who feels that his adversary can do him no serious harm. Mr. Hitler knows just where he stands with Mr. Roosevelt. He looks upon the president as a man given to bluff and as easily bluffed. While he knows that Mr. Roosevelt is strongly anti-German he also knows that Mr. Roosevelt waited until the fall of France before translating his anti-German sentiments into positive anti-German acts. Why, then, should Germany 'fear' him?"

As the New York paper says, Hitler already knows full well what to expect from Roosevelt, but Willkie is to him an unknown quantity. Wherefore, it is suggested that, in the circumstances, it would appear to be politically discreet as well as personally decent for these New Dealers using the Hitler versus Roosevelt slogan to drop the allegation that the dictators are hoping for the defeat of Roosevelt.

The Herald Tribune wonders why they do not stick to the actual issues of the campaign. Well, there seems to be very good reason for that dodging.

Nazi Whimpering Gives Indications of Hurt

ALTHOUGH official communiques from Berlin minimize the effect of British air raids in German territory and in territory taken from others by Germany, there are indications from other sources that the damage is not negligible. For instance, there is the Hitler press, so full of threats of retaliation for British attacks.

"If Churchill and his airmen keep this up," thundered the Berlin newspaper, Der Angriff, "then England will not have enough blood and tears to satisfy our remorseless demand for revenge." The Lokal-Anzeiger talked of "annihilation" as retaliation, and the German radio said "We are counting every bomb dropped, and we shall repay them day after day and night after night."

Did Germany fancy that it could destroy and kill without inviting destruction and death? War is not a one-sided affair. If there is attack there must be defense. Threats of retaliation count for nothing, for retaliation is the certainty of war. German threats, therefore, may be put down as evidence that the whimpering nation making them has been deeply though possibly unexpectedly, and insufficiently, hurt.

A Hitler Nazi and a Roosevelt Stooge

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO the German consul at New Orleans was roundly criticized, and properly so, for trying to dictate the handling of Hitler's speeches in the German-language press in the United States.

It now appears that this sort of autocratic intrusiveness is not alone characteristic of Nazi agents in the United States. When the Chattanooga Times recently gave its editorial support to Wendell Willkie, one of the southern New Deal bigwigs immediately launched a boycott movement. He wrote to the Times's readers and advertisers, urging them to discontinue their subscriptions and cancel their advertising contracts as a protest against the paper's impudence in refusing to become a "ja" sheet.

Surely there isn't much difference between the Hitler Nazi at New Orleans and the Roosevelt stooge at Chattanooga in so far as the freedom of the press is concerned.

Who can say Mr. Willkie has been wrong in warning against the dangers of a third term and an intrenched political bureaucracy?

Perhaps the reason that Germany hasn't taken over Switzerland is because it's too small a country for Herr Goering to squeeze into for a triumphal parade.

You remember Candidate Roosevelt accepted the Democratic platform of '32 by 100 per cent. Well, he still has it 100 per cent intact and unused.

A tribe in Brazil is said to have no knowledge of arithmetic. The lucky rascals — that makes them income tax proof!

Use What Is Yours

By MARSHALL MASLIN

My friend went to Spain and brought back a handsome little brass box. About three inches by two inches and gave it to us.

It was very nice and very nice of him to be so thoughtful. But what will we do with it? At the moment we can't think of the answer. . . . Well, leave it on the desk for a while. It's pretty.

Marshall Maslin

So we leave it there. And after a few days we have some stamps and the box is handy. And we put the stamps in the little brass box and it's just the right place for them. So from now on, as long as we have the box and any stamps in the house, you'll always find them there, right there, nowhere else. . . . Light sighs of relief. It would have been unfair to that handsome brass box to find no use for it. Unfair to it, unfair to that careful worker, its maker in faroff, unhappy Spain.

And from that little brass box, the thoughts slip easily to the reflection that it is unfair to neglect anything that you have, any possession, any talent that is part of a man or a woman.

If a maiden has a charming smile, let her smile upon the world, let her smile upon me.

If a youth has a pleasant personality, let him put it to good work.

If a man has a knack for carving, for carpentering, for working with his hands, let him make a great clutter in the basement and produce something worthwhile.

If you have a pretty trinket in the house, useless as solemn folk judge such things, but useful in the sense that it delights the eye and sends a little glow through the beholder, bring it forth.

Men and women should use what they have, be what they are. If they have something that is ugly, if they have anything in them that is disagreeable and useless, let them throw it out, sell it to the junkman, get rid of it. . . . Our house is too small to give space in it to anything that is hampering, meaningless, worthless, not worth its salt.

Use or abandon. . . . Those are the happy man's alternatives.

Administration Is Delaying Defense, Gen. Johnson Says

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 — Is the rearmament program proceeding rapidly? Sidney Hillman, of the National Defense Advisory Commision, "advises" that no manufacturer who violates the various labor laws can be "awarded" a contract for work on the defense program and that the National Labor Relations Board will decide, for this purpose, whether or not an employer is "violating."

Hugh Johnson

Sidney, of course, has no authority. I would be willing to entrust to him the whole subject if he had. But he just "advises." The NLRB has already decided that the Bethlehem Steel Company is "violating."

Bethlehem already has hundreds of millions of dollars in defense contracts for steel that we have no facilities elsewhere to produce. Under the labor laws, Bethlehem has appealed NLRB's decision to the courts. Under those laws, also, it will not be conclusively binding until the courts act. In the meantime, Bethlehem is threatened with a CIO "organizing" strike and Mr. Hillman says he has not asked Phil Murray to delay it.

Friction on Board

There are now only two members of NLRB, Leiserson and Smith. The term of Chairman Madden has expired. Due to protests based on charges of his bias and unfairness the president has not reappointed him. The vacancy has existed for weeks. Some observers guess that the president wants to wait until after the election and then reappoint Mr. Madden. Mr. Smith and Mr. Leiserson agree on very few disputed points. Mr. Smith is an extreme left-winger—like Mr. Madden. Mr. Leiserson is middle-of-the-road. What they can't agree on is put on ice until appointment of a third member with the deciding vote.

Over in the selective service draft system, although the new organization is under way, no administrator has been appointed. Some mysterious inner pressures—probably the senile war-minded Mr. Stimson—prevented a solution of this problem which was perfection—the experienced and judicious veteran of the World war draft, Gen. Guillion, for administrator—the young, and vigorous Col. Hershey as its chief executive. Either alone would have been satisfactory. The team couldn't have been bettered.

Has No Head

As in NLRB, no responsible head has been appointed. Col. Hershey has been "detailed" to go through in an "acting" capacity.

In the name of mere mediocrity, why? The big job in the draft is the beginning—setting up the selective service system anud selling it to the people. That requires experience, expertness—even genius. After that it is a routine mechanical job. This beginning also requires some prestige of position in the administrator. It certainly requires unquestioned authority and full responsibility.

Selective service started off with the terrible shock to public confidence in its sole foundation—fairness—and to the morale of the whole army officers' corps through the appointment of the unqualified Elliott Roosevelt as a captain in the Air Corps.

If even a job needed a fully authorized and qualified leader—right now—it is the selective draft at the most critical moment of its existence—its beginning with an explosive blunder. What are we waiting for? The selection of a suitable stuffed shirt to take credit for Col. Hershey's hobbled work—or for pure politics—politics in defense?

Delays Are 'Perfect'

I doubt is more effective causes for delay could be imagined—giving the Labor Relations Board a veto power over defense contracts, subject to the slow process of judicial Labor board, and emasculation the selective service project by the some process by which we are hamstringing the whole defense effort—refusal or neglect to erect competent and responsible authorities with full authority to decide and to act—instantly.

This is the kind of administration that we are told is indispensable—indispensable because of its ability in carrying out its domestic policies of recovery, which are a mess of reeking ruins—indispersable because of its skill in conducting our foreign relations, which are in the worst state in our history—and now, indispensable for its skill in preparing our defense. The condition recited here is only a small example of its complete ineptitude in this field.

BIG HEARTED BROTHER DICTATORS

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—There are a few who claim to see the pattern of today's events, to see the relation of events to each other, and see the whole as having unity. Without doubting their sincerity, we can doubt the correctness of their vision. The greatest sincerity is often accompanied by defect of vision. Just where the forces arose that now rend the world, the differing directions these forces take, how they react upon each other, and especially the outcome, the final resultant—all that will be clear only after the passing of years.

Mark Sullivan

It is possible to pick out concrete factors, and see their direction. In the United States today are two such factors. One is our increasing approach toward war, toward embroilment in the world conflict. The other is our coming presidential election. How are these two related?

A Faint Clue

There is a faint clue in a local incident. In Wisconsin, Senator Robert M. LaFollette endorses President Roosevelt for a third term. To a degree, this may be explained by the fact that Senator LaFollette is a candidate for re-election; he may feel that in the Wisconsin conditions, his chances would be furthered by supporting Mr. Roosevelt.

But look deeper. Here is a senator who has been an outstanding opponent of a third term, for anybody at any time. It was he who, in August 1927, introduced the resolution which said that the anti-third term tradition is "a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our institutions."

For Neutrality

Further, Senator LaFollette was for neutrality, perhaps it would be tenable to say for isolation. He opposed President Roosevelt's change in the arms embargo, the change which made it possible for the Allies to get supplies from the United States. And here is Mr. Roosevelt by word and action strongly favoring help to the Allies before France fell, and Britain since. And here is Mr. Roosevelt's active running mate on the ticket, Vice-Presidential Candidate Henry A. Wallace, taking a course which seems to make our presidential campaign a contest between Roosevelt and Hitler.

Clearly, it is not Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward the war that causes Senator LaFollette to want him in office four years more. The reason must therefore lie in what Mr. Roosevelt is expected to do in the domestic field. Without imputing any motive to Senator LaFollette specifically, it is this that leads many liberals, New Dealers, and radicals to support the third term. Their minds are not mainly on what Mr. Roosevelt will do about the war, but on what Mr. Roosevelt will do about the war, but on what Mr. Roosevelt will do in the form of change here in America.

Totalitarian Government Seen

What will happen, domestically, if war comes? The first step will be the organization of the United States in a manner not differing materially from the totalitarian organization of Germany, Italy and Russia. This organization for war purposes would occur in large part no matter who is president. It would be brought about for the sake of necessary efficiency in war, by either Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Willkie.

The difference lies in what each would do at the end of war. Mr. Willkie could be expected to demobilize the war-time organization, to divest himself of war powers, as readily as President Wilson did at the end of the Great war.

Would Mr. Roosevelt do the same? Can we expect he would? Certainly those who have made Mr. Roosevelt's program so far, do not expect that he, at the end of a war, nor at any time willingly, would turn America back from the course of centralized authority. To the New Dealers who have already pushed America along this course, both the war and the third term spell opportunity.

Would Undermine Resistance

The third term spells opportunity because it would be the destruction of what Senator LaFollette once called "a part of our republican system of government." Destruction of this one part would be, to our people, a psychological dissolvement. It would undermine their resistance to further change. It would tend to create that intellectual daze and spiritual confusion in which the engineers of fundamental change could work. It would be the breaking of the first egg in the process by which the omelet of a new order could be achieved.

War would be opportunity in the same sense in which it has already been opportunity. Before the war arose in Europe a year ago, America was engaged in correcting the excesses of the early New Deal. But with the approach of war to our own shores, this stopped. Had the war not come close to us, Mr. Roosevelt would hardly have attempted to remain in office; he himself put his acceptance of a third nomination on the ground of the menace of war.

The mere approach of war has accomplished this. The actuality of war would see the adoption of centralized authority to the last degree. Already this is clamored for. It is called "total war". Hardly any thoughtful person would hope that at the end of the war, if Mr. Roosevelt were president, the centralized authority would be demobilized.

Cogent Reasons Still Apply

From the Morgantown, W. Va., Post

In view of the wide publicity being given by the Third Termers to the editorial announcement of the Louisville Courier-Journal, leading Democratic newspaper, that it will support Mr. Roosevelt for a third term, it is not inappropriate to consider another editorial which appeared in that newspaper three decades ago.

On Oct. 12, 1910, the Courier-Journal published an editorial from the pen of its most famous editor, the late Henry Watterson, which dealt directly with the third-term issue. After enumerating some of the powers then possessed by the president (only a small fraction of the president's powers today), "Marse Henry" wrote as follows:

"In the hands of a strong, ambitious, and unscrupulous man, nothing short of armed resistance could stand against such an array of forces, and armed resistance could nowhere organize itself against a president having the foresight to provide against it; able by word to concentrate troops at any given point; by the touch of a button to order the arrest of the resistant at the furthest ends of the Republic.

"There is no tyranny more unreasonable than that of majorities; no despotism so relentless as party despotism.

"Backed by these, while inventing a pretext, a president of the United States could do with impunity what a Czar of Russia, or a Sultan of Turkey, would never dare attempt. Thus throughout the ages have absolutism and arbitrary power done their perfect work.

"All that stands between the people and these is the time limit set upon the presidential elections and the third term tradition bequeathed us by Washington ,which has for a period of a hundred years restricted the individual occupancy of the presidential chair to eight years.

"Lift this time limit and life tenure is the logical consequence. Life tenure means absolutism and arbitrary power. Under the title of president we would have an autocrat, having already an Imperial Republic under democratic forms and names."

If the third term tradition was all that stood between the United States and "absolutism" in 1910, how transcendentally more compelling are the reasons why we should refuse in this year of 1940 to surrender this protection of our rights and our liberties!

Invasion of 1066 Not Comparable With the Present

By EDWIN C. HILL

History never repeats itself. The Lady—for History must be feminine for such obvious reasons—is far too versatile for that.

Edwin C. Hill

So that the invasion of England by Hitler, predicted by Churchill and promised by Goering to occur within a very short time cannot reasonably be compared — even if it does come off —to the invasion and subsequent conquest of England by William the Conqueror in the year 1066.

By a combination of daring and phenomenal good luck, the son of Robert the Devil won England in a single battle. William, you remember, was a cousin of the English king of that day, Edward the Confessor, so-called because he was a very pious and God-fearing man, as kings went in those days. William visited King Edward and obtained the king's promise to make him heir to the English throne.

Killed by Arrow

But when Edward died he left the crown to Harold the Saxon, and the angry William promptly raised an army of big, tough, yellow-haired, blue-eyed Normans, built a fleet of boats at Dives Cabourg, near Deauville, sailed across the Channel, landed on the beach near the site of Dover and defeated Harold in the Battle of Hastings nearby. Harold died when an arrow, descending like a spent rocket pierced through his left eye to the brain.

It took William five years to complete the conquest of the Saxon nobles, franklins and their freemen and serfs, and to do so William had to lay waste huge regions of fair England, such as the whole vale of York. There was a reason why the Norman conqueror landed on the beach near Dover, the best of reasons. It was the shortest distance between two points, just twenty miles from Dives to Dover.

Easily Seen

Any clear day you can look across the Channel from the French side and see the white chalk cliffs of Dover, and you can look across from the English side and see the Norman fishermen.

Dover Beach set the stage of tremendous events, a stage where great figures have trodden in the world's history—Caesar, William the Conqueror and now, it may be, Hitler. Long ago the poet Matthew Arnold immortalized Dover Beach, and his concluding lines are so prophetic as to startle one. Matthew Arnold's famous poem which comes into mind because of the threat delivered by Herr Hitler and Goering and the Nazis that they are going to take off for the invasion of the English Channel at just about that point because it stands on the French side at the shortest distance across the bay:

Peaceful but Sad

"The sea is calm tonight. The tide is full, the moon lies fair upon the straits. On the French coast, the light gleams and is gone. The cliffs of England stand glimmering and vast, out in the tranquil bay. Come to the window. Sweet is the night air. Only from the long line of spray where the ebb meets the moon-blanched sand—Listen! you hear the grating roar of pebbles which the waves suck back, and fling at their return, up the high strand,—begin, and cease, and then again begin,—with tremulous cadence slow, and bring the eternal note of sadness in.

"Ah, love let us be true to one another for the world which seems to lie before us like a land of dreams, so various so beautiful, so new, hath really neither joy, nor love, nor light, nor certitude, nor peace, nor help for pain. And we are here as on a darkling plain, swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight, where ignorant armies clash by night."—(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

British Win World Applause

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

In the war up to now only one country has suffered a loss of national honor—France. Whatever the war's outcome, one nation at least will emerge with its honor unimpaired—Great Britain.

The collapse of France remains a mystery, despite the small mountain of explanations that has piled up since the middle of June. When one remembers the centuries of great military traditions in France, her heroic victory in the World War, the French peasant's fierce independence and fanatical love of his natice soil, the catastrophe still seems incredible. This generation of Americans has not earned the right to pass judgment on any country, but the sorry fact remains that France as a nation has been dishonored.

The British, on the other hand, have won the admiration of the world and perhaps have astonished themselves by their resistance to Nazi might. The performance of the Royal Air Force is the outstanding surprise of the war. It has been a shocking surprise to Herr Von Ribbentrop, who contemptuously predicted that the British would never fight. Undoubtedly, too, it has surprised many Americans. This writer can well remember the spirit of defeatism in Britain during the late twenties and early thirties. The depression, the general strike, the cancerous growth of the "depressed areas" deeply troubled Englishmen in those years. Books, pamphlets and letters to the Times asked the question, "Is England Through?"

These doubts were deepend later by the tragic delays of disarmament and the failures of Ethiopia and Munich. Britain's self-confidence must have touched bottom after the retreats from Norway and Dunkerque. But when confronted by the task of defending their homeland, the British showed the stuff of which their ancestors were made. In Britain today soldiers and civilians alike are acting like men who feel the pressure of a heroic past and know that they are making traditions for the future. Their conduct is the pattern by which alone great nations can survive great crises.

The Three-Point Program Advocated by Willkie

IS THERE anyone with a grain of sense who cannot subscribe to the three-point program advocated by Wendell L. Willkie for meeting the basic needs of this country today?

Willkie would encourage increased production—not just by putting more men into jobs at existing factories but also by fostering new industries. The country can well stand 700,000 of these new enterprises, he thinks.

Willkie would stabilize our tax structure and put it upon a scientific, efficient and equitable basis. There are many who may be indifferent about this because they are not hit by the payments of direct taxes, or because their direct taxes are small. But when they wake up to the cold facts that they are, nevertheless, paying numerous hidden taxes, that these are increasing, that the prospects are for still more of them and that they are boosting the cost of living in an upward spiral, they certainly will be moved to do something toward stopping them. But business and industry, also, need tax relief because the existing unjust and burdensome taxes have just about "got them down."

Willkie would cut the red tape that is paralyzing the country by simplifying the multitude of regulations now obtaining and cutting down the weight of government demands for reports, and by stopping the hostile attitude of government toward free enterprise. These things would do more than anything else toward boosting industry and creating new enterprises, thereby giving the jobs the people need.

The question can be repeated. Is there any one with a grain of sense who cannot subscribe to this three-point program of essential needs? There can be no argument that the needs exist. Only one way of obtaining them remains to citizens, and that is by ousting a national management that has utterly failed to give them.

Officials' Families Leave the New Deal

NEW DEAL DEFECTIONS continue apace, and it is of interest to note that in instances of late they are including the wives and children of office holders under the New Deal, whose livelihood is in their jobs, making it necessary for them to "stay straight" but whose hearts are nevertheless troubling them.

Notable is the case of the family of Col. Philip B. Fleming, the federal Wage-Hour administrator, whose whole family has deserted him politically. Even the thought that a Willkie victory might result in the removal of Col. Fleming from his important government post has failed to erase his family's abhorance of a third term and all it implies.

The political schism began to develop soon after the Republican convention last June. The first to break ranks was Col. Fleming's twenty-year-old son, Carson, who went to St. Paul, Minn., for the summer and worked at the Willkie campaign headquarters there. Mrs. Fleming was next in line—she deserted last month—but not even her husband was surprised this time, because she is a life-long Republican.

Col. Fleming didn't know that he was the family's sole New Dealer until this week when word leaked out that his daughter, Jocelyn, 19, a junior at Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pa., had resigned her position as president of the college's Young Democratic Club in order to become a charter member of the Willkie Club, which will hold its first meeting on the campus next week.

There was even an intimation that Col. Fleming, despite his position, might be swayed by the superior forces. Carson, a sophomore at Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., declared in a telephone conversation that his father was "getting less and less strong" as a New Dealer.

Perhaps the colonel, like a good many other economically restrained New Deal office holders, will translate his feelings into his secret ballot in the November election. Anyway, the defection of his family gives hope that the women and youth of the country will do the obvious thing there.

Historical Facts Refute A New Deal Slogan

NEW DEAL STUMP SPEAKERS continue use of the slogan that the issue in this presidential campaign is Roosevelt versus Hitler. But, as the New York Herald Tribune points out, they use this false representation in the face of the record of contempt for the Roosevelt administration on the part of Hitler and his agents.

"This contempt," says the Herald Tribune, "stems from the scorn of the man of prompt action for the delayer of many words. It is the reaction of the gangster whose pockets are filled with revolvers for the country squire who, unarmed, lectures the gangster on his duty to amend his ways."

The record of two years of history is cited to bear out this point.

"At the time of the Munich conference," the Herald Tribune notes, "Mr. Roosevelt, eager to see Germany appeased, urged Mr. Hitler to settle affairs at the conference table and to preserve the peace of the world. Mr. Hitler went about his plans for war and partition without the least attention to Mr. Roosevelt. In April of the next year the president asked Mr. Hitler to pledge himself not to attack other nations. Mr. Hitler replied by a two-and-one-half-hour tirade reciting Germany's pacific intentions, and went right ahead preparing for war. As the fateful Sept. 1 approached Mr. Roosevelt once more sought to restrain Mr. Hitler. He once more paid not the least attention to Mr. Roosevelt's desires. In fact, a few months later the German government published a 'white paper' the burden of which was that American diplomatic agents in Europe had been inciting the British, French and Poles against the Germans.

"It does not require detailed knowledge of the conduct of international relations to realize that this Hitlerian record is not the reaction of a man who is afraid. Quite the contrary, it is the reaction of a man who feels that his adversary can do him no serious harm. Mr. Hitler knows just where he stands with Mr. Roosevelt. He looks upon the president as a man given to bluff and as easily bluffed. While he knows that Mr. Roosevelt is strongly anti-German he also knows that Mr. Roosevelt waited until the fall of France before translating his anti-German sentiments into positive anti-German acts. Why, then, should Germany 'fear' him?"

As the New York paper says, Hitler already knows full well what to expect from Roosevelt, but Willkie is to him an unknown quantity. Wherefore, it is suggested that, in the circumstances, it would appear to be politically discreet as well as personally decent for these New Dealers using the Hitler versus Roosevelt slogan to drop the allegation that the dictators are hoping for the defeat of Roosevelt.

The Herald Tribune wonders why they do not stick to the actual issues of the campaign. Well, there seems to be very good reason for that dodging.

Nazi Whimpering Gives Indications of Hurt

ALTHOUGH official communiques from Berlin minimize the effect of British air raids in German territory and in territory taken from others by Germany, there are indications from other sources that the damage is not negligible. For instance, there is the Hitler press, so full of threats of retaliation for British attacks.

"If Churchill and his airmen keep this up," thundered the Berlin newspaper, Der Angriff, "then England will not have enough blood and tears to satisfy our remorseless demand for revenge." The Lokal-Anzeiger talked of "annihilation" as retaliation, and the German radio said "We are counting every bomb dropped, and we shall repay them day after day and night after night."

Did Germany fancy that it could destroy and kill without inviting destruction and death? War is not a one-sided affair. If there is attack there must be defense. Threats of retaliation count for nothing, for retaliation is the certainty of war. German threats, therefore, may be put down as evidence that the whimpering nation making them has been deeply though possibly unexpectedly, and insufficiently, hurt.

A Hitler Nazi and a Roosevelt Stooge

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO the German consul at New Orleans was roundly criticized, and properly so, for trying to dictate the handling of Hitler's speeches in the German-language press in the United States.

It now appears that this sort of autocratic intrusiveness is not alone characteristic of Nazi agents in the United States. When the Chattanooga Times recently gave its editorial support to Wendell Willkie, one of the southern New Deal bigwigs immediately launched a boycott movement. He wrote to the Times's readers and advertisers, urging them to discontinue their subscriptions and cancel their advertising contracts as a protest against the paper's impudence in refusing to become a "ja" sheet.

Surely there isn't much difference between the Hitler Nazi at New Orleans and the Roosevelt stooge at Chattanooga in so far as the freedom of the press is concerned.

Who can say Mr. Willkie has been wrong in warning against the dangers of a third term and an intrenched political bureaucracy?

Perhaps the reason that Germany hasn't taken over Switzerland is because it's too small a country for Herr Goering to squeeze into for a triumphal parade.

You remember Candidate Roosevelt accepted the Democratic platform of '32 by 100 per cent. Well, he still has it 100 per cent intact and unused.

A tribe in Brazil is said to have no knowledge of arithmetic. The lucky rascals — that makes them income tax proof!

BIG HEARTED BROTHER DICTATORS

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—There are a few who claim to see the pattern of today's events, to see the relation of events to each other, and see the whole as having unity. Without doubting their sincerity, we can doubt the correctness of their vision. The greatest sincerity is often accompanied by defect of vision. Just where the forces arose that now rend the world, the differing directions these forces take, how they react upon each other, and especially the outcome, the final resultant—all that will be clear only after the passing of years.

Mark Sullivan

It is possible to pick out concrete factors, and see their direction. In the United States today are two such factors. One is our increasing approach toward war, toward embroilment in the world conflict. The other is our coming presidential election. How are these two related?

A Faint Clue

There is a faint clue in a local incident. In Wisconsin, Senator Robert M. LaFollette endorses President Roosevelt for a third term. To a degree, this may be explained by the fact that Senator LaFollette is a candidate for re-election; he may feel that in the Wisconsin conditions, his chances would be furthered by supporting Mr. Roosevelt.

But look deeper. Here is a senator who has been an outstanding opponent of a third term, for anybody at any time. It was he who, in August 1927, introduced the resolution which said that the anti-third term tradition is "a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our institutions."

For Neutrality

Further, Senator LaFollette was for neutrality, perhaps it would be tenable to say for isolation. He opposed President Roosevelt's change in the arms embargo, the change which made it possible for the Allies to get supplies from the United States. And here is Mr. Roosevelt by word and action strongly favoring help to the Allies before France fell, and Britain since. And here is Mr. Roosevelt's active running mate on the ticket, Vice-Presidential Candidate Henry A. Wallace, taking a course which seems to make our presidential campaign a contest between Roosevelt and Hitler.

Clearly, it is not Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward the war that causes Senator LaFollette to want him in office four years more. The reason must therefore lie in what Mr. Roosevelt is expected to do in the domestic field. Without imputing any motive to Senator LaFollette specifically, it is this that leads many liberals, New Dealers, and radicals to support the third term. Their minds are not mainly on what Mr. Roosevelt will do about the war, but on what Mr. Roosevelt will do about the war, but on what Mr. Roosevelt will do in the form of change here in America.

Totalitarian Government Seen

What will happen, domestically, if war comes? The first step will be the organization of the United States in a manner not differing materially from the totalitarian organization of Germany, Italy and Russia. This organization for war purposes would occur in large part no matter who is president. It would be brought about for the sake of necessary efficiency in war, by either Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Willkie.

The difference lies in what each would do at the end of war. Mr. Willkie could be expected to demobilize the war-time organization, to divest himself of war powers, as readily as President Wilson did at the end of the Great war.

Would Mr. Roosevelt do the same? Can we expect he would? Certainly those who have made Mr. Roosevelt's program so far, do not expect that he, at the end of a war, nor at any time willingly, would turn America back from the course of centralized authority. To the New Dealers who have already pushed America along this course, both the war and the third term spell opportunity.

Would Undermine Resistance

The third term spells opportunity because it would be the destruction of what Senator LaFollette once called "a part of our republican system of government." Destruction of this one part would be, to our people, a psychological dissolvement. It would undermine their resistance to further change. It would tend to create that intellectual daze and spiritual confusion in which the engineers of fundamental change could work. It would be the breaking of the first egg in the process by which the omelet of a new order could be achieved.

War would be opportunity in the same sense in which it has already been opportunity. Before the war arose in Europe a year ago, America was engaged in correcting the excesses of the early New Deal. But with the approach of war to our own shores, this stopped. Had the war not come close to us, Mr. Roosevelt would hardly have attempted to remain in office; he himself put his acceptance of a third nomination on the ground of the menace of war.

The mere approach of war has accomplished this. The actuality of war would see the adoption of centralized authority to the last degree. Already this is clamored for. It is called "total war". Hardly any thoughtful person would hope that at the end of the war, if Mr. Roosevelt were president, the centralized authority would be demobilized.

Cogent Reasons Still Apply

From the Morgantown, W. Va., Post

In view of the wide publicity being given by the Third Termers to the editorial announcement of the Louisville Courier-Journal, leading Democratic newspaper, that it will support Mr. Roosevelt for a third term, it is not inappropriate to consider another editorial which appeared in that newspaper three decades ago.

On Oct. 12, 1910, the Courier-Journal published an editorial from the pen of its most famous editor, the late Henry Watterson, which dealt directly with the third-term issue. After enumerating some of the powers then possessed by the president (only a small fraction of the president's powers today), "Marse Henry" wrote as follows:

"In the hands of a strong, ambitious, and unscrupulous man, nothing short of armed resistance could stand against such an array of forces, and armed resistance could nowhere organize itself against a president having the foresight to provide against it; able by word to concentrate troops at any given point; by the touch of a button to order the arrest of the resistant at the furthest ends of the Republic.

"There is no tyranny more unreasonable than that of majorities; no despotism so relentless as party despotism.

"Backed by these, while inventing a pretext, a president of the United States could do with impunity what a Czar of Russia, or a Sultan of Turkey, would never dare attempt. Thus throughout the ages have absolutism and arbitrary power done their perfect work.

"All that stands between the people and these is the time limit set upon the presidential elections and the third term tradition bequeathed us by Washington ,which has for a period of a hundred years restricted the individual occupancy of the presidential chair to eight years.

"Lift this time limit and life tenure is the logical consequence. Life tenure means absolutism and arbitrary power. Under the title of president we would have an autocrat, having already an Imperial Republic under democratic forms and names."

If the third term tradition was all that stood between the United States and "absolutism" in 1910, how transcendentally more compelling are the reasons why we should refuse in this year of 1940 to surrender this protection of our rights and our liberties!

Invasion of 1066 Not Comparable With the Present

By EDWIN C. HILL

Edwin C. Hill

History never repeats itself. The Lady—for History must be feminine for such obvious reasons—is far too versatile for that. So that the invasion of England by Hitler, predicted by Churchill and promised by Goering to occur within a very short time cannot reasonably be compared — even if it does come off —to the invasion and subsequent conquest of England by William the Conqueror in the year 1066.

By a combination of daring and phenomenal good luck, the son of Robert the Devil won England in a single battle. William, you remember, was a cousin of the English king of that day, Edward the Confessor, so-called because he was a very pious and God-fearing man, as kings went in those days. William visited King Edward and obtained the king's promise to make him heir to the English throne.

But when Edward died he left the crown to Harold the Saxon, and the angry William promptly raised an army of big, tough, yellow-haired, blue-eyed Normans, built a fleet of boats at Dives Cabourg, near Deauville, sailed across the Channel, landed on the beach near the site of Dover and defeated Harold in the Battle of Hastings nearby. Harold died when an arrow, descending like a spent rocket pierced through his left eye to the brain.

It took William five years to complete the conquest of the Saxon nobles, franklins and their freemen and serfs, and to do so William had to lay waste huge regions of fair England, such as the whole vale of York. There was a reason why the Norman conqueror landed on the beach near Dover, the best of reasons. It was the shortest distance between two points, just twenty miles from Dives to Dover.

Easily Seen

Any clear day you can look across the Channel from the French side and see the white chalk cliffs of Dover, and you can look across from the English side and see the Norman fishermen.

Dover Beach set the stage of tremendous events, a stage where great figures have trodden in the world's history—Caesar, William the Conqueror and now, it may be, Hitler. Long ago the poet Matthew Arnold immortalized Dover Beach, and his concluding lines are so prophetic as to startle one. Matthew Arnold's famous poem which comes into mind because of the threat delivered by Herr Hitler and Goering and the Nazis that they are going to take off for the invasion of the English Channel at just about that point because it stands on the French side at the shortest distance across the bay:

Peaceful but Sad

"The sea is calm tonight. The tide is full, the moon lies fair upon the straits. On the French coast, the light gleams and is gone. The cliffs of England stand glimmering and vast, out in the tranquil bay. Come to the window. Sweet is the night air. Only from the long line of spray where the ebb meets the moon-blanched sand—Listen! you hear the grating roar of pebbles which the waves suck back, and fling at their return, up the high strand,—begin, and cease, and then again begin,—with tremulous cadence slow, and bring the eternal note of sadness in.

"Ah, love let us be true to one another for the world which seems to lie before us like a land of dreams, so various so beautiful, so new, hath really neither joy, nor love, nor light, nor certitude, nor peace, nor help for pain. And we are here as on a darkling plain, swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight, where ignorant armies clash by night."—(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

British Win World Applause

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

In the war up to now only one country has suffered a loss of national honor—France. Whatever the war's outcome, one nation at least will emerge with its honor unimpaired—Great Britain.

The collapse of France remains a mystery, despite the small mountain of explanations that has piled up since the middle of June. When one remembers the centuries of great military traditions in France, her herioc victory in the World War, the French peasant's fierce independence and fanatical love of his native soil, the catastrophe still seems incredible. This generation of Americans has not earned the right to pass judgment on any country, but the sorry fact remains that France as a nation has been dishonored.

The British, on the other hand, have won the admiration of the world and perhaps have astonished themselves by their resistance to Nazi might. The performance of the Royal Air Force is the outstanding surprise of the war. It has been a shocking surprise to Herr Von Ribbentrop, who contemptuously predicted that the British would never fight. Undoubtedly, too, it has surprised many Americans. This writer can well remember the spirit of defeatism in Britain during the late twenties and early thirties. The depression, the general strike, the cancerous growth of the "depressed areas" deeply troubled Englishmen in those years. Books, pamphlets and letters to the Times asked the question, "Is England Through?"

These doubts were deepend later by the tragic delays of disarmament and the failures of Ethiopia and Munich. Britain's self-confidence must have touched bottom after the retreats from Norway and Dunkerque. But when confronted by the task of defending their homeland, the British showed the stuff of which their ancestors were made. In Britain today soldiers and civilians alike are acting like men who feel the pressure of a heroic past and know that they are making traditions for the future. Their conduct is the pattern by which alone great nations can survive great crises.

Married in Church

The marriage of Miss Theresa Nies, daughter of John A. Nies, 615 North Centre street, and John Raymond Fogle, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fogle, 216 Piedmont avenue, took place September 20 in Trinity Lutheran church. The Rev. William von Spreckelson performed the ceremony.

William R. Pifer and Jean J. Jeffries, Keyser, W. Va., were the attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Fogle will be at home at 615 North Centre street.

Announces Marriage

Mrs. Amelia Miller, 428 North Centre street, has announced the marriage of her daughter, Rhoda Louise, to Claude Moore, son of Ralph More, Chestnut street at SS. Peter and Paul rectory Tuesday.

Wilbur Powell and Evelyn Easton were the attendants.

The bride was attired in soldier blue with a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, supper was served to twenty-eight guests. A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore will reside at 240 North Centre street.

Plans Are Made

A schedule for the coming school year was planned at a meeting at 3:15 yesterday afternoon of the Executive committee of the West Side Parent-Teachers Association which was held at the school. This was the first business meeting to be held by the association.

Events in Brief

A party was given honoring Billy Myers on his first birthday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Myers, 440 Maryland avenue. Present were Margaret Deitrich and daughter, Shirley Ann, Mary E. Hager and son, Bobby, Lacy Harrison and son Billy and Betty Myers.

Plans for an educational program to be presented on Wednesday, November 15 wered iscussed last night at a meeting of the Flintstone Alumni Association at the home of Miss Mary Wigfield. Suspect Change in Tactics

The nature of the Nazi day atcks moved some British informts to suggest that perhaps the rmans had changed their tactics, w that the season of generally d weather is at hand, from preion to "blind-bombing"—that cs would simply fly beyond the ach of the anti-aircraft batteries d let go.

In this connection, British aircft experts said that German sserschmitt planes, in the past d as fighters or escorts for bombwere now being converted into mbers for quick, unstudied dayght forays.

In Nazi raids of Wednesday night ich went on into the morning re was a like absence of material mage, the government declared. a famous school in London's thwest environs, a cluster of inndiary bombs set off a fire over ich firemen labored for hours fore they brought it into control. THESE ARE NAZI INVASION BARGES

This photo, made from a Royal Air Force plane and passed by the British censor, shows barges (arrows) at Dunkirk. The vessels, supposed to have been prepared for the invasion of England, are all that were left after a concentrated British air raid which also destroyed the British claim, many Dunkirk warehouses and supply trains.

Seven Million Tons of British Shipping Claimed Sunk by Nazis

BERLIN, Oct. 3 (AP)—The semi-official news agency Dienst Aus Deutschland claimed today German submarines and airplanes had sunk 7,000,000 tons of English shipping, not counting vessels of less than 2,-000 tons, since the start of the war.

The agency said submarines had sunk 5,000,000 tons and the air force 2,000,000 tons, or nearly half Britain's total merchant marine. At the outstart of the war, the agency declared the English had 15,800,000 tons.

(Whitaker's almanac, a British publication, lists the gross tonnage owned by Great Britain and Ireland as 13,621,157 in 1939 and 2,638,003 tons owned by the British dominions and colonies, a total of 16,259,160.)

(Lloyd register of shipping gives a total of 21,001,825 tons of shipping of 100 gross tons or more—8,977 steamships and motorships—in the hands of the British empire.)

(Up to July 1, Germany claimed to have destroyed 4,329,213 tons of British shipping. The new figure of 7,000,000 tons would mean an average of nearly 1,000,000 tons per month sunk since that time)

British Deny Reports

(British authorities admit only a fraction of this figure and say their losses have been more than offset by tonnage acquired from Norway, Denmark, Belgium, Holland and France, and by new ships.)

Unrelenting pressure by sea and air on Britain, with emphasis on her maritime transport, was reported today by the German high command, coinciding with a German magazine's suggestion that this type of war—not actual invasion—may be all that is necessary to conquer the British.

One submarine sank the 14,172-ton British armed merchant ship, Highland Patriot, somewhere in the Atlantic, the Nazi war directorate said while another, just returned from a tour, was said to have destroyed eight British armed merchant ships in "one operation"—a total of 42,644 tons.

Reach Far into Atlantic

A raiding group of one air fighting squadron was said to have sunk about 90,000 tons of British shipping in the last six weeks, and to have damaged more than 40,000 tons, often reaching "far into the Atlantic."

The magazine Das Reich suggested under the heading, "the over-delayed landing," that actual land invasion of England would not be necessary to clinch the victory which Germany already has won on the continent.

Neutral observers were unable, however, to attach more than casual significance to the comment.

labor and industry — then changes would be in order."

Regrets Labor Split

With obvious reference to the split between the American Federation of Labor and the CIO, Willkie declared that "the great civil war within the ranks of labor is a source of sorrow and worry to the whole American people.

"None, least of all, labor, can profit from it," he said.

"I shall not, as the third term candidate did, do things that cause you to be divided."

"I shall not, as the third term candidate once did, call down a plague on both your houses."

"I will, on the contrary, use the high office of president to the best of my ability to bring labor together. I stand for a united labor movement — just as I am for a united American people. A house divided against itself can not stand."

Saying that division in ranks made labor "the natural prey of unscrupulous politicians," the candidate added that "a united labor movement is the strongest defense the Democratic process can have."

Describing "the real job" of the labor relations board as "to help people work together," Willkie added he wanted to make seven points:

Willkie's Labor Program

1. The government should "offer a high grade conciliation service when industrial disputes threaten."

2. "There should be some decentralization of federal government activities in the labor field . . x x ."

3. States should be encouraged to strengthen their machinery for settling labor disputes.

4. Fair minimum wages "below which no employer can go" should be established "and the law enforced, both north and south."

5. Maximum hour standards should provide "a fair day's work for a fair day's pay."

6. Social security should be extended to those not now covered.

7. "I will tie labor into the councils of our government. For too long, it has been excluded from the council table."

Willkie declared that if he were elected he would "immediately clear out from the federal government all Communists and their fellow travelers."

"Mr. Earl Browder," he continued "will have no occasion—or wish—to recommend me for a third term."

After speaking in Ohio and Pennsylvania industrial cities during the morning, Willkie made a fifty-mile auto tour through Pittsburgh and Allegheny county. He made about ten stops, addressing citizens in the "Golden Triangle," the steel mill sections of the south side and East Pittsburgh, and the predominantly-negro section on "The Hill."

Greeted at times by tumultous cheers, Willkie sometimes was booed, particularly in East Pittsburgh, and there were occasional shouts of "We Want Roosevelt."

Willkie urged his listeners to study the issues of the campaign and then "make up your minds freely and independently if I am the fellow you want to vote for."

"If I'm not," he added, "then that's your business."

Flowers for Mrs. Willkie

Mrs. Willkie rode with her husband, receiving a dozen bouquets along the route. She would carry them a mile or so and then pass them to women bystanders as she received others.

Despite a large motorcycle escort, the densely packed crowds at some points brought the candidate's long parade to a halt.

Through the triangle section, ticker tape and confetti rained down continuously.

When he addressed a street crowd on "The Hill," Willkie reiterated his declaration that none should be put off relief until he had a job and that there should be no discrimination.

In Youngstown, Ohio, the nominee asserted that if the present administration is reelected, no social security benefits ever will be paid "because this nation will go bankrupt."

Willkie told his listeners he hoped that they would remember his statement ten years hence "if you make the mistake of reelecting the present administration."

At most of the stopping points in his tour of the Pittsburgh area, Willkie stood up in his car and spoke without introduction. Frequently he was silhouetted against steel mills in the background and smoke from the tall stacks blew over his car.

Chamberlain Out

Sir John Anderson, whose reluctance to provide deep air-raid shelters has created Britain's most distressing home front crisis under the pounding of the German bombs.

Churchill, however, made it plain that conservation still is firmly in the saddle. He named both Sir John Anderson and Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer and long-time Conservative wheelhorse, members of the war cabinet. Sir John, one-time "iron man" of Bengal, takes Chamberlain's old job as lord president of the council.

Eight in Inner Group

The inner group now numbers eight members, instead of six. Five of them are conservatives: Churchill, Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, Minister of Aircraft Production Lord Beaverbrook, Sir John Anderson and Sir Kingsley Wood.

The limited scope of the cabinet reshuffle surprised some observers, and several newspapers damned it with faint praise, expressing regret that "new blood"—such as World War Premier David Lloyd George—was not injected into the government.

Chamberlain, who tried and failed utterly to apease Adolph Hitler and then took his nation to war, closed his political career with a "Dear Winston" letter to Churchill in which he explained that he had been unable to recover, under the stress of total war, from a recent operation.

The prime minister, in reply, commented:

Praises Chamberlain

We have been associated, as our fathers (Lord Randolph Churchill and Joseph Chamberlain) were before us, in the ups and downs of politics, now together, now apart, but I look back upon this stern year of comradeship with feelings of the deepest respect and regard for you."

Other cabinet changes:

Sir Andrew Duncan becomes minister of suply; Sir John Reith, cold-blooded Scot who built the British Broadcasting Company, is named to a new post, Minister of Works and Public Buildings; Lieut. Colonel J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon, Minister of Transport, succeeding Reith; Viscount Caldecote, Lord Chief Justice, replacing Lord Heart, who is resigning; Viscount Cranborne, former paymaster- general, dominions secretary, and Captain Oliver Lyttelton, president of the board of trade, succeeding Duncan.

Hygiene Association Plans Drive against Diseases in Camps

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — A defensive drive against two of the worst enemies of the nation's military men—syphilis and gonorrhea—was begun today by the American Social Hygiene Association, with the announcement of a four-point program to prevent, control and eradicate the diseases among the country's armed forces.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, association president, announced the national defense plans, similar to those of the World war days in which he said "there were 100,000 more new cases of venereal disease among U. S. soldiers than there were wounds in battle.

The program:

1. Legal and protective measures for the reduction of exposure to infection through prostitution in areas adjacent to concentrations of armed forces and defense industry workers.

2. Educational activities concerning the hazards and prevention of syphilis and gonorrhea.

3. Activities in aid of early disinfection and other preventive measures.

4. Services in relation to diagnosis and treatment facilities in civil communities.

Dr. Walter Clarke, executive director, urged reduction of "prostitution to a minimum." Syphilis and gonorrhea, he said, "can defeat an army beforei t takes the field and undermine the efficiency of defense industries."

Alleged Thief Balks Jail Break

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 3. (AP)—A defendant in a larceny case helped fustrate an attempted break at the Frederick county jail, Sheriff Guy Anders told Associate Judges Arthur D. Willard and Stedman Prescott in Circuit Court today.

Under questioning by counsel for J. Herman Scott, charged with stealing two watches and $65 from the Mt. St. Mary's college bookstore, Anders testified that saw blades apparently had been smuggled into the jail and that one night after the jailer had retired several prisoners started sawing the bars on a window.

The sheriff said Scott and another prisoner banged on cell doors and made so much noise that the jail cook's assistant came to investigate. He notified Anders, who confiscated the blades. The incident occurred while Scott was awaiting trial.

Alcoholic Beverage Taxes Hit New Top

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 3 (AP)—Maryland's alcoholic beverage and license taxes raised approximately $4,488,400 in the fiscal year just ended — the highest amount since the repeal of prohibition.

Figures released today by State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes showed that about $923,000 more was collected in beverage and license taxes in 140 than in 1939.

State officials had estimated the 140 taxes would yield $3,875,000. Their estimate was exceeded by approximately $613,400.

In the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, the distilled spirit tax brought in $3,137,589; the wine levy, $185,872; the beer tax, $1,050,000 and the licenses, $114,944.

Compared with 139 figures, wine revenues jumped 55.69 per cent; distilled spirit revenue increased by 27.63 per cent; beer revenue increased by 17.58 per cent and license money jumped 21 per cent.

In 1933, following the repeal of prohibition, the legislature enacted the alcoholic beverage and license taxes. The last legislature increased the distilled spirits tax from $1.10 per gallon to $1.25 per gallon and the beer levy from 27-16 cents per gallon to 3 cents per gallon.

The funds raised by the taxes go into the treasury for use for general purposes.

Yacht To Train Cadets

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — Harold S. Vanderbilt's yacht, Vara, used as tender for three America's Cup Defenders, has been purchased by the Navy department for $125,-000, it was announced at the New York navy yard today.

The yacht, which it is expected the Navy will remodel and use as a training ship for cadets cost $750,000 when built in 1928.

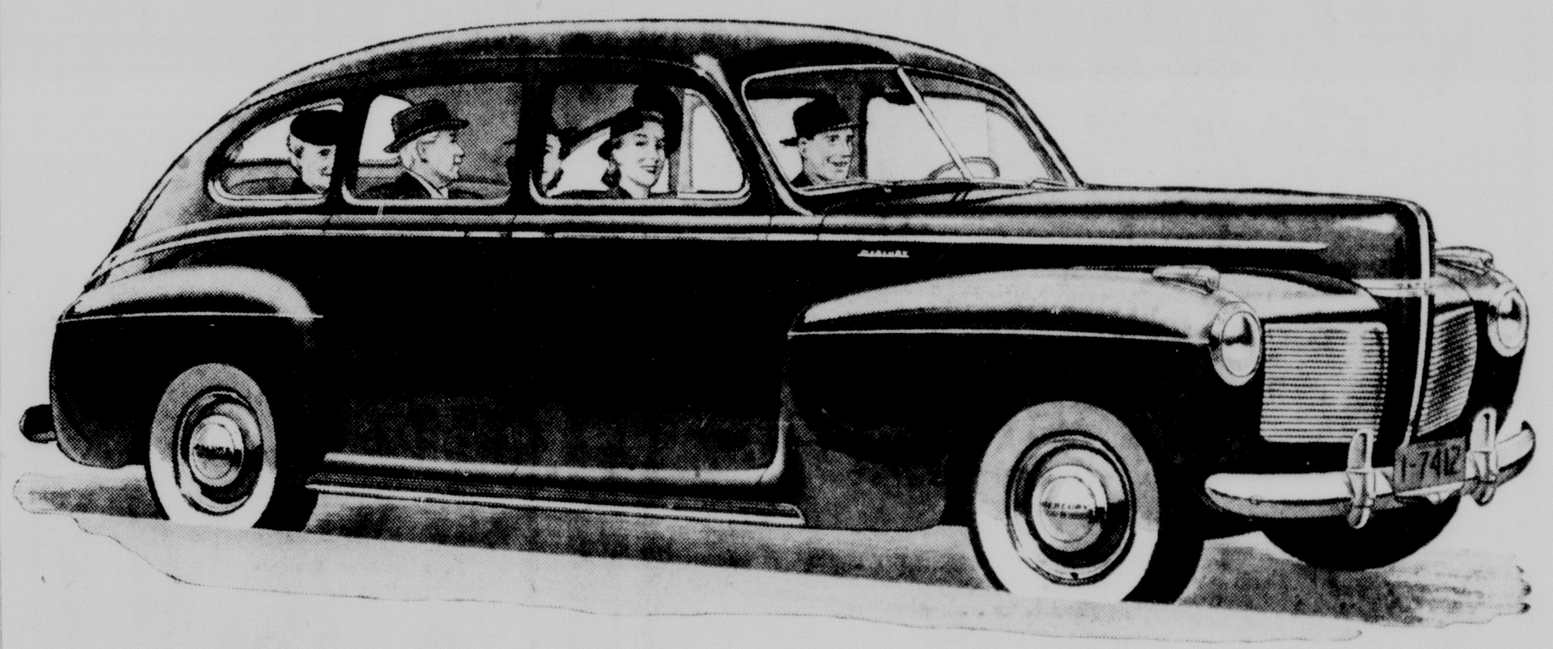
Announcing the New

MERCURY 8 FOR 1941



BEHIND the broad, masterful lines of the new Mercury 8 is written the most amazing success story in modern car history.

Introduced just two years ago, in a field crowded with well-established cars, the Mercury dared to challenge the recognized standards of value and performance with new ideas! And to date, it has won over 150,000 owner-friends!

The story of the Mercury's meteoric rise is its owners' story, written in the warmth of their enthusiasm. When they found the Mercury a big car in all the good things the word implies—and an economical car, they spread its praise far and wide. And so contagious was their enthusiasm that they made the new Mercury one of the most popular cars in its field!

The 1941 Mercury adds to the new ideas that have made this car a name for comfort, for easy handling that is a revelation. It is a new and livelier car, a thrillingly big car—inside and out. Body and doors sweep out over the running boards. Windshield and windows are wider and deeper. A new long wheelbase adds still more room.

You'll find the 1941 Mercury on display tomorrow. Give it the judgment of your experience — any Mercury, Lincoln or Ford dealer will arrange a demonstration for you on short notice.

THE BIG CAR THAT STANDS ALONE IN ECONOMY

Limited Wire Service Restored in France

VICHY, France, Oct. 3, (AP), Telegraphic and postal communication between the German-occupied and unoccupied zones of France, cut for months at German orders, was restored today under strict limitations.

Telegrams permitted to pass from one zone to the other may convey only information of births, deaths and illnesses. A telegram announcing a birth or a death must be countersigned by the mayor of the city, town or villege where it occurred. A telegram regarding illness must be accompanied by a medical certificate to assure transmission.

Postal communications are limited to a standard printed card in which the sender can say he is in good health, tired or ill, or that a relative or friend is dead or a prisoner, plus a few other items of information.

All these possibilities are printed on the card and the sender simply crosses out the words he does not wish to send. At the end of the card he has the choice of saying "affectionate "regards" or "kisses."

Oct. 21 and 26, that the army, drawing its lesson from Europe, was organizing the first battalion of American parachute troops.

In another action, the Senate passed legislation authorizing the expenditure of $150,000,000 for housing defense workers where such facilities are not available. The measure now goes back to the House for action on amendments.

Vote Training Fund

The Senate also voted its approval of a $199,425,000 "civil functions" appropriation bill, containing money for training 700,000 national defense workers. The measure goes to the House next for action on Senate amendments, including the elimination of an $80,000,000 item for the proposed construction of airports.

At the same time, George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, disclosed plans for increasing the army air corps personnel from 95,000 to 160,000 men, and Secretary Stimson announced the letting of a $141,320,000 airplane contract to the Douglas Aircraft Company, Inc., Santa Monica, Calif. Almost all contracts, he said, have now been let in an $8,500 plane building program. Delivery dates were not disclosed.

The $1,482,000,000 appropriation bill contains funds for equipping and maintaining an army of 1,399,861 men, $1,248,000,000 for the army in all, and $83,900,000 for the navy. About eighty-five percent of the army money would be spent for feeding, clothing, equipping, paying and training 1,024,441 men to be brought into the service through conscription or by the mobilization of the national guard.

Will Inspect Defenses

President Roosevelt's address is to be delivered in the course of an inspection of defense activities in the Pittsburgh and Ohio area. Being "non-political," said Stephen T. Early, Mr. Roosevelt's press secretary, it will be carried free by the three radio chains. It is to be addressed not only to the United States but carried to the people of the twenty other American republics by short wave radio.

Noting that the speech would come four days before the young men of the nation will be required to register for the draft, the president will discuss conscription and the reason for it, Early said, and where other American nations are concerned will stress the theme of one for all and all forone."

News of the parachute battalion came from Secretary Stimson. It is being formed from some 500 army volunteers, to be added to a nucleus composed of an experimental group which has been undergoing training for several weeks, at Fort Benning, Ga., where the headquarters of the new battalion will be.

General Marshall, it was disclosed, told the Senate Appropriations committee recently that the army planned to increase the air corps' personnel from 95,000 to 160,000 men. To train 12,000 pilots annually—the army's goal, he said 3,000 instructors would be needed and only 700 are now available. To make up the discrepancy in part, it revealed that 100 of 2131 student pilots, to be graduated tomorrow, would be retained to serve as instructors.

Suspect Change in Tactics

The nature of the Nazi day attacks moved some British informants to suggest that perhaps the Germans had changed their tactics, now that the season of generally bad weather is at hand, from precision to "blind-bombing"—that they would simply fly beyond the reach of the anti-aircraft batteries and let go.

In this connection, British air-raid experts said that German Messerschmitt planes, in the past used as fighters or escorts for bombers, were now being converted into bombers for quick, unstudied daylight forays.

The Nazi raids of Wednesday night which went on into the morning there was a like absence of material damage, the government declared. A famous school in London's southwest environs, a cluster of incendiary bombs set off a fire over which firemen labored for hours before they brought it into control. The circumstances suggested that the school was Harrow, of ancient fame, to which Prime Minister Churchill—along with many other eminent men—went as a youngster.)

The vessels, supposed to have been prepared for the invasion of England, are all that were left after a concentrated British air raid which also destroyed, the British claim, many Dunkirk warehouses and supply trains.

Seven Million Tons of British Shipping Claimed Sunk by Nazis

Yacht To Train Cadets

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — Harold S. Vanderbilt's yacht, Vara, used as tender for three America's Cup Defenders, has been purchased by the Navy department for $125,000, it was announced at the New York navy yard today.

The yacht, which it is expected the Navy will remodel and use as a training ship for cadets cost $750,000 when built in 1928.

Foreign Loans Up

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—German and Japanese loans got an upward whirl in the bond market today but so did some British empire issues and a number of usually inactive rails.

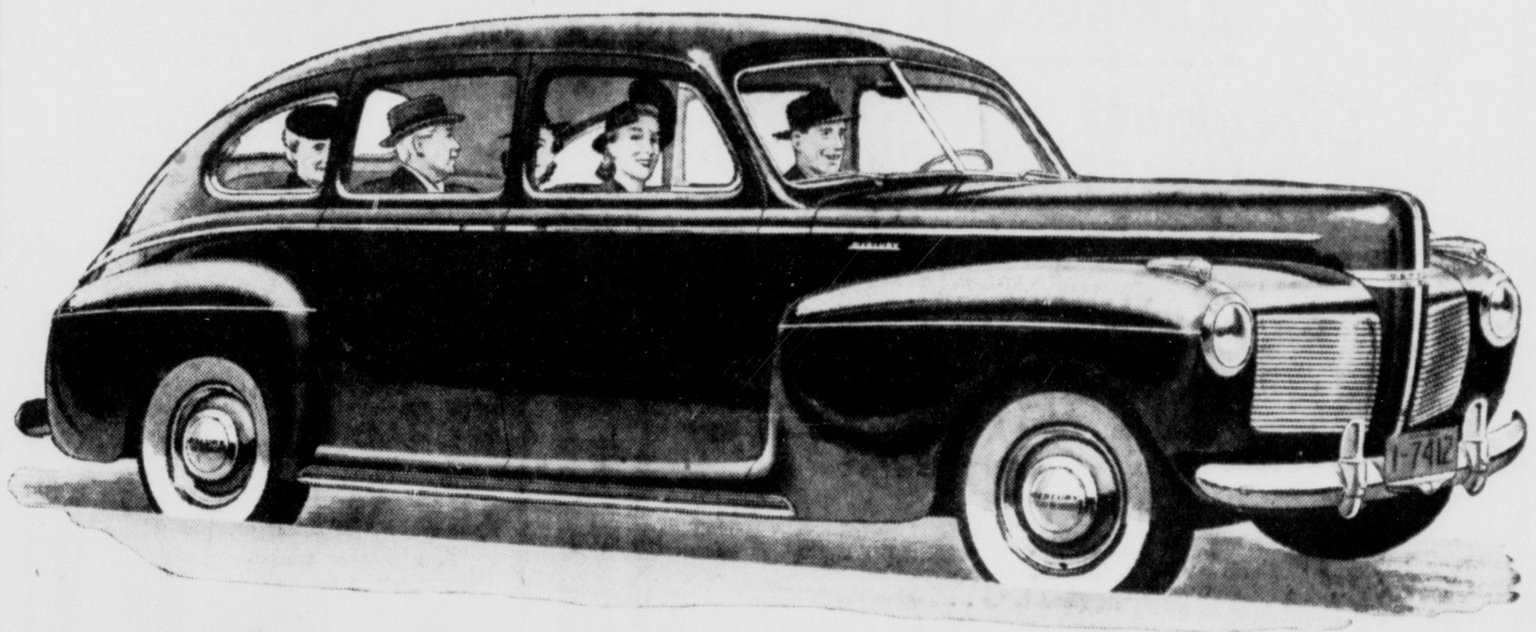
The general character of the list was mixed, with changes small. U. S. governments were even more neglected than recently but plus signs predominated at the finish. Many did not sell. Sales totaled $9,273,100.

Position of Treasury

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The position of the treasury Oct. 1: Receipts $8,799,365.36; expenditures $24,285,394.26; net balance $2,424,981,373.89; working balance included $1,690,209,274.62; customs receipts for month $563,718.28; receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $1,497,718,979.75; expenditures $2,323,552,466.08; excess of expenditures $825,833,486.33; gross debt $44,073,841,610.23; increase over previous day $901,363.50; gold assets $21,267,505,503.63.

Announcing the New

MERCURY 8 FOR 1941



BEHIND the broad, masterful lines of the new Mercury 8 is written the most amazing success story in modern car history.

Introduced just two years ago, in a field crowded with well-established cars, the Mercury dared to challenge the recognized standards of value and performance with new ideas! And to date, it has won over 150,000 owner-friends!

The story of the Mercury's meteoric rise is its owners' story, written in the warmth of their enthusiasm. When they found the Mercury a big car in all the good things the word implies—and an economical car, they spread its praise far and wide. And so contagious was their enthusiasm that they made the new Mercury one of the most popular cars in its field!

The 1941 Mercury adds to the new ideas that have made this car a name for comfort, for easy handling that is a revelation. It is a new and livelier car, a thrillingly big car—inside and out. Body and doors sweep out over the running boards. Windshield and windows are wider and deeper. A new long wheelbase adds still more room.

You'll find the 1941 Mercury on display tomorrow. Give it the judgment of your experience — any Mercury, Lincoln or Ford dealer will arrange a demonstration for you on short notice.

YOU'LL LIKE THESE ADVANTAGES!

New Exterior Beauty. A long, low car. Wide body, superb streamlining. New bright colors.

Big Powerful Engine. Only V-8 in its field. Brilliant get-away and performance. Amazing economy!

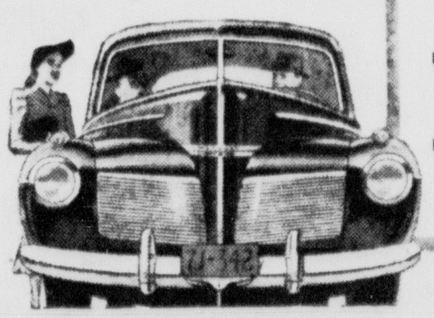
Ease of Control. Finger-Tip Gearshift. Velvet-action clutch and hydraulic brakes. Newly-designed, perfected stabilizer.

New Riding Comfort. Long, easy-action springs. Improved shock absorbers. Center-poise balance. The car rides like a dream.



THE BIG CAR THAT STANDS ALONE IN ECONOMY

Slow and Selfish Suitor Should Be Placed in Discard

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A 24-year-old girl, who seems to have troubles enough of her own on hand, now writes the column about an extra worry—her mother's lack of sympathy for the boy friend.

The facts of the case are these. The girl has been going "steady" with a young man of 28 for the past five years. The undeclared "steady" calls once a week, has Sunday night supper with the family, or he and the girl go on some outing. He's never breathed a word about marriage, unless his vague reference to their perfect companionship, even in old age, may be construed into some sort of long-distance proposal.

Her mother, who seems to be a practical sort of person, is infuriated with the "chair-warmer," as she calls the young man, and says, not without truth, that sort of man is "a barrage, smoke-screen and barbed-wire entanglement" mother has been reading war news) against her daughter's meeting the right man and getting settled in a home of her own.

She Loves Him

Now here comes the barbed wire. The girl is entirely and unselfishly in love with the man who is "wasting her time," as the expression goes. She says even if he has no intention of marrying her, she prefers his companionship to that of any other man she's ever met.

Her mother's railing against his stinginess cuts her to the quick, though to my way of thinking, mother seems to have some practical arguments on her side. This slow suitor never forgets her birthday. No, indeed. He sends her the nicest of cards. He is equally aware of Christmas, and gives her a box of candy—three pounds of the very best. And so devotedly in love is this young lady that she never eats it all, but saves a few of the choicer pieces, from one year to the next, just as souvenirs.

Many of the Kind

It's a question whether anyone so completely hypnotized by another can have this spell of spurious enchantment broken. Every argument that her mother brings up is true. The world is full of just such cases, utterly selfish men who absorb a girl's youth, opportunity and generosity like a sponge, and then leave her in middle age for something fresher and fairer. And these later fancies they invariably marry.

Would that any word of mine could make this girl—and others like her—see the sense of coming out of her trance, drop the dilatory chair-warmer, make new social contacts, and charge up the affair to experience.

Taken for Granted

There is another phase of these perennial romances that go on interminably like a Chinese play. That is, that a girl's name becomes so linked with men of this type that a cynical world imagines she is his property and takes their association for granted. Her girl friends margy. They have their delightful enthusiasms over their new homes, later over baby showers and babies. The girl with the laggard lover has no part in these heart-warming experiences.

She becomes an onlooker before whose doorway the procession of life passes.

No use reasoning with men of this type. They are so ingrained in their own selfishness that they think the birthday card, the three-pound box of candy and their own society are a splendid reward for the sacrifice of a girl's youth and opportunity. We feel exactly like mama about this case. How do my readers feel? I should be glad to hear from them and publish some of their letters in this column.

Chiseling Substituters Substituting Substitutes

BERLIN (AP)—The word for substitute—"ersatz"—now enjoys legal protection in Germany.

In this nation, which suffers from a chronic shortage of raw materials, some substitutes are regarded as superior to natural products.

But now some unprincipled substituters are producing fake substitutes. So it has become necessary to define a substitute. Thus substitute chocolate must look like chocolate, taste like it and have the same nutritive properties.

And Now an 'English' Which Isn't English

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—Swiss language scholars have gotten the government to adopt Romansch, an obscure derivative of Latin, as the fourth official language and now they have come out with a fifth. (The other three official languages are German, French and Italian.)

The new lingo is called "Matten-English," but there isn't a word of English in it—or anything approaching English. Even Prof. O. von Greyerz, outstanding authority on Matten-English, has no hope of obtaining official recognition for it. It's spoken more or less fluently by many old people and a few young people in the canton of Bern.

It originated with Swiss mercenary troops who traveled throughout Europe in the middle ages. The mercenary warriors, using words picked up from hundreds of foreign lands, slowly developed a secret language of their own. It has no literature, but it's rich in cuss-words.

Dose of Own Medicine

BALTIMORE (AP)—History and geography teachers may have to do more home work than pupils because of the war. Teachers must keep abreast of the times, one Baltimore educator explained, but "the extra work will be more than compensated by the pupil's greater interest in these social studies."

THE DAILY STORY

BROKEN HEART

She Was the Most Wonderful Girl in the World until She Jilted Him and Then—but That's the Story.

BY MARTIN ROWAN

Ballycladdy had gathered, from infant to centenarian, to celebrate the culmination of the decade-old courtship of Manus Corrigan and Una Quill in the holy bonds of wedlock. There was feasting and merriment in Manus Corrigan's house. A group of middle-aged and old men sat around the open turf fire that winter's night while the younger guests danced to the enchanting music of bag-pipes and violin.

"Lads," said Michael Doogan, looking around to see that no enemy was within earshot, "it took Una a long time but she got her claws on poor Manus at last."

"At times, I thought Manus might escape," said Patsy Dan, "but it is how he had no will-power."

"Una Quill is a fine woman and good enough for any man," said Mickey Nellie, sternly. "Manus is lucky."

"Will ye look down at the floor and see the way Thaddy is dancing

"I poured out my love."

the reel with the bride. It is like a young gossure he is," said Andy Joe.

"It is how Thady is in great fettle tonight," said Mickey Nellie.

"I think myself it is tipsy he is," said Michael Doogan.

The Druid finished the dance, bowed to the bride, and joined the fireside group. "It is a pleasure to dance with Una," he said. "The tap of her feet on the floor is as light as the butterfly's kiss on the rosebud."

"It is how we were just talking about the marriage while you danced, Thady," said Patsy Dan, "Manus' doom is sealed."

"His heart is broke," said Michael Doogan.

"Gentlemen," said The Druid, "this is neither the time nor the place for such a debate. The couple is married. Let us wish them happiness."

"Drink up, boys," said Big Mick O'Donnell, who catered to the thirst of the multitude.

"I find myself in perfect communion with Bachus this evening," laughted The Druid, extending his glass to be filled.

"I'll bet a button Una is 10 years older than Manus," said Michael Doogan.

"It would be well to end such futile discussion," warned The Druid.

"It is how you should keep out of it, Thady," sneered Michael. "What does an old bachelor like you know about the marriage business!"

"Hold your tongue, Michael, and leave Thaddy alone," said Mickey Nellie, "or it is how you will be going home with your nose under your arm."

"Desist, gentlement, desist," spoke The Druid. "As Mr. Doogan so aptly remarked, I know but little about the marriage business, but I was in love once and I would claim your attention while I review the episode, as I am in a reminiscent mood tonight."

"Go ahead, Thady," said Andy Joe, lighting his pipe.

"When I was a lad of 20," began The Druid, "I was a dreamer and an idealist. On an auspicious occasion I attended a dance in Currawn Bawn and that night there passed before my vision the most beautiful damsel that mortal ever beheld. Her hair was like spun gold and the azure of her eyes excelled the limpid blue of summer skies. Her teeth outmatched the pearls and the redness of her lips put the bloom of the rose to shame."

"Maybe it is how she had paint on them, Thady," interrupted Michael Doogan.

"In short," The Druid continued, "Cuppid, instead of piercing me with an arrow, embedded a double-edged sword to the very hilt in my heart."

"Why didn't you marry the girl, Thady?" asked Patsy Dan.

"I danced with the lass many times," The Druid said, "so much, in fact, that a friend of mine who noticed my devotion warned me to move cautiously as the fair one was most friendly with a man by the name of Bignose Reilly, who was absent on a fishing trip.

Several times after that I found myself in Currawn Bawn and on each occasion, I poured my love without restraint into the shell-like ear of the nymph. Her reaction to my amorous advances was simply one of awe. One day seated with the enchantress on the brink of Lock-an-Ore I opened the floodgates of my soul and deluged her with words of intense ardour. Suddenly a boulder was hurled into the lake in front of us and I looked up to behold no less a personage than the appropriately-named, uncouth lout, Bignose Reilly.

"The goddess leaped to her feet. She skipped across the intervening space, threw her arms around the fellow and buried her face in his shoulder.

"Trank God you came, Bignose," said she. 'This fool from Ballycladdy is bothering me for a month and I don't understand a word he says. I think it is how he is out of his mind.'

"A fool is it she called you Thady?" asked Mickey Nellie, and his voice vibrated with emotion.

"A fool from Ballycladdy," said The Druid, draining his glass.

"What happened then, Thady?" asked Patsy Dan.

"I never saw her again, Patsy," said The Druid. "She married Bignose Reilly a month later."

"Musha, God help you, Thady," said Mickey Nellie, wiping a tear from his eye.

"Restrain your solicitude, Mickey," said The Druid. "I realized immediately that I had wasted my sweetness on the desert air. I forgot her in a month without a pang."

"And her so beautiful, Thady!" said Andy Joe.

Americans Can't Wait for Success

NEW YORK — Columbia University sociologists believe the goal of success has replaced hope of salvation in the lives of America's bourgeoisie.

"The usefulness of such faith in immortality as a powerful weapon for preserving social equilibrium cannot be over-estimated," a book published by the university press says, "for men have an extraordinary ability to postpone certain gratifications.

"No such ideal exists in the bourgeoisie of our society. Instead there is the goal of success, and with it the assurance of sufficient self-esteem as reflected in the esteem of others."

'Yes' Is Enough

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP)—A simple "yes" is just as expressive and far less irritating than "definitely." Mr. Justice Humphreys declared in police court. One witness said "definitely" 18 times.

THE DAILY STORY

BROKEN HEART

She Was the Most Wonderful Girl in the World until She Jilted Him and Then—but That's the Story.

BY MARTIN ROWAN

Ballycladdy had gathered, from infant to centenarian, to celebrate the culmination of the decade-old courtship of Manus Corrigan and Una Quill in the holy bonds of wedlock. There was feasting and merriment in Manus Corrigan's house. A group of middle-aged and old men sat around the open turf fire that winter's night while the younger guests danced to the enchanting music of bag-pipes and violin.

"Lads," said Michael Doogan, looking around to see that no enemy was within earshot, "it took Una a long time but she got her claws on poor Manus at last."

"At times, I thought Manus might escape," said Patsy Dan, "but it is now he had no will-power."

"Una Quill is a fine woman and good enough for any man," said Mickey Nellie, sternly. "Manus is lucky."

"Will ye look down at the floor and see the way Thaddy is dancing

"I poured out my love."

the reel with the bride. It is like a young gossure he is," said Andy Joe.

"It is how Thady is in great fettle tonight," said Mickey Nellie.

"I think myself it is tipsy he is," said Michael Doogan.

The Druid finished the dance, bowed to the bride, and joined the fireside group. "It is a pleasure to dance with Una," he said. "The tap of her feet on the floor is as light as the butterfly's kiss on the rosebud."

"It is how we were just talking about the marriage while you danced, Thady," said Patsy Dan, "Manus' doom is sealed."

"His heart is broke," said Michael Doogan.

"Gentlemen," said The Druid, "this is neither the time nor the place for such a debate. The couple is married. Let us wish them happiness."

"Drink up, boys," said Big Mick O'Donnell, who catered to the thirst of the multitude.

"I find myself in perfect communion with Bachus this evening," laughted The Druid, extending his glass to be filled.

"I'll bet a button Una is 10 years older than Manus," said Michael Doogan.

"It would be well to end such futile discussion," warned The Druid.

"It is how you should keep out of it, Thady," sneered Michael. "What does an old bachelor like you know about the marriage business!"

"Hold your tongue, Michael, and leave Thaddy alone," said Mickey Nellie, "or it is how you will be going home with your nose under your arm."

"Desist, gentlement, desist," spoke The Druid. "As Mr. Doogan so aptly remarked, I know but little about the marriage business, but I was in love once and I would claim your attention while I review the episode, as I am in a reminiscent mood tonight."

"Go ahead, Thady," said Andy Joe, lighting his pipe.

"When I was a lad of 20," began The Druid, "I was a dreamer and an idealist. On an auspicious occasion I attended a dance in Currawn Bawn and that night there passed before my vision the most beautiful damsel that mortal ever beheld. Her hair was like spun gold and the azure of her eyes excelled the limpid blue of summer skies. Her teeth outmatched the pearls and the redness of her lips put the bloom of the rose to shame."

"Maybe it is how she had paint on them, Thady," interrupted Michael Doogan.

"In short," The Druid continued, "Cuppid, instead of piercing me with an arrow, embedded a double-edged sword to the very hilt in my heart."

"Why didn't you marry the girl, Thady?" asked Patsy Dan.

"I danced with the lass many times," The Druid said, "so much, in fact, that a friend of mine who noticed my devotion warned me to move cautiously as the fair one was most friendly with a man by the name of Bignose Reilly, who was absent on a fishing trip.

Several times after that I found myself in Currawn Bawn and on each occasion, I poured my love without restraint into the shell-like ear of the nymph. Her reaction to my amorous advances was simply one of awe. One day seated with the enchantress on the brink of Lock-an-Ore I opened the floodgates of my soul and deluged her with words of intense ardour. Suddenly a boulder was hurled into the lake in front of us and I looked up to behold no less a personage than the appropriately-named, uncouth lout, Bignose Reilly.

"The goddess leaped to her feet. She skipped across the intervening space, threw her arms around the fellow and buried her face in his shoulder.

"Trank God you came, Bignose," said she. 'This fool from Ballycladdy is bothering me for a month and I don't understand a word he says. I think it is how he is out of his mind.'

"A fool is it she called you Thady?" asked Mickey Nellie, and his voice vibrated with emotion.

"A fool from Ballycladdy," said The Druid, draining his glass.

"What happened then, Thady?" asked Patsy Dan.

"I never saw her again, Patsy," said The Druid. "She married Bignose Reilly a month later."

"Musha, God help you, Thady," said Mickey Nellie, wiping a tear from his eye.

"Restrain your solicitude, Mickey," said The Druid. "I realized immediately that I had wasted my sweetness on the desert air. I forgot her in a month without a pang."

"And her so beautiful, Thady!" said Andy Joe.

Americans Can't Wait for Success

NEW YORK — Columbia University sociologists believe the goal of success has replaced hope of salvation in the lives of America's bourgeoisie.

"The usefulness of such faith in immortality as a powerful weapon for preserving social equilibrium cannot be over-estimated," a book published by the university press says, "for men have an extraordinary ability to postpone certain gratifications.

"No such ideal exists in the bourgeoisie of our society. Instead there is the goal of success, and with it the assurance of sufficient self-esteem as reflected in the esteem of others."

The most serviceable leather is obtained from steer hides.

'Yes' Is Enough

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP)—A simple "yes" is just as expressive and far less irritating than "definitely," Mr. Justice Humphreys declared in police court. One witness said "definitely" 18 times.

Japanese Take Alien Census

HONOLULU, Oct. 3. (AP)—Oto Joindro Okuda, acting Japanese Consul-General, said today a census of all Japanese aliens and Japanese of dual citizenship was being conducted in the Hawaiian Islands at the behest of the Japanese government.

He explained that all Japanese nationals, as well as Japanese of dual citizenship, must register with the consulate.

Final figures are expected by the end of November and will be sent to Japan.

Wrong Number

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP)—Officers were startled when a voice boomed over their patrol car radios: "Police Department." Desk Sergeant Zollie Wheeless had gotten his telephon and radio sending apparatus mixed up.

Alien Control Hits Mexican Border Trade

CALEXICO, Calif., (AP) —Strict regulation of aliens is a headache to this American shopping center for a large Mexican trade.

Merchants said that when the visa system for visiting Mexicans was instituted July 1 business slumped 65 to 80 per cent.

Federal officials have indicated that the old system of issuing "Crossing cards" to some 15,000 Mexicans will be restored shortly.

Happens to Everybody

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Traffic department officials were sheepish as they explained why their accident prevention sound car was off the streets. It got caught in streetcar tracks and had an accident.

Baltimore has more than one hundred miles of waterfront.

Sometimes It Seems Luck Is All Bad

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, (AP)—The people of remote Fort Yukon, who live on trapping, have had about every kind of bad luck there is.

A forest fire destroyed most of their equipment and killed so many rabbits there won't be many mink this season. Then the government put a closed season on marten and beaver.

The trappers tightened their belts, said they'd live on fish. Then the salmon run passed them by.

Lights That Help Gowns Don't Flatter Complexion

NEW YORK (AP) — Most store fitting rooms have flattering rosy lights. But a New York department store is trying out one that tells the truth and nothing but the truth. Fluorescent lighting, nearest electrical approach to cold daylight, shows up colors and fabrics more clearly, but it also shows up the flaws in the customer's complexion. The store says its customers don't seem to mind.

Australia Goes after Oil From Shale Deposits

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australia has turned to production of oil from shale deposits to help meet her defense needs. The mountains of New South Wales now are producing 10,000 gallons of crude oil daily, and expansion is planned.

A New Zealand gelatin manufacturer is at the head of the enterprise.

Church Makes Money On Presidential Poll

CARTHAGE, N. C. (AP)—The fellows who sample the voters' likes and dislikes might take a cue from St. Augustine A.M.E. church.

An "election" was held to determine whether the congregation liked Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Willkie. Ballots will cost from 25 cents to $1 and the proceeds will go to the church.

Too Many Pheasants?

PIERRE, S. D. (AP)—Lake Madison hunters will shoot pheasants instead of ducks this fall. When the lake dried, pheasants thrived in the dense undergrowth. The game and fish commission abandoned the refuge and invited "come and hunt."

Judge Is Tough On Drunk Driver

DOBSON, N. C. (AP) — A fellow charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of whiskey appeared before Judge Julius A. Rousseau.

The judge fined the man $50 and costs, suspended his driving license 18 months, gave him a two-year suspended sentence and ordered him to pay his own board bill for ten days' confinement in jail.

Police Help Merchant Remember Black-Out

FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany (AP)—Police in the town of Hoechst found a method of blacking out the shop windows of a storekeeper who forgot to turn out his lights.

They merely painted his windows black. Next day he not only had to remove the paint but also had to pay a fine.

New York Woman Expands Treatment of Piscatorial Ills; Sets Up Practice

Midget shark gets mercurochrome treatment for sore eye

Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—Doctoring sick fishes—we almost said the poor fish—doesn't sound like a very exciting job. But it is, nevertheless.

And you can take it on the word of such an authority as Ida Mellen, for twelve years chief aquarist of the New York aquarium and now in private practice as a professional fish doctor. Her patients swim in all forty-eight states and in twenty-six foreign countries. She is the Florence Nightingale of the piscatorial world.

Formerly a law reporter, she was so interested in biology that she took courses at night. A descendant of John and Priscilla Alden and a member of the Alden Kindred of New York and the Alden Kindred of Massachusetts, she perserved in her studies until she found an opening to her liking at the aquarium.

She started in as curator of invertebrates, but soon saw that a knowledge of ichthyology would help her tremendously.

Until she began her research into their ills, there were but two standard methods for treating fishes—a salt water bath for those who exhibited general symptoms and a permanganate of potassium bath for those who exhibited bruises or infections. But now, thanks to her work as house physician and surgeon, the fishes' apothecary shop must contain such things as iodine, boric acid, kerosene oil, solvol, turpentine, peroxide of hydrogen and castor oil. She clears up skin disorders with mud baths and removes tumors from turtles with embroidery scissors. Other surgical instruments include mouth props, pliers, tweezers and scalpels. Her operating room is a large enamel pan.

Many Experience This Welcome Relief When Taking These Medicines!

Local People Have Put RUX Compound and Williams Formula to the Test—Reports of Gratifying Relief From Rheumatic-like Pain, Gassy Stomachs, Acid-irritated Kidney Passages, Heard From Your Own Neighbors!

It is not difficult to put confidence in our neighbors and it is indeed fortunate that we have so many good neighbors all about us. Right here, many sufferers who have tried RUX Compound and Williams Formula are so delighted with the results they just can't keep the good news to themselves—they want you to know about these fine medicines, too.

What Is RUX Compound?

Made from prescription-pure ingredients, this fine liquid preparation is recommended for the relief of Rheumatic, Neuritic and Neuralgic Pain Attacks. Pains in arms, legs, back and neck that may cause you much discomfort are often noticeably relieved overnight. A trip to the drug store and a talk with the druggist who will show you the formula, plainly printed, with easy directions will convince you that RUX Compound may bring you the relief you are looking for.

Williams Formula!

This good medicine made from the extracts of medicinal plants and mineral substances is doing much to relieve many of your own neighbors of constipation and resultant suffering, such as dizzy headaches, acid-kidneys, listlessness, and a fatigued, let-down condition so often associated with faulty bowel elimination.

Hagerstown Man Reports

You too would feel happy after getting splendid relief as did Mr. William L. Golden, 718 Salem Ave., Hagerstown, Maryland, who says of his use of WILLIAMS FORMULA, "I was afraid to eat many foods for I knew gas pains and that full, bloated feeling would follow. I just looked on enviously at anyone eating a hearty meal. I was restless and nervous at night and felt tired-out most of the time. So you know that when WILLIAMS FORMULA first began to bring me relief, I couldn't help but tell my friends about it. I have continued to take Williams Formula and have found such fine relief from the constipation and after eating distress and this makes it possible for me to get more sleep at night and get up snappy for the day."

Rheumatic-like Pains Relieved!

And Mr. C. E. Berry, 41 East Ave., Hagerstown, Maryland, tells in his own words, "Rheumatic-like pains in my arms and shoulders have given me a lot of discomfort, and when I saw RUX Compound advertised, and learned how much it had helped others with whom I was acquainted, I decided to try it myself. Soon after I began taking RUX Compound I could notice some relief. I am continuing with the use of this fine medicine, and the relief I am receiving is more apparent all the time.

It gives me a lot of pleasure to be able to tell others about RUX, in the hope that they too may receive relief from its use as I have."

Make Your Easy Test!

Just come to any Ford Drug Store today and get your RUX Compound and Williams Formula. 3 economical sizes. Get the Genuine Williams Formula and RUX Compound (liquid). Stubbornly refuse any substitute. Don't put off this important matter, but come in today and start taking your RUX Compound and Williams Formula.

Many Experience This Welcome Relief When Taking These Medicines!

Local People Have Put RUX Compound and Williams Formula to the Test—Reports of Gratifying Relief From Rheumatic-like Pain, Gassy Stomachs, Acid-irritated Kidney Passages, Heard From Your Own Neighbors!

It is not difficult to put confidence in our neighbors and it is indeed fortunate that we have so many good neighbors all about us. Right here, many sufferers who have tried RUX Compound and Williams Formula are so delighted with the results they just can't keep the good news to themselves—they want you to know about these fine medicines, too.

What Is RUX Compound?

Made from prescription-pure ingredients, this fine liquid preparation is recommended for the relief of Rheumatic, Neuritic and Neuralgic Pain Attacks. Pains in arms, legs, back and neck that may cause you much discomfort are often noticeably relieved overnight. A trip to the drug store and a talk with the druggist who will show you the formula, plainly printed, with easy directions will convince you that RUX Compound may bring you the relief you are looking for.

Williams Formula

This good medicine made from the extracts of medicinal plants and mineral substances is doing much to relieve many of your own neighbors of constipation and resultant suffering, such as dizzy headaches, acid-kidneys, listlessness, and a fatigued, let-down condition so often associated with faulty bowel elimination.

Hagerstown Man Reports

You too would feel happy after getting splendid relief as did Mr. William L. Golden, 718 Salem Ave., Hagerstown, Maryland, who says of his use of WILLIAMS FORMULA: "I was afraid to eat many foods for I knew gas pains and that full bloated feeling would follow. I felt looked on enviously at anyone eating a hearty meal. I was restless and nervous at night and felt tired-out much of the time. So you know that when WILLIAMS FORMULA first began to bring me relief, I couldn't help but tell my friends about it. I have continued to take Williams Formula and have found such fine relief from the constipation and after eating distress and this makes it possible for me to get more sleep at night and get up snappy for the day."

Rheumatic-like Pains Relieved!

And Mr. C. E. Berry, 41 East Ave., Hagerstown, Maryland, tells in his own words: "Rheumatic-like pains in my arms and shoulders have given me a lot of discomfort, and when I saw RUX Compound advertised, and learned how much it had helped others with whom I was acquainted, I decided to try it myself. Soon after I began taking RUX Compound I could notice some relief. I am continuing with the use of this fine medicine, and the relief I am receiving is more apparent all the time.

It gives me a lot of pleasure to be able to tell others about RUX, in the hope that they too may receive relief from its use as I have."

Make Your Easy Test!

Just come to any Ford Drug Store today and get your RUX Compound and Williams Formula. 3 economical sizes. Get the Genuine Williams Formula and RUX Compound (liquid). Stubbornly refuse any substitute. Don't put off this important matter, but come in today and start taking your RUX Compound and Williams Formula.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Distributed by King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Ask and Find Out

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going with a girl for almost a year, off and on. I love her very much but I've never told her and don't believe she even suspects it.

Whenever I see her I ask her to go to a show or for a walk, but she never wants to do anything but sit in the parlor. Do you think I should go to see her any more? How can I find out if she likes me?

P. P. P.

The easiest way to discover whether a person likes you or not is to put the question. As you've never told this girl you care about her, perhaps she's waiting for some word to that effect before she agrees to accept your invitation.

One of the wisest of philosophers has said if a man were as hideous as Caliban, any woman would be gratified with a declaration of love from him.

Too Young For Dates?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Although I'm 18 years old, I'm very short and do not look my age. A certain boy of 20 has asked me to go out with him, but my mother thinks I'm too young, and don't look my age. I have been invited other times to go out with boys, but my parents never would allow it. Do you think that my height should have anything to do with accepting an invitation from a boy?

ANXIOUS.

I've never before heard of height being considered in the question of dates. If the young man is desirable, I can't see any objection to a girl of 18 going out with him. As I've said so often in this column, it seems to me the wiser course for parents is to encourage their daughters to invite their young boy friends to the house, so that they can look them over.

* * *

Why Not Ask Him

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going out with a young man for several months and a week ago found out he is married. We're both veary fond of each other and it's more than just infatuation. But I can't believe he's married, because of the hours he keeps. His work keeps him from early morning until late at night, and besides that he comes to see me. Now how could he possibly be married? What can I do in a situation like this?

H. S.

For a married man to palm himself off as single and pay attention to a girl in that capacity is very dishonorable. The simplest thing to do under the circumstances is to tell the young man you heard he's married, and ask him if it's true. As to the queer hours he keeps, my dear, some married men keep very strange hours indeed. You can't judge by that.

Unreasonably Strict Parents

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a very unhappy 20-year-old girl. My parents accuse me of being a boy-chaser just because I like to go our walking with my girl friends, and Miss Fairfax, I'm innocent. I detest this form of recreation, and my parents distrust me and say I do the same as all other girls.

I've always tried to abide by my parent's wishes, don't drink, seldom smoke and occasionally have a date with a boy. Their distrust of me has even caused my friends to stop coming to the house.

Please tell me what to do to win back their confidence and understanding. I've thought of going to another city and make something of myself to show them that I am not what they think, but I don't seem to have the nerve, I'm so mixed up.

I have no one that I can really talk to. My two brothers come and go as they please. Please say something in your column which will be good for parents.

UNHAPPILY SIGNED.

It's too bad when parents take this attitude toward a girl who has never given them any cause to worry. And as it has been said more than once that there's no surer way of tempting a girl to do something foolish, like picking up strange men on the street and sneaking ouyt, than by barricading her as if she were a problem child.

To accuse a girl of something of which she is innocent has often made her decide that she might as well have "the game as the name."

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

GUN, WITH a sense of despair in his heart, sat down and lit another cigaret. The two others began a general conversation, including Gun in it. He managed to look intelligent, but he spoke mechanically. He was racking his brains for some ruse to make the girl understand.

Then the door opened, and she and Tommy entered.

"We've just been having a stroll in the garden," Coral announced, with apparent inconsequential brightness. "It's just lovely out there."

"No doubt," said Otto, dourly. And then, addressing Tommy: "Well, have you thought over my little proposition, Commander?"

To which Tommy replied, airily: "Why, no! In the company of such a charming lady one can hardly be expected to think over mere trifles. Besides, it would be infernally rude."

Otto rose heavily from his chair. "Well, I advise you to do so during the night. Otherwise you may find it not quite such a trifling affair as you seem to think."

His tone was heavy with menace. Gun was getting desperate. Plainly they were on the point of departure, and he had to make Coral understand somehow. Suddenly he got an idea, and clutched at it.

"By the way," he said to Trent, now risen also in obedience to his chief's gesture, "what happens to us? Do we camp out again tonight?"

"No," was the answer. "You can stay here tonight. I'm afraid I have to admit my little scheme for making you talk is a failure—because of time. We shall now have to resort to the more direct methods of the chief here."

"Well," said Gun, with a sigh, "I'm glad of that. Because that scheme of yours I find is rather bad for the nerves. Do you know that, a little while ago, I suffered from an hallucination, and didn't know who I was? If anybody at that moment had addressed me by my right name, I should have probably denied my identity."

Trent sneered.

"Perhaps it's just as well we've changed the program—we don't want any lunatics on our hands."

Gun darted a quick glance at Coral, but she was not looking at him.

"That is so," said Otto, in his heavy voice. "And one very bad form of madness is to keep quiet when you ought to be talking. I would remember that, Hazeldeane, if I were you."

Tommy responded by a cheerful grin.

"Right-o!" he agreed. "I'll try to think it over during the night."

The "guests" moved toward the door. Otto and Trent gave vent to a curt: "Good night," but Coral was more vivacious.

"Good night! Maybe I'll be seeing you some time in the morning, when the others are busy."

"Yes, do," cried Tommy fervently. "Please!"

Gun said nothing. He was trying to catch from her some signal or hint that she had understood the allusion to forgetting his identity. But she never even looked at him.

As soon as they were out of earshot of the bungalow, Otto asked, gruffly:

"Well, how did you get on with that young fool?"

"Oh, not so badly," was the reply.

"What do you mean by that? Will he talk?"

"Yes, I think so." Coral's tone was impatient. "But you can't expect me to bring off a job like that in half an hour. Have a heart."

"Ach! That is the trouble—I have too much heart." Otto was almost plaintive. "You must hurry up about it—I do not like the way that—that puppy looks at you."

"Sorry to disturb you," she apologized.

Coral laughed with apparent delight.

"Oh, you jealous old thing!" She suddenly took his arm, and held it close to her side—an unusual demonstration from her, as Otto was quick to realize. "Anyway, you needn't worry. I'm not partial to puppies—I like older dogs, who've got all their teeth, and can use 'em, too."

Whereat Otto, pleased and flattered, chuckled quite pleasantly.

"I'm going straight to bed—the air here makes one tired, I think," Coral announced, when they had reached the quarters. She kissed Otto lightly on the forehead, waved her hand to Trent, and ran gaily off. The two men went into Trent's office.

Some twenty minutes later, when they were in the middle of a heated argument, there came a tap on the door, which opened to reveal Coral again. She looked very young and charming in a white linen dressing gown worn over dark red pajamas.

"Sorry to disturb you two," she apologized, "but I've got one of my attacks of insomnia coming on—I can feel it—and I've forgotten to bring any dope with me. Have either of you got anything that will make me sleep?"

"Sure I have!" answered Trent, only too eager to be of assistance. He opened a drawer of his desk and took out a small bottle of tablets—the same with which he had supplied Gun. "One of these ought to make you sleep right through. But if it doesn't work in half an hour, take another. But no more, mind you, or you'll sleep for a week."

"Oh, thanks a lot!" Coral picked up the bottle. "How do I take it?"

"Drop it in a little water. It dissolves at once, and there's no taste."

"Thanks again—an good night again!"

Coral's face, as she went back to her own room, with the little bottle clutched in her hand, seemed to express rather more satisfaction than the occasion warranted.

In the bungalow, Tommy turned to Gun.

"You made a bloomer over that kid, you know," he began—but Gun made a gesture for caution, and lugged him out into the air.

"I'm beginning to think I did," he said, when he thought they were safe from mechanical or other eavesdropping. "What did she say to you, anyway?"

"Oh, she was absolutely frank. She said that, of course, you had told me what her game was supposed to be—to make me talk about the invention. But she said she wasn't going to do that—she's an agent of the British government here to find out all she can about these birds, and to help us if necessary. She wanted to know if we'd found out what they really were up to, and I told her you'd had a shot at it, but hadn't found out anything definite. Then she said as soon as she could find out something she'd hit on some plan for our escape."

"Oh, damn!" growled Gun.

He realized that if Coral knew how much he had really discovered, she could concentrate on a plan of escape. But she did not know, and that meant that she would probably be trying to find something out herself—and if she was discovered, which was more than likely, their one chance of escaping in time to foil these madmen would be gone.

The net result was that, despite the comfort of a real bed once more, Gun spent a practically sleepless night, between worrying as to whether Coral would be caught out during it, and trying to evolve a practical plan for escape if she wasn't.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Ask and Find Out

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going with a girl for almost a year, off and on. I love her very much but I've never told her and don't believe she even suspects it.

Whenever I see her I ask her to go to a show or for a walk, but she never wants to do anything but sit in the parlor. Do you think I should go to see her any more? How can I find out if she likes me?

P. P. P.

The easiest way to discover whether a person likes you or not is to put the question. As you've never told this girl you care about her, perhaps she's waiting for some word to that effect before she agrees to accept your invitation.

One of the wisest of philosophers has said if a man were as hideous as Caliban, any woman would be gratified with a declaration of love from him.

Too Young For Dates?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Although I'm 18 years old, I'm very short and do not look my age. A certain boy of 20 has asked me to go out with him, but my mother thinks I'm too young, and don't look my age. I have been invited other times to go out with boys, but my parents never would allow it. Do you think that my height should have anything to do with accepting an invitation from a boy?

ANXIOUS.

I've never before heard of height being considered in the question of dates. If the young man is desirable, I can't see any objection to a girl of 18 going out with him. As I've said so often in this column, it seems to me the wiser course for parents is to encourage their daughters to invite their young boy friends to the house, so that they can look them over.

* * *

Why Not Ask Him

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going out with a young man for several months and a week ago found out he is married. We're both veary fond of each other and it's more than just infatuation. But I can't believe he's married, because of the hours he keeps. His work keeps him from early morning until late at night, and besides that he comes to see me. Now how could he possibly be married? What can I do in a situation like this?

H. S.

For a married man to palm himself off as single and pay attention to a girl in that capacity is very dishonorable. The simplest thing to do under the circumstances is to tell the young man you heard he's married, and ask him if it's true. As to the queer hours he keeps, my dear, some married men keep very strange hours indeed. You can't judge by that.

"The Authority on Authorities"

A SLIGHT INDICATION

PAYING attention to the least little factor can produce heavy dividends. Plenty of hands swing upon some element so infinitesimal that it seems like pure luck when the good player gets away with it. You will wait a long time to find a No Trump grand slam bid so briefly, and probably still longer for a closer guess at the finish of the play. East led the heart 7 to the 9 and K, then North embarked on a careful campaign to feel out the situation, since there were no thirteen sure tricks in sight. When the club 10 fell from West on the A, twelve were sure, but a thirteenth had to be found. When East discarded a diamond then on the heart Q, North knew that defender had originally seven cards between spades and diamonds, and would not have discarded a diamond if he held exactly four. Hence he probably had five and two spades.

Four clubs were then run, the dummy shedding a heart, the spade Q and a diamond. When both defenders followed suit on the diamond A, North felt his reading confirmed, with East still having three diamonds and two spades. If the spades included the K, East could be squeezed now by the heart A. Having to hold his diamonds, East tossed the spade 4. Dummy's two high diamonds were now taken, and the spade 5 led. If West held the K, the finesse would be best, if East, the A could drop it.

North went into a deep huddle. He decided East probably would not have led a singleton in the heart suit except to avoid leading the other major, as would be the case if he had the guarded K. So North played the A on the twelfth trick, dropped the K and took the last trick with the spade J.

4-H Club Members Judge Livestock

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3. (AP)—Members of 4-H clubs had their inning at the twelfth annual Baltimore live stock show judging beef cattle, swine and sheep.

Two Harford county boys, Donald McKnight and Harold Smith, were acclaimed the best 4-H judges of swine and sheep, respectively, and Charles Rathel, Jr., of Talbot, was rated the best 4-H judge of beef cattle.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute won first place in the intercollegiate judging contest. North Carolina state was second, Cornell third and Penn State fourth.

Other awards included:

Best group of five feeder cattle, Andelot Stock Farms, Worton, Md.

Grand champion trio of hogs, Harvey G. Shortlidge, Jr., Maple Hedge Farm, Kelton, Pa.

Reserve champion, John Means, Westminster.

Grand champion trio of lambs, University of Maryland.

Reserve champion trio, Wayne Neel, Shawrver Mill.

Flying Cadet Uses Parachute, but His Instructor Is Killed

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 3. (AP)—A flying cadet, swinging in his parachute, watched his officer-instructor plunge to his death in a spinning army plane today, and the student later reported to his superiors: "Second Lieutenant E. T. Ostler saved my life."

Ostler, whose home was Sandy, Utah, stuck with the ship, hopelessly out of control, until he was certain his student, R. M. Smith, of Stamford, Conn., had cleared away safely, but he leaped too late to save himself.

Smith, an end on Lehigh university's 1939 football team who came here as a flying cadet two months ago, said:

"Lieut Ostler shouted an order for me to jump. He didn't begin to worry about himself until he knew I was out."

The cadet said Ostler, 25 years old, was instructing him in bringing a ship out of spins, at a height of 6,000 feet, when the machine failed to respond to the instructor's efforts to pull it from a whirl.

This was the third crash of training planes at the Southeast Air Center Basic Training School in two weeks, and raised to five the number of pilots killed since the school opened a months ago.

4 NT	Pass	7 NT

You will wait a long time to find a No Trump grand slam bid so briefly, and probably still longer for a closer guess at the finish of the play. East led the heart 7 to the 9 and K, then North embarked on a careful campaign to feel out the situation, since there were no thirteen sure tricks in sight. When the club 10 fell from West on the A, twelve were sure, but a thirteenth had to be found. When East discarded a diamond then on the heart Q, North knew that defender had originally seven cards between spades and diamonds, and would not have discarded a diamond if he held exactly four. Hence he probably had five and two spades.

Four clubs were then run, the dummy shedding a heart, the spade Q and a diamond. When both defenders followed suit on the diamond A, North felt his reading confirmed, with East still having three diamonds and two spades. If the spades included the K, East could be squeezed now by the heart A. Having to hold his diamonds, East tossed the spade 4. Dummy's two high diamonds were now taken, and the spade 5 led. If West held the K, the finesse would be best, if East, the A could drop it.

North went into a deep huddle. He decided East probably would not have led a singleton in the heart suit except to avoid leading the other major, as would be the case if he had the guarded K. So North played the A on the twelfth trick, dropped the K and took the last trick with the spade J.

4-H Club Members Judge Livestock

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3. (AP)—Members of 4-H clubs had their inning at the twelfth annual Baltimore live stock show judging beef cattle, swine and sheep.

Two Harford county boys, Donald McKnight and Harold Smith, were acclaimed the best 4-H judges of swine and sheep, respectively, and Charles Rathel, Jr., of Talbot, was rated the best 4-H judge of beef cattle.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute won first place in the intercollegiate judging contest. North Carolina state was second, Cornell third and Penn State fourth.

Other awards included:

Best group of five feeder cattle, Andelot Stock Farms, Worton, Md.

Grand champion trio of hogs, Harvey G. Shortlidge, Jr., Maple Hedge Farm, Kelton, Pa.

Reserve champion, John Means, Westminster.

Grand champion trio of lambs, University of Maryland.

Reserve champion trio, Wayne Neel, Shawrver Mill.

Flying Cadet Uses Parachute, but His Insiructor Is Killed

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 3. (AP)—A flying cadet, swinging in his parachute, watched his officer-instructor plunge to his death in a spinning army plane today, and the student later reported to his superiors: "Second Lieutenant E. T. Ostler saved my life."

Ostler, whose home was Sandy, Utah, stuck with the ship, hopelessly out of control, until he was certain his student, R. M. Smith, of Stamford, Conn., had cleared away safely, but he leaped too late to save himself.

Smith, an end on Lehigh university's 1939 football team who came here as a flying cadet two months ago, said:

"Lieut. Ostler shouted an order for me to jump. He didn't begin to worry about himself until he knew I was out."

The cadet said Ostler, 25 years old, was instructing him in bringing a ship out of spins, at a height of 6,000 feet, when the machine failed to respond to the instructor's efforts to pull it from a whirl.

This was the third crash of training planes at the Southeast Air Center Basic Training School in two weeks, and raised to five the number of pilots killed since the school opened a months ago.

'Beaux Mix with Business But Not with Business Hours'

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Service Writer

Beaux and business do mix — though not in business hours, says one of America's most successful executive career women.

She is Mary Dillon, President of the Brooklyn Borough Gas Co. and one of the few women in the United States to reach top rank in a utility company. In private life she is Mrs. Henry Farber.

When I asked her, just before National Business Women's Week, October 7-12, to tell me what it takes to make a woman successful in business, her sea-blue eyes twinkled.

"One thing is certain," she said. "The woman who has a career does much better work if there are a husband or beaux in her life. They balance her life and keep her from giving all her time and thought to her career. But naturally beaux don't mix with business hours."

This short, slender woman, who heads a company of 500 employes, including 120 women, lists a good deal more than that in her creed for a woman's success in business.

Save Time for Essentials

"Most important thing," she says, "is the ability to see the whole of anything in proper relation to its parth.

"A business woman's powder puff is important too. By that I mean that reasonably pretty clothes and careful grooming combine to make a good appearance that is an opening wedge to a job and contributes to success in it."

Mary Dillon: "Powder Puff Is Important Too."

The rest of Miss Dillon's list includes "good old fashioned virtues": desire to accomplish something, ability and willingness to work hard, power to make decisions, courage, and perseverance in acting and "honesty, which enables you to see yourself as you are."

When it comes to the thorny question: "Do men mind taking orders from a woman?" she simply smiles.

Doesn't Give "Orders"

"Men—Americans — mind taking orders from anyone. I don't give them. I suggest instead."

Mary Dillon was born in New York, one of twelve children. She left high school to go to the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company when she was 18 and has been there ever since.

In her 37 years with the company she climbed from an office-girl job to the general managership, the vice-presidency and the presidency (in 1926).

The harder she works, the more she insists on taking time for play. She dances a lot and takes a before-breakfast dip in the surf before her Seagate home nearly every morning until Thanksgiving.

She proves her faith in women in business by "giving them a break." In her company they are treasurer, stock department heads, cashiers, saleswomen, assistant purchasing agents and credit managers, as well as stenographers, secretaries and clerks.

Her creed for business success ends with two "don'ts":

1. Don't allow yourself to get tangled in a lot of woman's tasks besides your work.

2. Don't make your work your whole life. Remember it is a means of living—not a way of living.

"The hardest thing a woman has to do in business," she says, "is trying to make men forget she is a woman, while still remembering it."

Experts Look for Sites for Defense

NASSAU, BAHAMAS, Oct. 3 (AP) — Military exports from the United States, looking for sites to aid in hemisphere defense, made a 500-mile survey flight along the string waterways that form this British colony.

Five of the eleven army and navy officers in the party—headed by Rear Admiral John W. Greenslade and Brig.-Gen. Jacob L. Devers—flew direct fro mMiami to Nassau.

They received the good wishes of the Duke of Windsor in a 15-minute conference at Government House, then, accompanied by Colonial Secretary W. L. Heape, sped to Eleuthera island less than 100 miles away to join the other members of the commission.

Today's survey of exploration was designed to carry the officers over a score of inhabited and hundreds of uninhabited islands that stretch from within fifty miles of the United States coast at Miami to within seventy-five miles of the eastern tip of Cuba.

Georgia Democrats Oust Gov. Rivers As Committeeman

MACON, Ga., Oct. 3 (AP)—Georgia's Democratic convention, carrying out the dictates of Governor-Nominate Eugene Talmadge, erstwhile critic of the New Deal, declared vacant here the national committee post held by Governor E. D. Rivers, ardent supporter of the Roosevelt administration.

Introducing the resolution to reject Rivers, Delegate John C. Evans declared the governor was a "self appointed" committeeman on the national body who did not "truly represent Georgia democracy."

The uproarious convention, which also declared vacant the committee woman's post held by Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, shouted approval to the election of Talmadge's son and campaign manager, Herman Talmadge, as the successor to Rivers on the national committee. Mrs. Fred Hayes of Toccoa was designated to succeed Mrs. Price.

Lindberghs Parents Of Fourth Child

NEW YORK, Oct. 3. (AP) — A daughter was born Wednesday to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh at Doctors hospital. The child was Doctors hospital. The child was their fourth, including their first-born who was kidnaped and killed in 1932, and their first daughter.

Both the mother and infant were reported in good health.

Mrs. Lindbergh is the former Anne Morrow, daughter of the late Dwight W. Morrow, former U. S. Senator and ambassador to Mexico. She and the aviator were married in Englewood, N. J., on May 27, 1929.

Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnaped from the nursery of their Hopewell, N. J., home March 1, 1932 and several weeks later was found dead. Bruno Richard Hauptmann subsequently was convicted of the crime and died in the electric chair at Trenton, N. J.

The Lindbergh's second child, Jon, was born Aug. 1, 1932 and their third, Land Morrow, on May 12, 1937.

Flynn Charges Willkie Falsifys the Record

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 2. (AP)—Edward J. Flynn of New York, Democratic National Committee Chairman, charged Wendell Willkie with "falsifying the record" in a speech today before party leaders from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska.

Replying to a campaign address in Detroit last night by the Republican presidential candidate, the New Yorker said:

"xxx He (Willkie) charged President Roosevelt is pushing the nation "ever closer to war." The utility candidate knows that is not true. The record shows it is not true."

Flynn cited quotations from President Roosevelt's messages and speeches declaring his hatred of war and his hope that this country would not become involved.

Asserting he was "bringing good tidings of certain victories," the national chairman said:

"The Republican panic is evident. The Willkie slump is so apparent that sorrow engulfs all elements of the minority party. The opposition is prepared for a defeat as staggering as the one which overwhelmed it in 1936."

Van Devanter Asked To Serve on State Draft-Appeal Board

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 3. (AP)—Governor OConor announced today he has asked Willis VanDevanter, former justice of the Supreme Court, to serve on one of Marylands four draft-appeal boards.

The former justice, retired from the Supreme Court more than a year ago to live at Oakland farm in Howard county.

If VanDevanter accepts, he would become a member of the appeal board to be set up in Annapolis, OConor said.

The other draft appeal boards would be located in Baltimore city, on the Eastern Shore and in Western Maryland.

OConor said he would announce the names of board members later.

Engineering Course Surest Way to Job

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 3. (AP) —If you want to be reasonably sure of stepping right into steady employment after the college prexy hands you your sheepskin—take up engineering.

That, at least, is the advice of Professor S. S. Steinberg, dean of the University of Maryland engineering course, who has been 100 per cent right to date in this respect.

Steinberg said every one of the 1940 engineers' graduating class had a job, most of them employed long before school closed in June.

And that's not all, said the professor—every engineering graduate since the institution founded its college of engineering is steadily employed.

The dean said 50 electrical, mechanical, civil and chemical engineers graduated in June, and many requests for men had been turned down with a polite note saying that he was "unable to supply graduates for positions as all had been placed."

War in Balkans Seems More Likely

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 3. (AP) —The outlook of the war spreading to the Balkans has become so serious, authoritative British sources said here, that Britain may find it necessary "almost any day" to remove all British subjects from the area.

A large-scale plan for sending all British subjects in Bucharest, Budapest, Belgrade, Athens and Sofia and other Balkan towns, to India has already been prepared. Britons themselves in the region have been notified by British consuls.

India was selected as the place of removal, reliable sources said, because the journey is mostly overland and India, unlike Egypt, is not on a war front.

The precautions were said to have been prompted by Britain's Danish experience: Many Britons were surprised by the invading German army in Denmark and thrown into concentration camps.

Love, Friendship And Popularity Call for Work

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The other day a reporter interviewed the librarian at the information desk of one of the largest public libraries in this country. The question asked was "What kind of books do people read—all sorts of people?"

Young people read love stories and books on love. Top-notchers, who draw down huge salaries and have their books sent to them, read mystery stories, the more lurid the better.

But the average person, the one known as "the man in the street," reads popularity books. He wants to make friends and keep them.

It seems to me, however—and the secret springs of my information have come from the thousands of letters written to this column—that the inspiring of love and the making of friends and keeping them is something quite outside the realm of "book learning."

Unselfish People

Love—and who has ever succeeded in defining love—is the flame that unites two people for better or worse. And people who make friends and keep them are unselfish people who give as much or even more than they take. We have, in other words, to sell ourselves to people to make worthwhile friends and keep them.

Continuing the interview with the librarian, it seems that the people who borrow these popularity books often confide in the librarian that the rules of the game haven't worked in their cases. They've read all about being popular, but have found no "takers," which isn't hard to explain. They know all about the theory, but are too sluggish to put it into practice.

Great beauties, or people who have the drawing quality of magnets, often go through life with outstretched hands in a "gimme" gesture and get away with it too. Beauty is a compelling spider-web into which the unwary fly walks without realizing that the pursuit of beauty may be one of nature's little jokes.

Victims of Delusion

The run-of-the-mill people, not particularly interesting, a little dull perhaps, who sit tight and expect the world to beat a pathway to their doors, like that traditional man who invented the perfect mouse-trap, are victims of a delusion. They fail to realize the truism that in this weary old world you never get something for nothing.

Friendship is a give-and-take proposition. Self-indulgent people who never write a letter of condolence because it's too much trouble, who never contribute to a cause, never go to see a sick friend, or send a little note when there's a new baby, or when someone has had a stroke of good fortune, are the people who wail that the world is selfish and no one bothers with them.

And why, indeed, should anyone bother with them?

Dangerous Things

You don't have to read books to learn that borrowing is the death of friendship, and that it's a dangerous thing to be too intimate, or ask too many favors, or fail to return courtesies, and that people who quarrel and try to drag in their entire circle of friends as umpires may expect to taste the joys of solitude. People who get talkative after cocktail parties and confide things about themselves and their families, which had better be left unsaid, may expect to have no path beaten to their doorways.

Friendships that have withstood the tooth of time are those which have observed a certain amount of reticence and courtesy and have been mutually beneficial.

Here Are Answers to Those Questions about the Draft

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON—The tough nuts of the draft will have to be cracked by the local boards. Before them is the vast experience of the World war, a revised system and a series of broad regulations laid down by the President.

The law was purposely written to leave ticklish decisions to the local board or, if a question gets too national in character for a local board to handle, to the President.

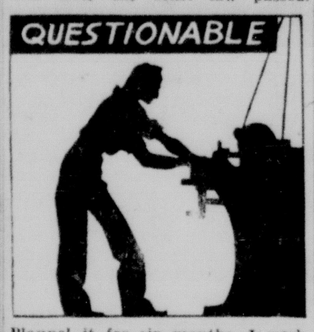
Here are a few tough questions and answers, but remember the answers can't be final. It all depends on the local board.

Q. (By a bride)—We were married after the draft law passed.



Plannel it for six months. I work. Will my husband have to go?

A.—You're a borderline case, but off-hand the answer is "probable no." Your local board probably will have plenty of single men to fill up calls until well into next year. Your husband probable will be deferred temporarily at least.

Q. (By the same bride)—But what if things get worse and Congress decides to draft a lot more men?

A.—In national draft headquarters it'll soon be known how many more than usual young people got married just as the draft law passed. In the world war 300,000 evaded the first draft that way until a special regulation was devised to bring some of them into the service.

If necessary the President could issue a regulation this time too, calling on local draft boards to revise their deferred lists. It could say, for instance, that all eligible men married to self-supporting wives, say after September 5, should be brought in for re-examination provided there were no children on the way. Or something similar.

On re-examination, the local board could call up those men whose service would cause the least hardship, considering all the circumstances, but the general rule would still be to defer married men, whether there are children or not.

Q. (By the same young lady)—But we didn't marry to evade the draft. We planned it six months ahead.

A.—You must have evidence of that. Your friends gave you showers. The press reported the engagement, or some church record may be cited. The local board could take these facts into consideration.

Q. (By a young man)—I'm 25, healthy, single, ready to serve, but I'm an optical lens grinder, wants me to ask for deferment. What shall I do?

A.—If you feel you must, go ahead. But everybody connected with the draft had rather see you think of your employer's claim on you and join you in a claim for deferment. The regulations and the law recognize that some occupations may justly deferment.

Your local board will be advised that lens grinders come under this heading. With the advice of an army industrial adviser, it may rule that you can be deferred, subject to call any time within six months if necessary. Or they may defer you for six months, giving your employer that long to replace you, then call you up.

Q.—What is the difference between being deferred and being exempt.

A.—A man who under no circumstances would be acceptable to the Army is exempt, such as a man with one leg or a necessary public official the law specifically exempts. Regular employes of cities, counties, states or the Federal government are no more exempt than anybody else. A man who is not called in turn, but who is told his case may be called up for further examination at some future time is "deferred," such as a married man with dependents.

Q. (By a wife)—My husband can't get a job. Temporarily my job supports him and our child. He wants to work. I don't want him to leave us. Will they take him?

A.—Maybe not, but that kind of a case may require a hearing or special examination. Discuss this with the local advisory board if you aren't sure about the facts. If what you say is true, they might help him get a job. But an habitual idler wouldn't have a chance to escape, if the draft board knew it.

It would be embarrassing to you and your husband and the local board if your husband couldn't prove he was not an habitual idler. Doubtless some family who sent men into the service would write indignant letters to the board about not getting idlers.

Q. I'm an ex-convict. One conviction. Forged a check several years ago. Been going straight since. Unmarried and ready to serve, but what about my fingerprints? And my record? Am I morally unfit?

A.—You are neither automatically disqualified because of a crime, nor are you automatically acceptable. Your fingerprints are not taken in the draft, and your record won't be traced from the draft card.

But once you're in the army, you're under military law—and civil law. If they should find out about your record, the question would be: Are you morally fit to wear the uniform of the United States army? Your superior officers would have to answer that, and the answer would depend on whether your associating with other men would tend to corrupt their moral standards. If so, you'd be kicked out. You'd be wise to take up your case with the local registrants' advisory board.

Q.—I've got flat feet. Am I exempt?

A.—Not necessarily. Ordinary flat feet no longer are considered a cause for exemption. It depends on the condition of your arches. New instruments can tell whether your feet can stand the pounding of army life.

British Children To Remain in England

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP)—The government has announced abandonment "until further notice" of the plan to send British children over-seas to escape falling bombs.

"The recent loss of a number of children who were traveling in the (steamship) 'City of Benares' has illustrated the dangers to which passengers vessels are exposed even when in convoy under the weather conditions now prevailing in the Atlantic, an official government statement said.

(The City of Benares, Canada-bound, was sunk about 600 miles west of Ireland the night of Sept. 17 with a loss of seventy-seven children.)

Approximately 2,650 children have gone to the dominions, most of them to Canada. In spite of government assurances, an unofficial report said today, about half of others already enrolled for departure had been subsequently withdrawn.

Didn't Like It There

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Twelve hours after Pike county's new jail was put in use four prisoners sawed their way to freedom. Saws apparently were passed through the window. Two of the fugitives were caught a short time later.

A spice concern is now putting its condiments through a bacteria destroying process so as to prevent spoilage and make them cleaner.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON—The tough nuts of the draft will have to be cracked by the local boards. Before them is the vast experience of the World war, a revised system and a series of broad regulations laid down by the President.

The law was purposely written to leave ticklish decisions to the local board or, if a question gets too national in character for a local board to handle, to the President.

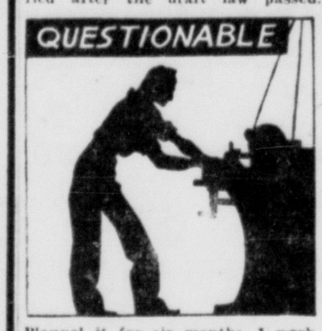
Here are a few tough questions and answers, but remember the answers can't be final. It all depends on the local board.

Q. (By a bride)—We were married after the draft law passed.



Plannel it for six months. I work. Will my husband have to go?

A.—You're a borderline case, but off-hand the answer is "probable no." Your local board probably will have plenty of single men to fill up calls until well into next year. Your husband probable will be deferred temporarily at least.

Q. (By the same bride)—But what if things get worse and Congress decides to draft a lot more men?

A.—In national draft headquarters it'll soon be known how many more than usual young people got married just as the draft law passed. In the world war 300,000 evaded the first draft that way until a special regulation was devised to bring some of them into the service.

If necessary the President could issue a regulation this time too, calling on local draft boards to revise their deferred lists. It could say, for instance, that all eligible men married to self-supporting wives, say after September 5, should be brought in for re-examination provided there were no children on the way. Or something similar.

On re-examination, the local board could call up those men whose service would cause the least hardship, considering all the circumstances, but the general rule would still be to defer married men, whether there are children or not.

Q. (By the same young lady)—But we didn't marry to evade the draft. We planned it six months ahead.

A.—You must have evidence of that. Your friends gave you showers. The press reported the engagement, or some church record may be cited. The local board could take these facts into consideration.

Q. (By a young man)—I'm 25, healthy, single, ready to serve, but I'm an optical lens grinder, wants me to ask for deferment. What shall I do?

A.—If you feel you must, go ahead. But everybody connected with the draft had rather see you think of your employer's claim on you and join you in a claim for deferment. The regulations and the law recognize that some occupations may justly deferment.

Your local board will be advised that lens grinders come under this heading. With the advice of an army industrial adviser, it may rule that you can be deferred, subject to call any time within six months if necessary. Or they may defer you for six months, giving your employer that long to replace you, then call you up.

Q.—What is the difference between being deferred and being exempt.

A.—A man who under no circumstances would be acceptable to the Army is exempt, such as a man with one leg or a necessary public official the law specifically exempts. Regular employes of cities, counties, states or the Federal government are no more exempt than anybody else. A man who is not called in turn, but who is told his case may be called up for further examination at some future time is "deferred," such as a married man with dependents.

Q. (By a wife)—My husband can't get a job. Temporarily my job supports him and our child. He wants to work. I don't want him to leave us. Will they take him?

A.—Maybe not, but that kind of a case may require a hearing or special examination. Discuss this with the local advisory board if you aren't sure about the facts. If what you say is true, they might help him get a job. But an habitual idler wouldn't have a chance to escape, if the draft board knew it.

It would be embarrassing to you and your husband and the local board if your husband couldn't prove he was not an habitual idler. Doubtless some family who sent men into the service would write indignant letters to the board about not getting idlers.

Q. I'm an ex-convict. One conviction. Forged a check several years ago. Been going straight since. Unmarried and ready to serve, but what about my fingerprints? And my record? Am I morally unfit?

A.—You are neither automatically disqualified because of a crime, nor are you automatically acceptable. Your fingerprints are not taken in the draft, and your record won't be traced from the draft card.

But once you're in the army, you're under military law—and civil law. If they should find out about your record, the question would be: Are you morally fit to wear the uniform of the United States army? Your superior officers would have to answer that, and the answer would depend on whether your associating with other men would tend to corrupt their moral standards. If so, you'd be kicked out. You'd be wise to take up your case with the local registrants' advisory board.

Q.—I've got flat feet. Am I exempt?

A.—Not necessarily. Ordinary flat feet no longer are considered a cause for exemption. It depends on the condition of your arches. New instruments can tell whether your feet can stand the pounding of army life.

British Children To Remain in England

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP)—The government has announced abandonment "until further notice" of the plan to send British children over-seas to escape falling bombs.

"The recent loss of a number of children who were traveling in the (steamship) 'City of Benares' has illustrated the dangers to which passengers vessels are exposed even when in convoy under the weather conditions now prevailing in the Atlantic, an official government statement said.

(The City of Benares, Canada-bound, was sunk about 600 miles west of Ireland the night of Sept. 17 with a loss of seventy-seven children.)

Approximately 2,650 children have gone to the dominions, most of them to Canada. In spite of government assurances, an unofficial report said today, about half of others already enrolled for departure had been subsequently withdrawn.

Didn't Like It There

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Twelve hours after Pike county's new jail was put in use four prisoners sawed their way to freedom. Saws apparently were passed through the window. Two of the fugitives were caught a short time later.

A spice concern is now putting its condiments through a bacteria destroying process so as to prevent spoilage and make them cleaner.

Education Board And WPA Plan Lunch Project

First Program of Kind in County To Be Launched at Westernport

BARTON, Oct. 3 —Allegany county's first Work Projects Administration's school lunch project, sponsored by the county board of education, will start Monday at the Hammond street school in Westernport, it was announced here last night by Miss Dorothy C. Worrilow, district director of professional and service projects.

Miss Worrilow made the announcement as she stopped off here on one of her inspection tours of the county to confer with county supervisors. The WPA head said the project was approved last week in Washington and that final plans for the opening have been made.

She further said that F. W. Springer, Frederick, district manager of the WPA and she has interviewed a number of applicants for supervisor of the "hot-lunch" project. She did not divulge the name of the successful applicants but said that an announcement would be made shortly from the Frederick office.

PTA Is Sponsor

The co-sponsor of the government's newest project will be the Parent-Teacher Association of the Westernport school. This association, Miss Worrilow said, has been very active and energetic and has cooperated with WPA officials 100 per cent.

During the week of October 7, Miss Worrilow stated a course of instruction to familiarize the eleven assigned WPA workers with the lunch program will be given at the Westernport school under the direction of Miss Ruth Weber, Cumberland. Miss Weber is an assistant WPA director and a graduate of the Home Economics department of the University of Maryland.

Beginnng October 14, approximately 250 children of the Hammond Street school will be given a well balanced and adquate lunch daily, made from surplus government commodities, sent in by the federal government and supplemented by the food purchased by the Westernport Parent-Teacher Association. Pupils able to do so will be requested to play a minimum charge for the food while those unable to do so will be furnished a free lunch.

Three Rooms Set Aside

During the past year, the Hammond street PTA furnished an electric ice box and stoves and is now buying the necessary equipment to start this first school lunch program. The board of education is furnishing tables and has re-decorated three rooms to be used for this purpose. Two rooms will be be used for serving and the other for the kitchen.

The county health department is also cooperating by suggesting menus and giving physicial examinations to puplis and WPA workers. The department already has approved the lunch room quarters and kitchen as to their sanitation. Examination of workers will be held prior to the opening of the project.

Miss Worrilow stated that Howard Broadwater, of Barton, former mess sergeant and cook at the Bond (Md.) CCC camp and cook for various organization since, will be chief cook. He will be assisted by certified WPA workers, she said.

Miss Nell Dowling, principal of the Hammond street school, and the following committees will act as co-sponsor's representatives: Mrs. Lewis Engle, chairman; Mrs. J. L. Shay, Mrs. Homer Ferrell, president of PTA, Miss Walker, county health nurse; Miss Hazel Inskeep, Miss Marie Meyers, and Miss Meese, of the faculty, who will be assailed by home room mothers in charge of Mrs. Kay Fazenbaker, chairman.

Juniors Win Banner

Timothy E. Conroy, in charge of attendance at Barton high school, today announced that the junior class had won the attendance banner for the month of September. The class had a percentage of 98.65. The senior class ranked second, with 98.25 per cent, while the sophomore class was third, with a percentage of 97.60.

Junior Chamber To Seek Airport For Frostburg

Young Men also Plan Safety Program and Conservation Work

FROSTBURG, Oct. 3 — The Frostburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, headed by Robert S. Elias, president, met last night at the Fidelity Bank building and adopted projects for the coming winter months as follows:

SAFETY: Committees from the chamber will seek the co-operation of the mayor and city commissioners in establishing parking and traffic regulations looking toward greater safety for pedestrians and motorists.

CONSERVATION: A committee of the chamber will work in harmony with the Confederation of Western Maryland Communities in an effort to have at least one parking overlook on Route 40 near Frostburg. Eventual establishment of picnic facilities is anticipated.

AVIATION: The entire personnel of the Junior Chamber will attempt to arouse opinion to the importance of obtaining an airport for Frostburg.

PROGRAM: Invitations to the first of the fall and winter series of dances will be issued in the near future.

GENERAL: Efforts are being made to secure accommodations and instruction for a short course in public speaking and parliamentary proceedure.

The board of directors will meet Wednesday evening, October 18, at 7:15 o'clock in the Fidelity Bank building.

Officers Elected

The congregation of First English Baptist church met last night and elected officers to serve for the ensuing year, as follows:

John McFarland, Melvin Libengood, David Emerson and U. P. McFarland, deacons; M. M. Ward, Ray Lawrence, Erwin Lewis, Lee Emerson and Earnest Filer, trustees; John McFarland, treasurer; Mrs. L. B. Edwards, financial secretary; Melvin Ward, church clerk; Mrs. John McFarland, assistant clerk; Miss Margaret Price, church organist; James Elias, chorister; Miss Mildred Kerr, missionary treasurer.

Officers for the Sunday school were named as follows: Howard Ward, superintendent; James Elias, assistant superintendent; Betty Libengood, secretary-treasurer; Miss Mildred Kerr, pianist; Mrs. John McFarland, assistant pianist; Mrs. Emily Stewart, primary superintendent; and Howard Hanna, chairman of the home department.

Class Confirmed

The Rt. Rev. John McNamara, D.D., auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of Baltimore and Washington, confirmed 192 children and sixteen adults last evening at St. Michael's Catholic church.

Solemn benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament was given, with the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Antonio Scarpati, pastor of St. Peter's church, Westernport, as celebrant; the Rev. Francis McKewon, Cumberland, deason; and the Rev. Michael's church, sub-deacon.

Other priests in the sanctuary were the Rt. Rev. James J. Quinn, V. F., pastor of St. Patrick's church, Cumberland; the Rev. Father Leander, O. M. Cap., and the Rev. Father Hilary, O. M. Cap., Cumberland; the Rev. James G. Murphy, Lonaconing; the Rev. Stephen Chylinski, Westernport; the Rev. John C. Broderick, Oakland; the Rev. Elmer T. Fisher, Midland; the Rev. Robert W. Frostburg State Teachers College Places 28 out of 30 June Grads

FROSTBURG, Oct. 3—Frostburg State Teachers College has just announced the placement of Miss Sara Jane Craft, formerly of Hagerstown and now of North Orange Grove, Burbank, California, to a substitute job in Washington county. Miss Craft is the twenty-eighth to be placed of a class of thirty who graduated from the college in 1940.

Robert Kirby, Mt. Savage, and Miss Vivian Fike, Oakland, are still available for placement.

The members of the class and the counties in which they have been placed are as follows: Allegany county: Louis Connor, of Eckhart; Jeanne Arthur,, Cumberland; and Oberlin Chaney, Frostburg. Anne Arundel county: Erma Cook, Kempton, West Virginia. Calvert county: Harriet Callis, Accident. Carroll county: Donald McLuckie, Frostburg; and Max Nordeck, Oakland. Charles county: Katherine Meese, Lonaconing. Prince George's county: Mary Frances Heckler, June Luethke and Dorothy Vandegrift, Cumberland; Jane Everline, Frostburg; Helen Whitworth and Clarabelle Chaney, Westernport.

Garrett county: Leo Rice, Oakland; Ethel Storey, McHenry; Ruth Ault and Lena Georg, Accident; Thelma Steyer, Steyer; and Charles Wilt, Deer Park. Washington county: Lorraine Corwell and Edward Krontz, Clearspring; and Vivian Tedrick, Big Pool. Frederick county: Charles Morgan, Baltimore county: Karl Peck and Betty Schneider, Frostburg. Montgomery county: Ruth Wachtel, Myersville.

The college is naturally proud of its placement record, not only this year, but in previous years as well. More than ninety-five per cent of the graduates of the college are promptly placed.

With the new salary scheme, better equipped buildings and the advantages of consolidation, the elementary teacher today has all the advantages of the teacher in any field of work. The college points out that students looking forward to service in the public schools should choose that field of service in which they can best servce. There is now and will continue to be a need for outstanding teachers for the primary and intermediate grades.

Frostburg State Teachers College is anxious to give service to students who want to train for these fields of service.

WISCONSIN O. K.'S DATE BUREAU

Homemakers Plan Achievement Day Program Tuesday

Garrett County Clubs To Hold Annual Gathering at Deer Park

GRANTSVILLE, Oct. 3—The annual Achievement Day of Garrett County Homemakers clubs is to be held at Deer Park, Tuesday. The program is scheduled to start at 10:15 a. m. and will continue until about the middle of the afternoon. The host club will serve a beverage, and everybody is requested to bring their own sandwiches, etc., for a general picnic lunch.

According to Miss Mildred Barton, home demonstration agent, the meeting this year is to be especially interesting. Miss Venia M. Kellar, state home demonstration agent, who will make the principal address, will talk on "The Rural Homemaker and Her Position in the Present Economic Situation."

There will also be reports from the various club presidents, as well as the music, clothing and home management chairmen of the county. An interesting exhibit, built around the reading course, has also been planned as something of a surprise for the group. The Rev. Samuel D. Sigler, pastor of the Grantsville Lutheran church, and Mrs. O. P. Jones, Kitzmiller, county peace chairman, will be in charge of the devotionals.

Officers Elected

Members of the Ladies Aid Society of Mt. Zion Methodist church met last evening at the home of Mrs. Forest Michael to organize the "Women's Society of Christian Service". The new organization is open to all women of the church and replaces the former Ladies Aid Society.

Mrs. Harry C. Edwards, president of the Grantsville group, was present to assist in the re-organization. Officers chosen were Miss Clara Layman, president; Mrs. Charles Durst, vice-president; Mrs. Wilbur Durst, recording secretary; Mrs. Frances McKenzie, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Forest Michael, treasurer. Twenty-two attended the session. Additional guests were Mrs. Howard Durst and her mother, Mrs. Brotemarkle, and Mrs. Morris Beachy.

A social hour followed the business session, and refreshments were served. The home of Mrs. Herbert Pope was suggested as the tentative place of meeting next month.

Dress Demonstration

Miss Ethel Broadwater entertained the Grantsville Community Club at her home here yesterday afternoon.

"Becoming Designs in Dress" was the theme of Miss Mildred Barton's demonstration for this meeting, in which she stressed proper neck, shoulder and hip lines for various types of figures. Mrs. W. Harold Miller played a group of piano solos, choosing as her selections, "See, the Conquering Hero Comes", by Handel, Shumann's "Traumerei" and Rubenstein's "Melody in F". Mrs. Leonard B. Schaefer also gave a brief review of the peace lesson for the month.

It was decided several members of the local club would arrange to attend the Achievement Day program at Deer Park Tuesday. Light refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the session.

Mrs. H. P. Miller invited the club to meet at her home at Salisbury, Pa., for the next meeting, when "Dressing Your Personality" will be the subject for the demonstration. Mrs. Nelle Zeller, Frostburg, was the only guest in addition to the twelve members present.

Prospects Bright For Abandonment Of School Strike

Return to Classes To Be Delayed unless Changes Made at Beall

MT. SAVAGE, Oct. 3, (Special)— Prospects appeared bright tonight for an early end to Allegany county's school "strike" in which hundreds of children have been kept out of classes by their parents in protest against the board of education's consolidation program.

Some 600 citizens of the Mt. Savage-Lonaconing sector indicated at a mass meeting here tonight that they will send their children back to school as soon as what they called "crowded, unsafe and unsanitary" conditions are corrected at Beall high school, Frostburg, where many of them are supposed to go under the consolidation program.

The suggestion that the children be retirned to classes was made by State Senator Robert B. Kimble.

Generally Accepted

It was generally accepted in a resigned sort of way by spokesmen for the various communities affected, but it was emphasized that the battle will be carried on by the parents.

However, immediate return of the children will be delayed, it was indicated, pending the outcome of a conference tomorrow with the board of county commissioners on conditions at the old Beall school.

Walter E. Ross, of Midland, reported on an inspection he said he made of the Frostburg school with Regional Fire Marshal R. J. Snyder, of LaVale, and two other citizens.

Ross told the citizens that the building, as it now stands, is a "firetrap." Exits are blocked in places, the corridors are unsafely narrow and electric wiring is hazardous in places, he declared.

Claims Over Crowding

In addition, he asserted that classrooms are overcrowded and the building unhealthily damp.

Hazards from a fire standpoint have been reported to the county commissioners by Snyder, Ross said.

In view of these conditions, the Midland man questioned the advisability of sending the children to the Frostburg school unless they are corrected.

Here Senator Kimble interposed again and suggested that a committe be named to confer with the county commissioners to determine what steps might be taken to meet these protests.

The committee, scheduled to meet with the board tomorrow, includes Ross, Floyd Winebrenner, of Carlos; Ted Lewis, Midlothian; and Russell Aldridge, Ocean. Mt. Savage is also slated to send a delegate.

Another Meeting Monday

Sectional meetings are to be held tomorrow night for each community to consider the back-to-school proposal made tonight. Then, Monday night, another mass meeting is to be held at Firemen's hall at Midland to hear reports from the conference with the county board and the sectional meetings.

Before Senator Kimble's address, the citizens had heard W. Carl Richards, Cumberland attorney, declare the law was on the "wrong side" in the citizens' battle against the consolidation program.

Richards quoted a statute directing the county school board to effect school consolidations whenever practical.

Although thus pointing out that the citizens have no legal case, the attorney declared he was in sympathy with their stand and urged them to go to the legislature for redress of their grievances, including provisions for election of the school board.

Raises 'Dictatorship' Cry

Richards told the citizens they had "by indifference, surrendered one of your most precious rights by putting the school jurisdiction in the hands of a dictatorship."

With reference to the consolidation program, he described as "atrocious" the reputed failure of the school board to consult with citizens of these affected communities before abolishing their elementary schools or transferring their higher grades.

Senator Kimble, in suggesting that the children be sent back to school,

Three More Oakland Women Testify Against Doctor in Morals Trial

OAKLAND, Oct. 3—More witnesses were heard today in the trial of Dr. Clift P. Berger before Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan and Associate Judge W. A. Huster on charges of unnatural and perverted practices.

Testimony on one indictment was completed early today and was followed by testimony on three other indictments. Charges in these three indictments were preferred by Esther Kahl, Mrs. Lon Hershman and Mrs. Troy Smith, all of Oakland or nearby.

While in yesterday's testimony the act was allegedly committed in the physician's office while the nurse and another person were in adjoining rooms, the three cases today involved alleged offenses at night while the nurse was absent. On one occasion, Mrs. Smith's mother was in an adjoining room.

Dr. Berger was on the stand again in each instance and denied the charges.

Judge Sloan announced that the testimony will be transcribed and carefully studied and that arguments by opposing counsel will be heard next Saturday, October 12, after which the verdict will be given.

He also announced that the court would hear testimony tomorrow in the three cases against Jesse J. Ashby Jr., county treasurer, who is charged with embezzlement and false pretense.

At a hearing several weeks ago, Charles F. White, Oakland magistrate, held there was not sufficient evidence to hold Mr. Ashby for the grand jury, but the investigating body returned true bills.

Education Board And WPA Plan Lunch Project

First Program of Kind in County To Be Launched at Westernport

BARTON, Oct. 3 —Allegany county's first Work Projects Administration's school lunch project, sponsored by the county board of education, will start Monday at the Hammond street school in Westernport, it was announced here last night by Miss Dorothy C. Worrilow, district director of professional and service projects.

Miss Worrilow made the announcement as she stopped off here on one of her inspection tours of the county to confer with county supervisors. The WPA head said the project was approved last week in Washington and that final plans for the opening have been made.

She further said that F. W. Springer, Frederick, district manager of the WPA and she has interviewed a number of applicants for supervisor of the "hot-lunch" project. She did not divulge the name of the successful applicants but said that an announcement would be made shortly from the Frederick office.

PTA Is Sponsor

The co-sponsor of the government's newest project will be the Parent-Teacher Association of the Westernport school. This association, Miss Worrilow said, has been very active and energetic and has cooperated with WPA officials 100 per cent.

During the week of October 7, Miss Worrilow stated a course of instruction to familiarize the eleven assigned WPA workers with the lunch program will be given at the Westernport school under the direction of Miss Ruth Weber, Cumberland. Miss Weber is an assistant WPA director and a graduate of the Home Economics department of the University of Maryland.

Beginnng October 14, approximately 250 children of the Hammond Street school will be given a well balanced and adquate lunch daily, made from surplus government commodities, sent in by the federal government and supplemented by the food purchased by the Westernport Parent-Teacher Association. Pupils able to do so will be requested to play a minimum charge for the food while those unable to do so will be furnished a free lunch.

Three Rooms Set Aside

During the past year, the Hammond street PTA furnished an electric ice box and stoves and is now buying the necessary equipment to start this first school lunch program. The board of education is furnishing tables and has re-decorated three rooms to be used for this purpose. Two rooms will be be used for serving and the other for the kitchen.

The county health department is also cooperating by suggesting menus and giving physicial examinations to pupils and WPA workers. The department already has approved the lunch room quarters and kitchen as to their sanitation. Examination of workers will be held prior to the opening of the project.

Miss Worrilow stated that Howard Broadwater, of Barton, former mess sergeant and cook at the Bond (Md.) CCC camp and cook for various organization since, will be chief cook. He will be assisted by certified WPA workers, she said.

Miss Nell Dowling, principal of the Hammond street school, and the following committees will act as co-sponsor's representatives: Mrs. Lewis Engle, chairman; Mrs. J. L. Shay, Mrs. Homer Ferrell, president of PTA, Miss Walker, county health nurse; Miss Hazel Inskeep, Miss Marie Meyers, and Miss Meese, of the faculty, who will be assailed by home room mothers in charge of Mrs. Kay Fazenbaker, chairman.

Juniors Win Banner

Timothy E. Conroy, in charge of attendance at Barton high school, today announced that the junior class had won the attendance banner for the month of September. The class had a percentage of 98.65. The senior class ranked second, with 98.25 per cent, while the sophomore class was third, with a percentage of 97.60.

Frostburg State Teachers College Places 28 out of 30 June Grads

FROSTBURG, Oct. 3—Frostburg State Teachers College has just announced the placement of Miss Sara Jane Craft, formerly of Hagerstown and now of North Orange Grove, Burbank, California, to a substitute job in Washington county. Miss Craft is the twenty-eighth to be placed of a class of thirty who graduated from the college in 1940.

Robert Kirby, Mt. Savage, and Miss Vivian Fike, Oakland, are still available for placement.

The members of the class and the counties in which they have been placed are as follows: Allegany county: Louis Connor, of Eckhart; Jeanne Arthur,, Cumberland; and Oberlin Chaney, Frostburg. Anne Arundel county: Erma Cook, Kempton, West Virginia. Calvert county: Harriet Callis, Accident. Carroll county: Donald McLuckie, Frostburg; and Max Nordeck, Oakland. Charles county: Katherine Meese, Lonaconing. Prince George's county: Mary Frances Heckler, June Luethke and Dorothy Vandegrift, Cumberland; Jane Everline, Frostburg; Helen Whitworth and Clarabelle Chaney, Westernport.

Garrett county: Leo Rice, Oakland; Ethel Storey, McHenry; Ruth Ault and Lena Georg, Accident; Thelma Steyer, Steyer; and Charles Wilt, Deer Park. Washington county: Lorraine Corwell and Edward Krontz, Clearspring; and Vivian Tedrick, Big Pool. Frederick county: Charles Morgan, Baltimore county: Karl Peck and Betty Schneider, Frostburg. Montgomery county: Ruth Wachtel, Myersville.

The college is naturally proud of its placement record, not only this year, but in previous years as well. More than ninety-five per cent of the graduates of the college are promptly placed.

With the new salary scheme, better equipped buildings and the advantages of consolidation, the elementary teacher today has all the advantages of the teacher in any field of work. The college points out that students looking forward to service in the public schools should choose that field of service in which they can best servce. There is now and will continue to be a need for outstanding teachers for the primary and intermediate grades.

Frostburg State Teachers College is anxious to give service to students who want to train for these fields of service.

Members of the Ladies Aid Society of Mt. Zion Methodist church met last evening at the home of Mrs. Forest Michael to organize the "Women's Society of Christian Service". The new organization is open to all women of the church and replaces the former Ladies Aid Society.

Mrs. Harry C. Edwards, president of the Grantsville group, was present to assist in the re-organization. Officers chosen were Miss Clara Layman, president; Mrs. Charles Durst, vice-president; Mrs. Wilbur Durst, recording secretary; Mrs. Frances McKenzie, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Forest Michael, treasurer. Twenty-two attended the session. Additional guests were Mrs. Howard Durst and her mother, Mrs. Brotemarkle, and Mrs. Morris Beachy.

A social hour followed the business session, and refreshments were served. The home of Mrs. Herbert Pope was suggested as the tentative place of meeting next month.

Dress Demonstration

Miss Ethel Broadwater entertained the Grantsville Community Club at her home here yesterday afternoon.

"Becoming Designs in Dress" was the theme of Miss Mildred Barton's demonstration for this meeting, in which she stressed proper neck, shoulder and hip lines for various types of figures. Mrs. W. Harold Miller played a group of piano solos, choosing as her selections, "See the Conquering Hero Comes", by Handel. Shumann's "Traumerei" and Rubenstein's "Melody in F". Mrs. Leonard B. Schaefer also gave a brief review of the peace lesson for the month.

It was decided several members of the local club would arrange to attend the Achievement Day program at Deer Park Tuesday. Light refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the session.

Mrs. H. P. Miller invited the club to meet at her home at Salisbury, Pa., for the next meeting, when "Dressing Your Personality" will be the subject for the demonstration. Mrs. Nelle Zeller, Frostburg, was the only guest in addition to the twelve members present.

Prospects Bright For Abandonment Of School Strike

Return to Classes To Be Delayed unless Changes Made at Beall

MT. SAVAGE, Oct. 3, (Special)—Prospects appeared bright tonight for an early end to Allegany county's school "strike" in which hundreds of children have been kept out of classes by their parents in protest against the board of education's consolidation program.

Some 600 citizens of the Mt. Savage-Lonaconing sector indicated at a mass meeting here tonight that they will send their children back to school as soon as what they called "crowded, unsafe and unsanitary" conditions are corrected at Beall high school, Frostburg, where many of them are supposed to go under the consolidation program.

The suggestion that the children be returned to classes was made by State Senator Robert B. Kimble.

Generally Accepted

It was generally accepted in a resigned sort of way by spokesmen for the various communities affected, but it was emphasized that the battle will be carried on by the parents.

However, immediate return of the children will be delayed, it was indicated, pending the outcome of a conference tomorrow with the board of county commissioners on conditions at the old Beall school.

Walter E. Ross, of Midland, reported on an inspection he said he made of the Frostburg school with Regional Fire Marshal R. J. Snyder, of LaVale, and two other citizens.

Ross told the citizens that the building, as it now stands, is a "firetrap." Exits are blocked in places, the corridors are unsafely narrow and electric wiring is hazardous in places, he declared.

Claims Over Crowding

In addition, he asserted that classrooms are overcrowded and the building unhealthily damp.

Hazards from a fire standpoint have been reported to the county commissioners by Snyder, Ross said.

In view of these conditions, the Midland man questioned the advisability of sending the children to the Frostburg school unless they are corrected.

Here Senator Kimble interposed again and suggested that a committe be named to confer with the county commissioners to determine what steps might be taken to meet these protests.

The committee scheduled to meet with the board tomorrow, includes Ross, Floyd Winebrenner, of Carlos; Ted Lewis, Midlothian; and Russell Aldridge, Ocean. Mt. Savage is also slated to send a delegate.

Another Meeting Monday

Sectional meetings are to be held tomorrow night for each community to consider the back-to-school proposal made tonight. Then, Monday night, another mass meeting is to be held at Firemen's hall at Midland to hear reports from the conference with the county board and the sectional meetings.

Before Senator Kimble's address, the citizens had heard W. Carl Richards, Cumberland attorney, declare the law was on the "wrong side" in the citizens' battle against the consolidation program.

Richards quoted a statute directing the county school board to effect school consolidations whenever practical.

Although thus pointing out that the citizens have no legal case, the attorney declared he was in sympathy with their stand and urged them to go to the legislature for redress of their grievances, including provisions for election of the school board.

Raises 'Dictatorship' Cry

Richards told the citizens they had "by indifference, surrendered one of your most precious rights by putting the school jurisdiction in the hands of a dictatorship."

With reference to the consolidation program, he described as "atrocious" the reputed failure of the school board to consult with citizens of these affected communities before abolishing their elementary schools or transferring their higher grades.

Senator Kimble, in suggesting that the children be sent back to school,

Three More Oakland Women Testify Against Doctor in Morals Trial

OAKLAND, Oct. 3—More witnesses were heard today in the trial of Dr. Clift P. Berger before Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan and Associate Judge W. A. Huster on charges of unnatural and perverted practices.

Testimony on one indictment was completed early today and was followed by testimony on three other indictments. Charges in these three indictments were preferred by Esther Kahl, Mrs. Lon Hershman and Mrs. Troy Smith, all of Oakland or nearby.

While in yesterday's testimony the act was allegedly committed in the physician's office while the nurse and another person were in adjoining rooms, the three cases today involved alleged offenses at night while the nurse was absent. On one occasion, Mrs. Smith's mother was in an adjoining room.

Dr. Berger was on the stand again in each instance and denied the charges.

Judge Sloan announced that the testimony will be transcribed and carefully studied and that arguments by opposing counsel will be heard next Saturday, October 12, after which the verdict will be given.

He also announced that the court would hear testimony tomorrow in the three cases against Jesse J. Ashby Jr., county treasurer, who is charged with embezzlement and false pretense.

At a hearing several weeks ago, Charles F. White, Oakland magistrate, held there was not sufficient evidence to hold Mr. Ashby for the grand jury, but the investigating body returned true bills.

Coal Mining Hazards Shown in Report

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 3 (AP) —Twenty-three workers were killed and 2,888 were injured in industrial accidents during September, the State Compensation Commission reported.

Chief Claims Agent P. V. Sullivan said coal mining was the most dangerous, accounting for nineteen fatalities and 1,177 non-fatal accidents. Fatalities left twenty widows and thirty-six children under sixteen years of age fatherless, Sullivan said.

Parkersburg Man Shows Sweeney U. S.-Packed Corned Beef, Wins $25

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 3 (AP)— Francis Becker, Parkersburg store owner, claimed today the $25 reward offered by Thomas B. Sweeney of Wheeling to the person who would show him a can of American-packed corned beef.

The Republican nominee for U. S. Senate made an original offer of $10 at Petersburg during an address attacking the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade treaties. In a later speech at Romney he raised it to $25.

Sweeney said today that he had forwarded his check to Becker with the statement that he was "glad to pay the loss, knowing that there was at least one concern in America courageous enough to compete with cheap foreign importations of this product."

said the citizens had put up a "heroic fight," but that it was in vain if they anticipated immediate results. Parents made a supreme sacrifice in depriving their children of schooling temperarily, he said, but ten more months of such sacrifice apparently would not bring results.

Therefore, he recommended that the children be made to suffer no further, but urged the citizens to keep up the fight.

Power Company To Build 27 Miles Of New Lines in Garrett County

West Maryland Power Company Announces Extension of Service

OAKLAND, Oct. 3—Extension of electric lines to accommodate 138 additional farm and small town patrons was announced this week by the Monongahela West Penn Public Service Company through its local branch, the West Maryland Power Company, whose chief office is located in Oakland.

The lines are already under construction and will extend for almost twenty-seven miles, east and north from Deer Park, thus giving these tentative new patrons electric service, possibly before the Christmas holiday season, depending upon weather conditions.

The announced extensions of the lines are as follows:

From Deer Park to Sand Flat and from Sand Flat to U. S. Route 219, to the old Dodge School House, a distance of 7.6 miles.

From Deer Park to Altamont and from Lake's Filling Station at the intersection of the Deer Park-Swanton highway to Swanton, a distance of 10.5 miles.

Loch Lynn Heights through Pleasant Valley community, a distance of 8.75 miles.

These lines will serve thirty-five, sixty-six and thirty-seven persons, respecttively and the number will probably be increased as the lines are completed.

About twenty men are now employed digging the holes for poles, which will be erected soon, it was said.

A demonstration meeting was held this evening at Deer Park in cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service, John H. Carter, county agent, announced. The meeting was held in the WOW hall at Deer Park.

A. V. Krewatch, electrical engineer, University of Maryland Extension Service, was present. There were demonstrations on wiring, equipment and accessories.

Last week the Maryland Public Service Commission granted permission to the Somerset Rural Electrification Cooperative, Inc., to build approximately thirty-one miles of power lines in this county (in the northern section). Ninety-two persons in the Selbysville-Friendsville-Fearer area have applied for the service.

With the extension now being made, there will be fifty-eight miles of electric lines added in Garrett county before the new year.

Governor Crowns Queen Silvia XI

City of Elkins Enters on Three Days of Carnival and Pageantry

ELKINS, W. Va., Oct. 3 (AP) — A new highland queen, golden-haired and attired in a gold spangled coronation gown, was given charge today of West Virginia's eleventh Mountain State Forest Festival as 20,000 persons watched Eloise Campbell Long become Queen Silvia XI.

Governor Homer A. Holt, who flew to Elkins to act as the festival's chief magistrate for the fourth time, gave the crown to the Huntington girl after exacting a promise she would rule wisely over her forestland and preserve the traditions of the West Virginia hills.

Clouds which had obscured the sun after a bright morning had cleared away by coronation time, and the scene in front of Davis-Elkins college's historic Halliehurst hall was brightened by light filtering through the mountain haze.

An honor guard of uniformed West Virginia university Rerserve Officers Training Corps cadets lined the long hill while Queen Silvia, her two maids of honor and thirty-two princesses marched down to the green-covered platform where Governor Holt administered the royal oath.

With the coronation this mountain city, which also is celebrating its golden jubilee, entered upon three days of carnival and pageantry, to be climaxed Saturday by a defense and aviation program designed to bring home to the hill people the necessity for United States preparedness.

Recruiting Squad Arrives in Keyser In Well-Equipped 'Luxury-Trailer'

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 3 — A recruiting squad of five men from the Baltimore district of the Third Corps Area arrived here today and is scheduled to remain until late tomorrow (Friday) night when the four U. S. Army enlistment officers and one private will leave in the luxury-trailer for Cumberland.

The "Flying Squadron" arrived here today from Oakland in a trailer equipped with everything including a kitchen sink. Lieut. L. B. Durn, in command of the vehicle, said this evening that nine Oakland men had been signed up for military service and sent to Baltimore headquarters, and nineteen others from the Maryland mountain city had indicated they would join up "the first part of next week."

The trailer is equipped with sleeping accommodations for five men; a sink with running water; a cooking range; a refrigerator; an oil heater; a public address system with two loud-speakers; phonograph and radio hook-up facilities, and a portable motion picture projector and screen.

Shown tonight on the movable screen, set up in front of the National Bank building, on the corner of Main and Centre streets, were pictures whose purpose was to "show what army life really means and to inform young men about the opportunities offered by the army."

On the trailer besides Lieutenant Dunn, were: First Sergeant Joseph Dunphy; Sergeant H. L. Pierce; Sergeant P. R. Evans, and Private, First - Class D. E. Vance. The trailer recruiting squad are men "specially selected from the regular army because of their ability to give information regarding 'the army as a career.'"

First Sergeant Dunphy has completed twenty-nine years of service and as officially rated as "one of the most outstanding sergeants on recruiting duty."

Lieutenant Dunn this evening said that "a number of young men who comes within draft age are taking advantage of the opportunity to select their army jobs, rather than waiting for conscription. There are vacancies in most branches of the service, and it would be possible for a recruit not only to choose his branch, but also to select the army post at which he would like to serve.

"Vacancies exist in Puerto Rico, Hawaii and Panama, for those who prefer foreign service."

Sixteen Members Are Initiated By Coney Club

Central High Home Economics Group To Complete Induction Today

LONACONING, Oct. 3 —Sixteen new members were initiated into the Home Economics club at Central high school last night. Serious initiation services were held for the new members, and a humorous one will be conducted tomorrow at the school.

Last week, Central became an honor club of the state Home Economic clubs. There are thirty-nine affiliated clubs, sixteen of which are honor clubs in the state. Bernadette Devilin, president of the local club, also is secretary of "Region A" clubs. This region includes Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Montgomery counties.

Four delegates and an adviser plan to attend the state meeting Saturday at College Park.

Those initiated were Edna Allen, June Bell, Virginia Cutter, Eva Doyle, Betty Dudley, Norma Gordon, Betty Grove, Esther Klipstein, Marianna Logsdon, Betty Small, Betty Lou Rankin, Dorethea Reed, Marie Savage, Virginia Schramm, Betty Stevenson and Catherine Woods.

Marriage Announced

The ceremony was performed September 27 at the Georges Creek church of the Brethren here by the Rev. C. D. Brendlinger. The attendants were Mrs. Mary Beeman and Alex H. Stafford.

Anniversary Party

A reception was held Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. S. Jeffrey, Detmold street, in honor of their thirtieth wedding anniversary. Refreshments were served, and the couple received many gifts.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Andrew MacLaren, Monessen; George Jeffrey and Mrs. Dan Gibbs, Belle Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Robeson and daughter, Ruth, Frostburg; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fazenbaker and children, Dorothy and Harry Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Magruder and son, Albert, Westernport; Miss Rena Wortman, Lake; William Jeffrey, Mrs. Julius Wattenachaidt, Mrs. Jean Green, Mr. and Mrs. George Lernent Sr., Donald Crawford, Mrs. Thomas Stafford Sr., Miss Mary Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bittinger and children, Melvin, Johnny and Junior; Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Whiteman, Mr. and Mrs. Connell Whiteman, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Thrasher and children, Jacqueline and Eddie; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Thomas and daughter, Betty Jane; Mr. and Mrs. Alex H. Stafford and daughter, Shirley Ann; John, Paul, Francis, James and Bobby Jeffrey.

Lonaconing Briefs

An airplane flying low over Lonaconing late this afternoon had hundreds of children scurrying about yards, alleys and streets for advertising tossed from the plane. The plane circled the city several times before heading across Dan's mountain to the Mexico Farms landing field in Cumberland.

One hundred and sixty-two pupils at the Jackson street school had a perfect attendance record during September it was announced by The third and fiurth grades were tied for first place, with thirty-four pupils each. The fifth grade was second, with twenty-seven, and the sixth third, with twenty-five.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 3 (AP)— Francis Becker, Parkersburg store owner, claimed today the $25 reward offered by Thomas B. Sweeney of Wheeling to the person who would show him a can of American-packed corned beef.

The Republican nominee for U. S. Senate made an original offer of $10 at Petersburg during an address attacking the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade treaties. In a later speech at Romney he raised it to $25.

Sweeney said today that he had forwarded his check to Becker with the statement that he was "glad to pay the loss, knowing that there was at least one concern in America courageous enough to compete with cheap foreign importations of this product."

Prospects Bright

said the citizens had put up a "heroic fight," but that it was in vain if they anticipated immediate results. Parents made a supreme sacrifice in depriving their children of schooling temperarily, he said, but ten more months of such sacrifice apparently would not bring results.

Therefore, he recommended that the children be made to suffer no further, but urged the citizens to keep up the fight.

Martin A. Carney Dies; Native of Oakland

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 3 Martin A. Carney, retired lumber dealer, died Tuesday afternoon here after suffering a heart attack Sunday. He was 82.

Mr. and Mrs. Carney would have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary October 29.

Mr. Carney was born November 25, 1857, at Oakland, Md., a son of the late Micheal and Bridget Hanahan Carney, who were natives of Ireland.

Survivors, besides his wife and nine children include a brother, Michael Carney, Oakland; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Macklin, Cumberland, and Mrs. M. J. Fahey, Westernport.

Services will be held here tomorrow, after which the funeral party will leave for Oakland, where burial will be made in St. Peter's cemetery.

West Maryland Power Company Announces Extension of Service

OAKLAND, Oct. 3—Extension of electric lines to accommodate 138 additional farm and small town patrons was announced this week by the Monongahela West Penn Public Service Company through its local branch, the West Maryland Power Company, whose chief office is located in Oakland.

The lines are already under construction and will extend for almost twenty-seven miles, east and north from Deer Park, thus giving these tentative new patrons electric service, possibly before the Christmas holiday season, depending upon weather conditions.

The announced extensions of the lines are as follows:

From Deer Park to Sand Flat and from Sand Flat to U. S. Route 219, to the old Dodge School House, a distance of 7.6 miles.

From Deer Park to Altamont and from Lake's Filling Station at the intersection of the Deer Park-Swanton highway to Swanton, a distance of 10.5 miles.

Loch Lynn Heights through Pleasant Valley community, a distance of 8.75 miles.

These lines will serve thirty-five, sixty-six and thirty-seven persons respectively and the number will probably be increased as the lines are completed.

About twenty men are now employed digging the holes for poles, which will be erected soon, it was said.

A demonstration meeting was held this evening at Deer Park in cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service. John H. Carter, county agent, announced. The meeting was held in the WOW hall at Deer Park.

A. V. Krewatch, electrical engineer, University of Maryland Extension Service, was present. There were demonstrations on wiring, equipment and accessories.

Last week the Maryland Public Service Commission granted permission to the Somerset Rural Electrification Cooperative, Inc., to build approximately thirty-one miles of power lines in this county (in the northern section). Ninety-two persons in the Selbysville-Friendsville-Fearer area have applied for the service.

With the extension now being made, there will be fifty-eight miles of electric lines added in Garrett county before the new year.

Governor Crowns Queen Silvia XI

City of Elkins Enters on Three Days of Carnival and Pageantry

ELKINS, W. Va., Oct. 3 (AP) — A new highland queen, golden-haired and attired in a gold spangled coronation gown, was given charge today of West Virginia's eleventh Mountain State Forest Festival as 20,000 persons watched Eloise Campbell Long become Queen Silvia XI.

Governor Homer A. Holt, who flew to Elkins to act as the festival's chief magistrate for the fourth time, gave the crown to the Huntington girl after exacting a promise she would rule wisely over her forestland and preserve the traditions of the West Virginia hills.

Clouds which had obscured the sun after a bright morning had cleared away by coronation time, and the scene in front of Davis-Elkins college's historic Hallichurst hall was brightened by light filtering through the mountain haze.

An honor guard of uniformed West Virginia university Rerserve Officers Training Corps cadets lined the long hill while Queen Silvia, her two maids of honor and thirty-two princesses marched down to the green-covered platform where Governor Holt administered the royal oath.

With the coronation this mountain city, which also is celebrating its golden jubilee, entered upon three days of carnival and pageantry, to be climaxed Saturday by a defense and aviation program designed to bring home to the hill people the necessity for United States preparedness.

Recruiting Squad Arrives in Keyser In Well-Equipped 'Luxury-Trailer'

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 3 — A recruiting squad of five men from the Baltimore district of the Third Corps Area arrived here today and is scheduled to remain until late tomorrow (Friday) night when the four U. S. Army enlistment officers and one private will leave in the luxury-trailer for Cumberland.

The "Flying Squadron" arrived here today from Oakland in a trailer equipped with everything including a kitchen sink. Lieut. L. B. Durn, in command of the vehicle, said this evening that nine Oakland men had been signed up for military service and sent to Baltimore headquarters, and nineteen others from the Maryland mountain city had indicated they would join up "the first part of next week."

The trailer is equipped with sleeping accommodations for five men; a sink with running water; a cooking range; a refrigerator; an oil heater; a public address system with two loud-speakers; phonograph and radio hook-up facilities, and a portable motion picture projector and screen.

Shown tonight on the movable screen, set up in front of the National Bank building, on the corner of Main and Centre streets, were pictures whose purpose was to "show what army life really means and to inform young men about the opportunities offered by the army."

On the trailer besides Lieutenant Dunn, were: First Sergeant Joseph Dunphy; Sergeant H. L. Pierce; Sergeant P. R. Evans, and Private, First - Class D. E. Vance. The trailer recruiting squad are men "specially selected from the regular army because of their ability to give information regarding 'the army as a career.'"

First Sergeant Dunphy has completed twenty-nine years of service and as officially rated as "one of the most outstanding sergeants on recruiting duty."

Lieutenant Dunn this evening said that "a number of young men who comes within draft age are taking advantage of the opportunity to select their army jobs, rather than waiting for conscription. There are vacancies in most branches of the service, and it would be possible for a recruit not only to choose his branch, but also to select the army post at which he would like to serve.

"Vacancies exist in Puerto Rico, Hawaii and Panama, for those who prefer foreign service."

Vitamins Are Fertilizers Of Human Body

Only Small Amounts Are Needed to Influence Our Well Being

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Vitamins, as I intimated yesterday, are the fertilizers of the human body. We need only small amounts of them and they act subtly to influence our well being, our growth, our hardiness (resistance to infections) just as fertilizers affect the same general features of plants.

The question arises—and a very natural one it is in view of the prevalent craze to get all sorts of extra vitamins in concentrated form and otherwise—whether we can get too much vitamins. Plants get too much fertilizer sometimes. Can we overdo the vitamin business?

Most of what we hear is just the opposite kind of advice—here is Surgeon-General Parran, of the Public Health Service, telling us that there is a "new starvation" in the United States that hits two out of five citizens, resulting in faulty nutrition. "More than 40 per cent of the people in the country are not getting a diet adequate to maintain good health and vigor," writes Dr. Parran.

Deficiency Diseases Rare

I gave reasons in the first article this week for believing that this sort of talk is grossly exaggerated. Physicians who see patients in charity clinics are familiar with conditions in all walks of life—particularly those walks of life where food is not abundant—and yet they find that deficiency diseases are still rare.

But people are undoubtedly taking vitamin products in large quantities. So the question is pertinent—does this do any harm?

Experiments have been carried out to determine this, and the result of them seems to be that there is no ground to fear that except in one instance, any ill effects come from overdosage. Vitamin A is obtained by the body on the average American dietary in the amount of about 5,000 units daily. McBeth gave large quantities of the vitamin to school children up to 16,000 units a day. The age of the children was from 8 to 14 years. No outward results were observed from this large dosage.

Thiamine chloride, which is the crystalline form of Vitamin B, is required by the body in the amount of about 50 units for children and 200 units for adults per day. Twenty-seven thousand units were taken by a laboratory worker in a single dose. And the same man took twenty times the needed dose daily for quite a period of time. No ill effects were observed from the experiments.

Too Much Vitamin

Riboflavin, which is the chemical name for Vitamin B2, can be taken in 1,000 times the needed amount without producing toxic effects.

Vitamin C is destroyed or excreted from the body very rapidly. In experimental work on animals, five times the ordinary amount taken in daily by the body was given and no ill effects observed, and no changes found in the liver, heart, kidneys or lungs in the animals after they were killed.

The only vitamin that can do any harm when taken in large amounts is Vitamin D. It normally is needed in the diet because it prevents rickets, and does so by laying down calcium salts in the long bones. When fed in excess this calcification goes forward at a more rapid rate, resulting in kidney stones and similar deposits all over the body.

Vitamins Are Fertilizers Of Human Body

Only Small Amounts Are Needed to Influence Our Well Being

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Vitamins, as I intimated yesterday, are the fertilizers of the human body. We need only small amounts of them and they act subtly to influence our well being, our growth, our hardiness (resistance to infections) just as fertilizers affect the same general features of plants.

The question arises—and a very natural one it is in view of the prevalent craze to get all sorts of extra vitamins in concentrated form and otherwise—whether we can get too much vitamins. Plants get too much fertilizer sometimes. Can we overdo the vitamin business?

Most of what we hear is just the opposite kind of advice—here is Surgeon-General Parran, of the Public Health Service, telling us that there is a "new starvation" in the United States that hits two out of five citizens, resulting in faulty nutrition. "More than 40 per cent of the people in the country are not getting a diet adequate to maintain good health and vigor," writes Dr. Parran.

Deficiency Diseases Rare

I gave reasons in the first article this week for believing that this sort of talk is grossly exaggerated. Physicians who see patients in charity clinics are familiar with conditions in all walks of life—particularly those walks of life where food is not abundant—and yet they find that deficiency diseases are still rare.

But people are undoubtedly taking vitamin products in large quantities. So the question is pertinent—does this do any harm?

Experiments have been carried out to determine this, and the result of them seems to be that there is no ground to fear that except in one instance, any ill effects come from overdosage. Vitamin A is obtained by the body on the average American dietary in the amount of about 5,000 units daily. McBeth gave large quantities of the vitamin to school children up to 16,000 units a day. The age of the children was from 8 to 14 years. No outward results were observed from this large dosage.

Thiamine chloride, which is the crystalline form of Vitamin B, is required by the body in the amount of about 50 units for children and 200 units for adults per day. Twenty-seven thousand units were taken by a laboratory worker in a single dose. And the same man took twenty times the needed dose daily for quite a period of time. No ill effects were observed from the experiments.

Too Much Vitamin

Riboflavin, which is the chemical name for Vitamin B2, can be taken in 1,000 times the needed amount without producing toxic effects.

Vitamin C is destroyed or excreted from the body very rapidly. In experimental work on animals, five times the ordinary amount taken in daily by the body was given and no ill effects observed, and no changes found in the liver, heart, kidneys or lungs in the animals after they were killed.

The only vitamin that can do any harm when taken in large amounts is Vitamin D. It normally is needed in the diet because it prevents rickets, and does so by laying down calcium salts in the long bones. When fed in excess this calcification goes forward at a more rapid rate, resulting in kidney stones and similar deposits all over the body.

Profit-Taking Lowers Stocks as Many Traders Become Cautious

Only a Few Issues Retain Gains Made in Early Trading

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — The stock market tropped over profit taking today after four successive rising sessions.

Some traders inclined to cash in on the theory the market might be due for a technical reaction because of the lengthy recovery.

Transfers amounted to 784,885 compared with 769,900 the day before.

Retaining portions of their forenoon upturn were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Dow Cremical, J. C. Penney, U. S. Gypsum, Johns-Manville, American Can, Eastern Air Lines, Pullman, Baldwin Locomotive and American Telephone. Senior shares of Pere Marquette, Budd Mfg. and Market Street Railway were active gainers of as much as two points.

Losers of fractions to a point or so were Crucible Steel Common and preferred, U. S. Rubber, Deere, Aanaconda, Great Northern, Loft, Westinghouse, General Electric, Allied Cremical and Standard Oil of N. J.

Mounting steel orders were helpful, as were indications the gorwing volume of defense spending was seeping into many lines of industry.

Among curb gainers were Bell Aircraft, Glen Alden Coal, American Cyanamid "B", Gulf Oil and Aluminum Ltd. Mild losses were posted for Brewster Aero, Phoenix Securities and Pantepec. The turnover here was around 104,000 shares against 107,000 yesterday.

Cassidy and His Pals Return to the Garden

Hard riding and smoking guns bang their way to the fore at the Garden theater where "Hopalong" Cassidy comes back with his pals "Lucky" and "Speedy" in "Hidden Gold."

"Hoppy," celebrated character of fiction and film, is on a vacation from the Bar 20 this time, looking for the robbers who stop shipment after shipment of the Colby gold.

William Boyd, the man who gave life to Clarence E. Mulford's cowboy character, again has Russell Hayden, as "Lucky," and Britt Wood, as "Speedy," supporting him as his scrapping, laughing, pals.

The co-feature at the Garden is "Fugitive at Largs", starring Jack Holt and Patricia Ellis.

Two Features Are Offered at Embassy

Roscoe Ates plays the comic Gloomy in Monogram's "Cowboy from Sundown," now at the Embassy theatre.

Gloomy's romance with "Prunella Wallaby," an old maid with a terrible temper, causes most of the laughs in this picture, which is the story of a feud between the law and the cattlemen, after a mysterious plague strikes the community.

The second feature on the bill is Merle Oberon in "Over the Moon", a technicolor production.

Pan American Revue Is on Strand Stage

The "Pan American Revue" with variety entertainment, is showing at the Strand theater. It is heavy on comedy, its biggest asset. It will remain today and tomorrow at the Strand.

Running little over an hour, the show is built around no fewer than five acts, and their uniformity is such that it is practically impossible to single out any one headliner of the lot.

The Three Takeetas get applause with their high perch pole and novelty juggling routines.

Bob Hopkins as a mimic runs through radio's popular Kraft Music Hall program, with Crosby, Burns and such assorted guests as Edward Everett Horton, Bob Hope, Bergen and McCarthy, W. C. Fields and Charles Butterworth.

The Costonzos introduce the "La Conga", a dance craze from South America.

Van and Arrvola start out to be just another wise guy-dumb dame team but soon have the audience thinking differently.

Shaye and Prosper, comedy acrobats, start more laughter rolling over the footlights.

Of course, there's a girl vocalist, Frances Kay, who swings out with "Ciri Biri Bin" and "Exactly Like You". The ten-girl line appears to best advantage in the final production number, a costumed spot.

The picture feature is Paramount's "Way of All Flesh", starring Akim Tamiroff and Gladys George.

HER HERO

Wayne Morris had to play two roles in "The Quarterback" to get Virginia Dale. The picture is half of the twin hit program now showing at the Strand theater. The second feature is John Barrymore and Mary Beth Hughes in "The Great Profile."

Two Newcomers Are In Durbin Picture

Two virtual screen newcomers are to be seen in support of Deanna Durbin in Universal's "Spring Parade," which will start showings Saturday at the New Liberty theater.

One is Anne Gwynne, a photogenic young lady who has been playing minor leads. She was selected by Henry Koster, the director, to portray the important role of Jenny, the flirt, the largest feminine supporting role in the picture.

The other "newcomer" is S. Z. Sakall, Hungarian comedian, who was first seen in America as the confused theatrical producer in Deanna's previous picture, "It's a Date." For years he was a star of the stage and screen in Budapest, Vienna, and Berlin before coming to this country a short time ago. He is seen as the baker who befriends Deanna.

Veteran Eddie Polo, famed in the silent days as a star of stunt-filled action pictures, has the role of the cafe proprietor.

WORKING ON THE GROCER

Ann Sothern and Virginia Weidler try a little cajolery on a grocer in the hopes of reducing his prices. The scene is from "Gold Rush Maisie," latest laugh adventure of the honky-tonk showgirl, Maisie, which shows thru this Sunday at the Maryland theater. Lee Bowman plays the male lead, and Slim Summerville adds to the laughs.

DOING THE CZARDAS

Gold Rush Adventure Is Depicted in Film

Ann Sothern and Lee Bowman, aided and abetted by Slim Sommerville and Virginia Weidler, provide comedy in "Gold Rush Maisie," third in the series dealing with the adventures of the stranded showgirl, which opened yesterday at the Maryland Theater.

Miss Sothern puts over her wisecracks and homilies in the Arizona desert setting in which this adventure finds her. Enroute to a safe-singing job in a small Arizona town, her jallopy breaks down and leaves her adrift on the desert. Lee Bowman as Bill Anders, young ranch owner, comes to her rescue but withdraws his welcome when she dodges his advances. His misogynist hired hand, played by Sommerville, disapproves of women's influence around the home, anyway, and both he and Bowman disapprove more than ever when Maisie returns with a whole family of itinerant crop-followers who have turned gold prospectors.

When the gold strike proves a fluke, all their troubles start anew, of course, and once again Maisie must figure out a solution.

In the cast are John Hamilton as Bert Davis, Jubilee's father; Mary Nash as the mother; Scotty Beckett as Harold, the young s and even Baby Quintanilla, as youngest of the family; Ci Judels as the unfeeling cafe o Wallace Reid, Jr., and Victor K Jr., as the young prospectors.

Profit-Taking Lowers Stocks as Many Traders Become Cautious

Only a Few Issues Retain Gains Made in Early Trading

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — The stock market tropped over profit taking today after four successive rising sessions.

Some traders inclined to cash in on the theory the market might be due for a technical reaction because of the lengthy recovery.

Transfers amounted to 784,885 compared with 769,900 the day before.

Retaining portions of their forenoon upturn were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Dow Cremical, J. C. Penney, U. S. Gypsum, Johns-Manville, American Can, Eastern Air Lines, United Air Lines, Pullman, Baldwin Locomotive and American Telephone. Senior shares of Pere Marquette, Budd Mfg. and Market Street Railway were active gainers of as much as two points.

Losers of fractions to a point or so were Crucible Steel Common and preferred, U. S. Rubber, Deere, Aanaconda, Great Northern, Loft, Westinghouse, General Electric, Allied Cremical and Standard Oil of N. J.

Mounting steel orders were helpful, as were indications the gorwing volume of defense spending was seeping into many lines of industry.

Among curb gainers were Bell Aircraft, Glen Alden Coal, American Cyanamid "B", Gulf Oil and Aluminum Ltd. Mild losses were posted for Brewster Aero, Phoenix Securities and Pantepec. The turnover here was around 104,000 shares against 107,000 yesterday.

Gloomy's romance with "Prunella Wallaby," an old maid with a terrible temper, causes most of the laughs in this picture, which is the story of a feud between the law and the cattlemen, after a mysterious plague strikes the community.

The second feature on the bill is Merle Oberon in "Over the Moon", a technicolor production.

Pan American Revue Is on Strand Stage

The "Pan American Revue" with variety entertainment, is showing at the Strand theater. It is heavy on comedy, its biggest asset. It will remain today and tomorrow at the Strand.

Running little over an hour, the show is built around no fewer than five acts, and their uniformity is such that it is practically impossible to single out any one headliner of the lot.

The Three Takeetas get applause with their high perch pole and novelty juggling routines.

Bob Hopkins as a mimic runs through radio's popular Kraft Music Hall program with Crosby, Burns and such assorted guests as Edward Everett Horton, Bob Hope, Bergen and McCarthy, W. C. Fields and Charles Butterworth.

The Costonzos introduce the "La Conga", a dance craze from South America.

Van and Arrvola start out to be just another wise guy-dumb dame team but soon have the audience thinking differently.

Shaye and Prosper, comedy acrobats, start more laughter rolling over the footlights.

Of course, there's a girl vocalist, Frances Kay, who swings out with 'Ciri Biri Bin" and 'Exactly Like You". The ten-girl line appears to best advantage in the final production number, a costumed spot.

The picture feature is Paramount's "Way of All Flesh", starring Akim Tamiroff and Gladys George.

HER HERO

Wayne Morris had to play two roles in "The Quarterback" to get Virginia Dale. The picture is half of the twin hit program now showing at the Strand theater. The second feature is John Barrymore and Mary Beth Hughes in "The Great Profile."

Two Newcomers Are In Durbin Picture

Two virtual screen newcomers are to be seen in support of Deanna Durbin in Universal's "Spring Parade," which will start showings Saturday at the New Liberty theater.

One is Anne Gwynne, a photogenic young lady who has been playing minor leads. She was selected by Henry Koster, the director, to portray the important role of Jenny, the flirt, the largest feminine supporting role in the picture.

The other "newcomer" is S. Z. Sakall, Hungarian comedian, who was first seen in America as the confused theatrical producer in Deanna's previous picture, "It's a Date." For years he was a star of the stage and screen in Budapest, Vienna, and Berlin before coming to this country a short time ago. He is seen as the baker who befriends Deanna.

Veteran Eddie Polo, famed in the silent days as a star of stunt-filled action pictures, has the role of the cafe proprietor.

WORKING ON THE GROCER

Ann Sothern and Virginia Weidler try a little cajolery on a grocer in the hopes of reducing his prices. The scene is from "Gold Rush Maisie," latest laugh adventure of the honky-tonk showgirl, Maisie, which shows thru this Sunday at the Maryland theater. Lee Bowman plays the male lead, and Slim Summerville adds to the laughs.

DOING THE CZARDAS

Gold Rush Adventure Is Depicted in Film

Ann Sothern and Lee Bowman, aided and abetted by Slim Sommerville and Virginia Weidler, provide comedy in "Gold Rush Maisie," third in the series dealing with the adventures of the stranded showgirl, which opened yesterday at the Maryland Theater.

Miss Sothern puts over her wisecracks and homilies in the Arizona desert setting in which this adventure finds her. Enroute to a safe-singing job in a small Arizona town, her jallopy breaks down and leaves her adrift on the desert. Lee Bowman as Bill Anders, young ranch owner, comes to her rescue but withdraws his welcome when she dodges his advances. His misogynist hired hand, played by Sommerville, disapproves of women's influence around the home, anyway, and both he and Bowman disapprove more than ever when Maisie returns with a whole family of itinerant crop-followers who have turned gold prospectors.

When the gold strike proves a fluke, all their troubles start anew, of course, and once again Maisie must figure out a solution.

In the cast are John Hamilton as Bert Davis, Jubilee's father; Mary Nash as the mother; Scotty Beckett as Harold, the young and even Baby Quintanilla, as youngest of the family; Ch Judels as the unfeeling cafe o Wallace Reid, Jr., and Victor K Jr., as the young prospectors.

How To Ride a Flying Fish

AP Feature Service

Of course, you may never have the opportunity to ride a flying fish but if the occasion arises here's how it's done:

First, you don't catch the fish You make one out of plastics. Then you build a big frame, or borrow some football goal-posts, and suspend the fish by invisible wires.

Then you put a step-ladder beside the fish and with the help of five strong men get on board.

Next you engage the services of a photographer, telling him to stand close so that the framework won't show.

Decorative Lois Davis shows how it was done at a Mardi Gras at Venice, California.

Senator LaFollette, Jr. To Support FDR

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 3. (AP)—U. S. Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., has announced he will support President Roosevelt for a third term.

The senator, who is running for re-election on the Progressive ticket, said in a statement yesterday:

"I have not been unmindful of the fact that I sponsored an anti-third term resolution in the days of the false prosperity of President Coolidge. But for myself, chosing between the two presidential candidates in this critical period, I can come to only one conclusion.

"On the record as made by the candidates for president, the American way of life has the better opportunity of working out its destiny in the next four years under the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt. I shall vote for him November 5."

Potomac River Bridge Is Nearing Completion

MORGANTOWN, Md., Oct. 3. (AP)—Automobiles may be rolling over the Potomac river bridge—one of two new $5,000,000 spans in Maryland—by Christmas.

That, at least, is the hope of the State Roads Commission, Chairman Ezra B. Whitman said today.

The bridge, more than two miles long, must be completed by Dec. 31, a deadline set by the PWA which is paying forty-five per cent of the structure's cost. The state's share was raised through a bond issue.

Maryland will build a roadway connecting the bridge with route 3, and Virginia is constructing a new road to the bridge end near Dahlgren, Va.

Whitman said only four steel spans still must be put in place.

Concrete flooring is already being laid at both ends of the new bridge, and this work should "move ahead quickly."

Farmhand Confesses Beating Employer

TIFFIN, O., Oct. 3 (AP)—Sheriff Verne Deats arrested Donald Wagler, 19, here and reported the farm hand had confessed critically beating his employer, Paul E. Schafer, 33.

Schafer was near death with a crushed skull.

Deats reported Wagler admitted attacking Schafer with a club in the early hours of the morning after his employer reproved him for staying out late with Schafer's automobile.

Wagler fled from the house but returned later and called Schafer's two daughters, Emma Louise, 12, and Frances Eileen, 10, who had barricaded themselves in a bedroom after hearing a commotion and groans, Deats said.

Wagler previously said he found Schafer unconscious in his blood-soaked bed upon returning from a visit to the home of his father, Lawrence Wagler, near Findlay.

Assistant to Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3. (AP)—President Roosevelt has announced at a press conference that he had named Lowell Mellett, chief of the office of government reports, to be one of his administrative assistants.

He said Mellett would serve as a general handyman and still would supervise the reports office.

Mellett, a former newspaperman, was director of the National Emergency Council before it was brought under jurisdiction of the White House and converted into the office of reports.

Parents Should Win Confidence Of Their Children

Should Not Rebuke Them About Experiences Away From Home

By G. CLEVELAND MYERS, Ed.D.

When your child began to go to school, you realized that he would be away from you a great deal. You still desired to control him and to guide his conduct. Naturally you commanded him to do or not to do many things while at school and on the way. Just as naturally you would check on him by questioning him, to find out how well he had obeyed. For example, you told him not to go into the "sweet" store near the school and not to buy candy for lunch but to choose milk and vegetables. Later you tried to find out if he had obeyed.

Yet, as a rule, you had no way of knowing how accurately he answered all your questions. Recalling your own childhood experience, you can be pretty sure he tended to grow practically and to answer in safe ways—to lie in short. With increased experience at meeting with rebuke and punishment when he reported accurately and escaping such penalties when he was more "practical," he easily may have grown very skillful at lying—you being the chief agent in teaching him to do so.

Third Degree

You meet a similar problem when your son or daughter begins going out at night. Eager that their conduct while away shall measure up to your standards, you are prone to command them before they leave concerning their behavior while they will be away; then on their return to put them on the witness stand. Before long you may suspect they are lying at times and you may try to force them to acknowledge having done so, tempting them further in deceit, therefore. Moreover, you may find them telling little or nothing of their experience away from home except what you wrench from them.

If, my fellow parents, you will think carefully through these matters, you will conclude with me that it hardly can be wise to command a child in your absence. Then you will find no reason to hold inquisitions which further cultivate deceit.

A better way is to say to the school child, for example, "I hope you will not go into that store," or "I wish you would select milk and vegetables for lunch," and let it go at that.

Also as your boy or girl leaves home for the evening, it will be better merely to suggest occasionally that you hope for a perfect behavior score. If you wait up for him it will be to welcome him and enjoy the account of a good time, not to hold an inquisition.

Even when your child volunteers information about experiences away from home you will be careful not to condemn or rebuke. Winning youth's confidence and willingness to measure up to your standards in your absence is a fine art worth cultivating. We best control our children when absent by cultivating the kind of attitude and habits while they are with us which we wish them to have while away from us.

If you would like to have a selected list of books on guiding your child and happy family living, write me at 235 E. 45th St., N. Y., enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Gay, Quick-to-Stitch Apron

Marian Martin

PATTERN 9529

If you're "domestically inclined," you'll want to stitch up some bright, fresh aprons to wear about your household tasks. Simplicity and gaiety have been combined by Marian Martin in Pattern 9529. The front has a pert basque effect, with its pointed waist-seam. A front panel makes for extra cover-up fullness in the skirt. The back is cleverly designed to keep the shoulder straps in place. Choose between two gay versions; one with a pointed neckline matched by pointed, stitched-over straps; the other with a round neck and an all-in-one front.

Pattern 9529 may be ordered only in sizes small (32-34), medium (36-38) and large (40-42). Small size, view A, requires 2¾ yards 36 inch fabric and 3 yards ruffling; view B, 2⅝ yards 36 inch fabric and 2¾ yards ric-rac.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Let the new Marian Martin Pattern Book show you the budget path to a bright fashion future. Everything you are going to need in your winter wardrobe appears between its covers,—each style in a simple-to-follow pattern. There are tailored suits, coats and frocks . . . an economy wardrobe for matrons . . . winter sports wear . . . soft afternoon frocks . . . "party lines" for evening! Included are smart styles for co-eds and working girls; for tots and teens. Order your copy now! Book fifteen cents. Pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Parents Should Win Confidence Of Their Children

By G. CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

When your child began to go to school, you realized that he would be away from you a great deal. You still desired to control him and to guide his conduct. Naturally you commanded him to do or not to do many things while at school and on the way. Just as naturally you would check on him by questioning him, to find out how well he had obeyed. For example, you told him not to go into the "sweet" store near the school and not to buy candy for lunch but to choose milk and vegetables. Later you tried to find out if he had obeyed.

Yet, as a rule, you had no way of knowing how accurately he answered all your questions. Recalling your own childhood experience, you can be pretty sure he tended to grow practically and to answer in safe ways—to lie in short. With increased experience at meeting with rebuke and punishment when he reported accurately and escaping such penalties when he was more "practical," he easily may have grown very skillful at lying—you being the chief agent in teaching him to do so.

Third Degree

You meet a similar problem when your son or daughter begins going out at night. Eager that their conduct while away shall measure up to your standards, you are prone to command them before they leave concerning their behavior while they will be away; then on their return, to put them on the witness stand. Before long you may suspect they are lying at times and you may try to force them to acknowledge having done so, tempting them further in deceit, therefore. Moreover, you may find them telling little or nothing of their experience away from home except what you wrench from them.

If, my fellow parents, you will think carefully through these matters, you will conclude with me that it hardly can be wise to command a child in your absence. Then you will find no reason to hold inquisitions which further cultivate deceit.

A better way is to say to the school child, for example, "I hope you will not go into that store," or "I wish you would select milk and vegetables for lunch," and let it go at that.

Also as your boy or girl leaves home for the evening, it will be better merely to suggest occasionally that you hope for a perfect behavior score. If you wait up for him it will be to welcome him and enjoy the account of a good time, not to hold an inquisition.

Even when your child volunteers information about experiences away from home you will be careful not to condemn or rebuke. Winning youth's confidence and willingness to measure up to your standards in your absence is a fine art worth cultivating. We best control our children when absent by cultivating the kind of attitude and habits while they are with us which we wish them to have while away from us.

If you would like to have a selected list of books on guiding your child and happy family living, write me at 235 E. 45th St., N. Y., enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Gay, Quick-to-Stitch Apron

PATTERN 9529

If you're "domestically inclined," you'll want to stitch up some bright, fresh aprons to wear about your household tasks. Simplicity and gaiety have been combined by Marian Martin in Pattern 9529. The front has a pert basque effect, with its pointed waist-seam. A front panel makes for extra cover-up fullness in the skirt. The back is cleverly designed to keep the shoulder straps in place. Choose between two gay versions; one with a pointed neckline matched by pointed, stitched-over straps; the other with a round neck and an all-in-one front.

Pattern 9529 may be ordered only in sizes small (32-34), medium (36-38) and large (40-42). Small size, view A, requires 2⅝ yards 36 inch fabric and 3 yards ruffling; view B, 2⅝ yards 36 inch fabric and 2⅜ yards ric-rac.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Let the new Marian Martin Pattern Book show you the budget path to a bright fashion future. Everything you are going to need in your winter wardrobe appears between its covers,—each style in a simple-to-follow pattern. There are tailored suits, coats and frocks . . . an economy wardrobe for matrons . . . winter sports wear . . . soft afternoon frocks . . . "party lines" for evening! Included are smart styles for co-eds and working girls; for tots and 'teens. Order your copy now! Book fifteen cents. Pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Cincinnati Defeats Detroit in Second 5 to 3

Blasts Rowe Out In Fourth; Bucky Walters Is Hero

Holds Bengal Batters To Three Hits---Ripple's Homer Is Tonic

epresenting the senior circuit in aseball's big autumn classic won a ame from the American League ince the New York Giants took he fourth game of the 1937 series om the Yankees.

These same Yankees last year illed Bucky for nine hits and opped up the Reds easily in the econd session of their series. His st low pitching was thought to considerably to the liking of the iggers of the American League.

Walters Wild at Start

But today his only fault was that unfathomable wildness. His ry first pitche sailed past Catch- Jimmy Wilson like a shot and passed the first two batters, ick Bartell and Barney McCosky, ten pitches.

Then Gehringer smacked a single to right field to score Bartell and ing Gene Thompson went into tion in the Reds' bull pen. But efore he could get ready, Bill erber grabbed Greenberg's rounder for a double play, on hich McCosky scored, and Walt- found himself to strike out ky York on four pitches.

From that point on Walters nev- gave the fans or his teammates worry. He pitched carefully to e biggest guns of the Tigers, orking the corners and keeping e ball low when he came in with s fast one. Though he walked reenberg in the fourth and Mc osky in the sixth, it was because preferred making them look at pitchers rather than hit a od one.

He struck out four batters, in- ding York again in the ninth d the two Detroit pitchers.

Detroit Bats Muffled

The run Walters allowed in the th started by walking McCosky, o was forced at second by Geh- nger in what was almost a double y. Then Greenberg looked over e corner-cutters to a count of -1 and belted the fast one for a uble that rolled right up against e big black scoreboard in left nter, some 380 feet from the te. Gehringer scored from first. Big Hank also hit a tremendous to the same spot to lead off the th. But, in general, Detroit's ghty bats were muffled to vir- al silence and except for three s only seven balls went to the tfield.

The Reds' onslaught against owe by contrast was widespread th every Cincinnati batter ex- pt Mike McCormick getting one ow. Wilson got the only hit off rsica and it could have been ored as an error as well as not, cause Higgins simply couldn't ndle it on his left.

The second stanza teeing-off ainst Schoolboy was started by ank (Buck) McCormick, who shed the first pitch along the ound like a billiard ball into left ld. Ripple popped up, but Wil- n, Eddie Joost and Billy Myers t consecutive singles to all three lds for two runs.

This blast might have been big- , because Catcher Birdie Tebbetts ed to catch Joost off second and ew the ball through Bartell and to center field to send the runners third and second. But Walters ed out and after Werber walked, McCormick popped up with the es loaded.

Goodman led off the third inn- by beating out a drag bunt to- rd first and, after McCosky had led in F. McCormick's hot liner, pple pounded the first pitch over e fence in front of the right d bleachers, 370 feet from the te.

Rowe In Bad

The next two out came easily, but owe was obviously in for a bad rnoon. Myers hit the first pitch the fourth and Bruce Camp- had to make a Nice running ch to pull it in. Then Walters ded a double along the third e foul line and Werber knocked ner in the same direction and d for the same distance when ounced off the fence around some porary seats within a yard of foul line in the left field cor- .

What happened after Gorsica e in didn't make any difference. e Reds were stopped short, cut without another show, but they won the ball game and tied the series at a game apiece.

The two teams left almost im- diately after the game for De- , where the series will be con- ed tomorrow in Briggs Stadium. Manager Del Baker of the Tig- expected to follow his well- ned plan of starting curve-ball- Tommy Bridges in the first tus- on the home lot, but Bill Mc- nnie was torn between Gene mpson and the veteran Jim rner.

Although Thompson has been cinnati's regular No. 3 hurler all on, some persons close to the m though Turner's experience and trol would be more effective, icularly in strange surround- s.

Play by Play Account of Second World Series Game

First Inning Tigers

Walters' first pitch was a wild one that went past catcher Wilson on the fly and he walked Bartel on five throws.

Walters couldn't find the plate and McCosky also walked on five pitches.

Walters walked in to confer with Wilson, and Frank McCormick also came over to give encouragement.

With the count one and one, Gehringer slapped a single into right field scoring Bartell and sending McCosky to third.

Greenberg grounded into a double play, Werber to Joost to McCormick, scoring McCosky.

York struck out on four pitches.

Two runs, one out, no errors, none left.

First Inning Reds

Werber smacked the first pitch at Bartell and was thrown out.

M. McCormick lifted a weak foul into the stands and then struck out.

Goodman was thrown out by Gehringer.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Tigers

Campbell raised a pop foul to Werber inside the third base coaching box.

Higgins got two balls, fouled off a couple and then grounded to Myers.

Tebbetts lifted a high fly to Myers.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Reds

F. McCormick smashed the first pitch on the ground into left field for a single.

Ripple took a strike and then popped to Bartell in short left field.

Wilson singled into short right advancing F. McCormick to second.

Joost looked at three bad balls and one strike and then shot a hard single to center, bringing F. McCormick home and putting Wilson on second.

Myers hit the first pitch between Higgins and Bartell for a single, scoring Wilson and sending Joost to second, as the crowd yelled madly and Detroit's infield came in to confer with Rowe.

Tebbetts tried to catch Joost off second and threw into center field, Joost racing to third and Myers going to second.

Walters, who had waved at the first two pitches and then got two balls, flied to McCosky in short center, and Joost was prevented from coming home by a great throw.

Werner waited out a three and two count and then walked on a low pitch inside, filling the bases.

M. McCormick struck late at the first pitch and raised a high fly which Bartell just got under by running backwards.

Two runs, four hits, one error, three left.

Third Inning Tigers

Rowe took a count of three and two and then went down swinging.

Bartell raised a high fly to M. McCormick.

McCosky waited out and two count and then lined to M. McCormick in short center.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning Reds

Goodman laid a drag bunt down toward first base and beat York's throw to Rowe for a hit.

F. McCormick sent a sharp liner to McCosky in center field, Goodman holding first.

Ripple knocked the first pitch over the fence in the right field corner, 370 feet from home plate, scoring Goodman ahead of him. Fans in the bleachers sent a small shower of missiles into the air and these were swiftly cleared from the field.

Wilson lifted a high fly to Bartell on the grass in left field. Gorsica began warming up in the Tiger bull pen.

Joost sent an easy fly to Campbell.

Two runs, two hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Inning Tigers

Walters made a nice stop of Gehringer's bounder and threw him out at first.

Walter, pitching for the corners, walked Greenberg on four straight balls.

With the count one and two, York raised a high fly which Myers took in short center.

Campbell waited for a two and one ball and then lined to M. McCormick in right center.

Fourth Inning Reds

Myers hit the first pitch to Campbell who made a running catch in short right field.

After looking at one ball, Walters smashed a drive along the left field foul line which was good for two bases.

With the count three and one, Werber sliced the ball into the left field corner, where it hit the fence around some temporary seats and bounced back into the field past Greenberg, good for an easy double and scoring Walters.

John Gorsica, a rookie right-hander, was called in to replace Rowe.

M. McCormick sent a bouncing grounder to Higgins who tagged Werber on the basepath, but did not make a throw for McCormick.

Goodman sent a neasy roller to Gehringer and was thrown out.

One run, two hits, two errors, one left.

Fifth Inning Tigers

Higgins looked at one ball and then smacked a double into the left field corner.

With the count two strikes and no balls, Tebbetts lined to Ripple, who held Higgins on second.

With the count two and two, Gorsica knocked the ball down in front of the box and was thrown out by Walters, Higgins reaching third.

Bartell knocked an easy grounder to Werber and was thrown out by three yards.

No runs, 9, 3 085, no errors, one left.

Fifth Inning Reds

F. McCormick took a two and two count and then grounded out to Higgins.

Ripple also took a two and two count, swinging so hard twice that he almost fell, and then flied to Greenberg in short left.

Higgins took Wilson's easy grounder and then threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Sixth Inning Tigers

McCosky waited out a three and two count and then drew a base on balls.

Gehringer took two strikes, and then grounded to Werber, forcing McCosky at second, Werber to Joost, but beat the throw to first.

Greenberg waited out a three and two count, and then smashed a liner that rolled to the scoreboard in left center field, good for a double and scoring Gehringer.

With the count two and two, York flied to Goodman in deep right, moving Greenberg to third after the catch.

Campbell rolled to Joost and was thrown out.

One run, one hit, no errors, one left.

Sixth Inning Reds

Joost flied to McCosky in right center.

Myers worked to count to three and two and then whiffed on Gorsica's fast ball.

Walters knocked the first pitch back at Gorsica and was thrown out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Seventh Inning Tigers

Myers pulled in Higgins' fast grounder and threw him out.

Tebbetts looked at three straight balls and then hit a three and two pitch at Werber and was thrown out.

Gorsica waited out a three and two count and looked at the third strike.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Seventh Inning Reds

Werber was thrown out by Higgins.

M. McCormick, hitting a second pitch, went down the same way.

Goodman hit a bounder that went over Gorsica's head, but Bartell gobbled the ball and threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Eighth Inning Tigers

Bartell looked at two strikes and then lifted a high fly to Ripple in left field.

Myers picked up McCosky's grounder and threw him out.

The official attendance was announced as 30,640.

With the count two and two, Gehringer raised a high foul to Werber back of third base.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Eighth Inning Reds

F. McCormick took one strike and then drove a high fly to McCosky.

Ripple hit the first pitch to Gehringer and was thrown out.

Wilson sent a sharp bounder that bounced off Higgins' glove and was scored as a single.

Joost lifted a high fly to Campbell, who came running in fast to take it on the edge of the grass in right field.

Ninth Inning Tigers

Greenberg took one ball close inside and then drove a tremendous fly near the scoreboard in left field, that Ripple pulled it in.

York waited out two strikes and two balls and then looked at a third strike.

Campbell hit the first pitch to Myers, who backed up into short left.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Hershberger's Mother Voted Full Share of Series Pool by Reds

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Maude Hershberger, of Lemon City, Calif., mother of Willard Hershberger, Cincinnati Reds catcher who committed suicide last Summer, was voted a full share in the Reds' world series earnings, the club announced today.

Full shares also went to 22 players and Manager Bill McKechnie.

Johnny Vander Meer, double no-hit star of 1938 but in with Indiapolis for three months this season, was voted a quarter-share.

Cincinnati Grid Team To Tackle Navy Tomorrow

Ohio Squad Will Command Respect of Middie Eleven

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 3 (AP)—The University of Cincinnati Bearcats will command plenty of respect—and an alert enemy—when they take to the gridiron against Navy Saturday.

Coach Emery (Swede) Larson is inspiring respect in the Navy squad for the visitors because, he asserted today, "they've got a fast team that averages 185 pounds, and I know they are aiming to knock us off."

"I won't make any prediction," Larson added, "but we're out to win. If our boys play ball they'll have to have a good club to beat us."

Cincinnati reports are that the Bearcats are "steamed up" because of the close call they had against Louisville last week and Tommie Lonchar, star Cincinnati back who has played little this season, is now in top form.

Here Overnight

The Cincinnati squad entrained this morning and will stop at Cumberland tonight. Another practice is scheduled tomorrow on George Washington's field at Washington.

The players will arrive here at 11 a. m. Saturday. Cincinnati's sixty-four-piece band and about 200 students, including Miss Jean Ann Clark, cheerleader, will be on hand at game time.

Navy eased off on its work today, bolstering its defense against Cincinnati plays run off by the "B" squad and staging a short tackling session.

Larson said Phil Gutting, regular right half, would not play Saturday. He did not know whether Bill Busik and Johnnie Harrell, backs, and Bog Zoellner, end, would be available. All suffered injuries.

If Buskirk and Harrell are not ready, Wes Gebert will play left half and either Phil Hurt or Bud Boyer will be at quarterback, Larsin said. The other backs will be Sherwood Werner, fullback, and Sammy Boothe, right half.

Zoellner's place may be taken by Willis Maxson.

Larson is hoping that Capt. Dick Foster, end; Zeke Zechella, Clif Lenz and Gutting, backs, will be in condition for the Princeton game this Saturday week.

PICTURES OF FIRST WORLD SERIES GAME

Mike McCormick, Cincinnati center fielder, is safe at second on his double over York's head in the first inning of the first World Series game between the Reds and the Tigers at Cincinnati. The Detroiters took the Cincinnatians into camp, taking the first game 7-2.

Series Notes

By JOHN FRYE

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3 (AP)—"This is more like what we've been paying dough for all year," the faithful chanted as they seeped out of the ball park today.

It was a beautiful buildup. Bucky Walters' first pitch went right past Catcher Jimmy Wilson and dented the backboard. Then he couldn't get the range for umpire Red Ormsby, who comes from the high-pitching American League, and walked Dick Bartell and Barney McCosky, and the stands took on an air of "tis is where we came in."

It was, when Detroit scored, but somebody switched the script and the grandstand sounded like a world series hullaballoo for the first time in 21 years in the Reds' second inning.

When Frank McCormick singled, it was, "Well, Rowe won't get a no-hitter today." When Frank scored, the tune changed to "we won't get blanked, anyhow." And then, "maybe we'll finally win a blankety-blank ball game."

Jimmy Ripple's homer was what the whole American Medical Association ordered for Cincinnati and all its ailments of 21 years.

Smoke from the laundry across the street formed ahaze over the field, but it must have come from tar paper in the fire box. The way the employes were hanging out the window nobody could have been doing any work there.

Managers Bill McKechnie of the Reds and Bill Terry of the New York Giants had their heads together for many long minutes in the dugout before the game. Terry has had painful experiences of American League hitters, himself.

Guy Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, saw the game from Charles Sawyer's box. Helvering said he was not looking for scalpers, which is the job of his agents, and Sawyer, Democratic National Committeeman from Ohio, added, "You won't find any in this box."

The company that offers a free suit to any batter hitting a sign across the alley behind the left field fence was emboldened by yesterday's results. Today its announcement to this effect was up in leters twice as big.

Campbell of the Detroit Tigers, is being congratulated by Higgins and York as he crosses the plate in his fifth inning home run in the first World Series game between the Detroit Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds at Cincinnati. The home run drove in York and contributed greatly to the Tiger landslide.

Sophs Earn Ram Berths

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Two sophomores were definitely certain of first string berths when the Fordham Ram meets the feared West Virginia eleven here Saturday in one of the big town's big games.

Steve Filipowicz at fullback and Jim Lansing at right end have earned Coach Jimmy Crowley's respect and he'll give them a chance to make good, flanked by nine veterans.

The Ram coach worked his first team for an hour in a dummy scrimmage against the Frosh, with the Varsity on the defensive most of the time.

Newsom's Father Told Cronies His Death Was Near

Lived To See Son Hurl His World Series Win in First Game

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3 (AP)—Buck Newsom, pitching hero of yesterday's opening world series game, was absent from Crosley field today as his Detroit Tiger teammates went down to a 5-3 defeat by the Reds in the second struggle.

Sobbing brokenly, the big South Carlinian attended simple funeral services at a Cincinnati mortuary for his father, Henry Quillan Buffkin Newsom, who died in his hotel room early today.

An attending physician said the 68-year old retired farmer was victim of a heart illness.

Buck said his father died simply because he had lived long enough to see his son win a world series game. Buck said that if he had not pitched against the Reds until today he was sure his father would have lived to see him do it.

Also attending the services were Buck's stepmother, Mrs. Fronnie Newsom, and two sisters, Miss Alline Newsom of Hartsville, S. C., and Mrs. Lillian Mathis of Lancaster, S. C. His two daughters accompanied the elder Newsom here for the series largely because they were fearful he would die as he did.

When his father left Hartsville, Newsom said, his cronies told him they would see him when he returned. "I won't be back," he answered them.

Tonight, the widow and daughters accompanied the body back to Hartsville.

Bedford Gunner Wins Ali Ghan Weekly Shoot

G. L. Franklin of Bedford won the weekly shoot of the Ali Ghan Gun Club on the local trape yesterday afternoon, shattering 48 of a possible 50. F. C. Diehl and Jim Stevenson were tied for runner-up honors with 45's. Behind them came a three way deadlock for third: Huck McFerran, George Buchhanon and Dr. C. H. Diehl posting 44's. Frank Smith and John Lighter had 42's with Bill Morgan breaking 40 and Dr. J. M. Harris of Johnstown turning in a score of 39.

Shooting at 25 targets, L. O. Miller broke 24, Dr. Emmett Loar 22, Walter Eyler, Charles Simpson jr., and A. Gurley, 18 each.

Jim Powell and Jim Stevenson tied for top honors at skeet with 24's with Dr. Loar runner-up on 22. Dr. Diehl and Buchhannon each had 19. Bill Morgan and Frank Smith had 17's, Dr. Harris had 16 and F. C. Diehl had 16 to wind up the scores. Seventeen gunners completed. On Thursday a "ham" shoot will be held at the regular time.

Cincinnati Defeats Detroit in Second 5 to 3

Blasts Rowe Out n Fourth; Bucky Walters Is Hero

olds Bengal Batters To Three Hits---Ripple's Homer Is Tonic

eps Up Reds After Bad First Inning---Gorsica Stars in Relief

epresenting the senior circuit in seball's big autumn classic won a me from the American League nce the New York Giants took e fourth game of the 1937 series om the Yankees.

These same Yankees last year elted Bucky for nine hits and opped up the Reds easily in the cond session of their series. His st, low pitching was thought to considerably to the liking of the uggers of the American League.

Walters Wild at Start

But today his only fault was that rst unfathomable wildness. His ry first pitche sailed past Catch- Jimmy Wilson like a shot and e passed the first two batters, ick Bartell and Barney McCosky, n ten pitches.

Then Gehringer smacked a single to right field to score Bartell and oung Gene Thompson went into tion in the Reds' bull pen. But efore he could get ready, Bill erber grabbed Greenberg's rounder for a double play, on hich McCosky scored, and Walt- rs found himself to strike out ucy York on four pitches.

From that point on Walters nev- gave the fans or his teammates worry. He pitched carefully to he biggest guns of the Tigers, orking the corners and keeping he ball low when he came in with s fast one. Though he walked reenberg in the fourth and Mc osky in the sixth, it was because e preferred making them look at ad pitchers rather than hit a ood one.

He struck out four batters, in- uding York again in the ninth nd the two Detroit pitchers.

Detroit Bats Muffled

The run Walters allowed in the ith started by walking McCosky, ho was forced at second by Geh- nger in what was almost a double lay. Then Greenberg looked over he corner-cutters to a count of -2 and belted the fast one for a ouble that rolled right up against he big black scoreboard in left enter, some 380 feet from the late. Gehringer scored from first. Big Hank also hit a tremendous to the same spot to lead off the nth. But, in general, Detroit's ighty bats were muffled to vir- al silence and except for three its only seven balls went to the ufield.

The Reds' onslaught against owe by contrast was widespread ith every Cincinnati batter ex- pt Mike McCormick getting one low. Wilson got the only hit off orsica and it could have been ored as an error as well as not, ecause Higgins simply couldn't andle it on his left.

The second stanza teeing-off ainst Schoolboy was started by ank (Buck) McCormick, who shed the first pitch along the ound like a billiard ball into left ld. Ripple popped up, but Wil- on, Eddie Joost and Billy Myers n consecutive singles to all three nds for two runs.

This blast might have been big- , because Catcher Birdie Tebbetts ed to catch Joost off second and rew the ball through Bartell and o center field to send the runners third and second. But Walters ed out and after Werber walked, McCormick popped up with the ses loaded.

Goodman led off the third inn- by beating out a drag bunt to- rd first and, after McCosky had lled in F. McCormick's hot liner. pple pounded the first pitch over e fence in front of the right ld bleachers, 370 feet from the ate.

Rowe In Bad

The next two out came easily, but owe was obviously in for a bad rnoon. Myers hit the first pitch the fourth and Bruce Camp- l had to make a Nice running tch to pull it in. Then Walters eeled a double along the third se foul line and Werber knocked liner in the same direction and od for the same distance when bounced off the fence around some mporary seats within a yard of e foul line in the left field cor- r.

What happened after Gorsica me in didn't make any difference. he Reds were stopped short, cut d without another show, but they d won the ball game and tied the series at a game apiece.

The two teams left almost im- diately after the game for De- oit, where the series will be con- ued tomorrow in Briggs Stadium. Manager Del Baker of the Tig- s expected to follow his well- med plan of starting curve-ball- Tommy Bridges in the first tus- on the home lot, but Bill Mc- unie was torn between Gene hompson and the veteran Jim rner.

Although Thompson has been nnati's regular No. 3 hurler all son, some persons close to the b though Turner's experience and rol would be more effective, rticularly in strange surround- gs.

With the count two and two, York flied to Goodman in deep right, moving Greenberg to third after the catch.

Campbell rolled to Joost and was thrown out.

One run, one hit, no errors, one left.

Sixth Inning Reds

Joost flied to McCosky in right center.

Myers worked to count to three and two and then whiffed on Gorsica's fast ball.

Walters knocked the first pitch back at Gorsica and was thrown out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Seventh Inning Tigers

Myers pulled in Higgins' fast grounder and threw him out.

Tebbetts looked at three straight balls and then hit a three and two pitch at Werber and was thrown out.

Gorsica waited out a three and two count and looked at the third strike.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Seventh Inning Reds

Werber was thrown out by Higgins.

M. McCormick, hitting a second pitch, went down the same way.

Goodman hit a bounder that went over Gorsica's head, but Bartell gobbled the ball and threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Eighth Inning Tigers

Bartell looked at two strikes and then lifted a high fly to Ripple in left field.

Myers picked up McCosky's grounder and threw him out.

The official attendance was announced as 30,640.

With the count two and two, Gehringer raised a high foul to Werber back of third base.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Eighth Inning Reds

F. McCormick took one strike and then drove a high fly to McCosky.

Ripple hit the first pitch to Gehringer and was thrown out.

Wilson sent a sharp bounder that bounced off Higgins' glove and was scored as a single.

Joost lifted a high fly to Campbell, who came running in fast to take it on the edge of the grass in right field.

Ninth Inning Tigers

Greenberg took one ball close inside and then drove a tremendous fly near the scoreboard in left field, that Ripple pulled it in.

York waited out two strikes and two balls and then looked at a third strike.

Campbell hit the first pitch to Myers, who backed up into short left.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Hershberger's Mother Voted Full Share of Series Pool by Reds

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Maude Hershberger, of Lemon City, Calif., mother of Willard Hershberger, Cincinnati Reds catcher who committed suicide last Summer, was voted a full share in the Reds' world series earnings, the club announced today.

Full shares also went to 22 players and Manager Bill McKechnie.

Johnny Vander Meer, double no-hit star of 1938 but in with Indiapolis for three months this season, was voted a quarter-share.

Cincinnati Grid Team To Tackle Navy Tomorrow

Ohio Squad Will Command Respect of Middie Eleven

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 3 (AP)—The University of Cincinnati Bearcats will command plenty of respect—and an alert enemy—when they take to the gridiron against Navy Saturday.

Coach Emery (Swede) Larson is inspiring respect in the Navy squad for the visitors because, he asserted today, "they've got a fast team that averages 185 pounds, and I know they are aiming to knock us off."

"I won't make any prediction," Larson added, "but we're out to win. If our boys play ball they'll have to have a good club to beat us."

Cincinnati reports are that the Bearcats are "steamed up" because of the close call they had against Louisville last week and Tommie Lonchar, star Cincinnati back who has played little this season, is now in top form.

Here Overnight

The Cincinnati squad entrained this morning and will stop at Cumberland tonight. Another practice is scheduled tomorrow on George Washington's field at Washington.

The players will arrive here at 11 a. m. Saturday. Cincinnati's sixty-four-piece band and about 200 students, including Miss Jean Ann Clark, cheerleader, will be on hand at game time.

Navy eased off on its work today, bolstering its defense against Cincinnati plays run off by the "B" squad and staging a short tackling session.

Larson said Phil Gutting, regular right half, would not play Saturday. He did not know whether Bill Busik and Johnnie Harrell, backs, and Bog Zoellner, end, would be available. All suffered injuries.

If Buskirk and Harrell are not ready, Wes Gebert will play left half and either Phil Hurt or Bud Boyer will be at quarterback, Larsin said. The other backs will be Sherwood Werner, fullback, and Sammy Boothe, right half.

Zoellner's place may be taken by Willis Maxson.

Larson is hoping that Capt. Dick Foster, end; Zeke Zechella, Clif Lenz and Gutting, backs, will be in condition for the Princeton game this Saturday week.

PICTURES OF FIRST WORLD SERIES GAME

Mike McCormick, Cincinnati center fielder, is safe at second on his double over York's head in the first inning of the first World Series game between the Reds and the Tigers at Cincinnati. The Detroiters took the Cincinnatians into camp, taking the first game 7-2.

Series Notes

By JOHN FRYE

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3, (AP)—"This is more like what we've been paying dough for all year," the faithful chanted as they seeped out of the ball park today.

It was a beautiful buildup. Bucky Walters' first pitch went right past Catcher Jimmy Wilson and dented the backboard. Then he couldn't get the range for umpire Red Ormsby, who comes from the high-pitching American League, and walked Dick Bartell and Barney McCosky, and the stands took on an air of "tis is where we came in."

It was, when Detroit scored, but somebody switched the script and the grandstand sounded like a world series hullaballoo for the first time in 21 years in the Reds' second inning.

When Frank McCormick singled, it was, "Well, Rowe won't get a no-hitter today." When Frank scored, the tune changed to "we won't get blanked, anyhow." And then, "maybe we'll finally win a blankety-blank ball game."

Jimmy Ripple's homer was what the whole American Medical Association ordered for Cincinnati and all its ailments of 21 years.

Smoke from the laundry across the street formed ahaze over the field, but it must have come from tar paper in the fire box. The way the employes were hanging out the window nobody could have been doing any work there.

Managers Bill McKechnie of the Reds and Bill Terry of the New York Giants had their heads together for many long minutes in the dugout before the game. Terry has had painful experiences of American League hitters, himself.

Guy Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, saw the game from Charles Sawyer's box. Helvering said he was not looking for scalpers, which is the job of his agents, and Sawyer, Democratic National Committeeman from Ohio, added, "You won't find any in this box."

The company that offers a free suit to any batter hitting a sign across the alley behind the left field fence was emboldened by yesterday's results. Today its announcement to this effect was up in leters twice as big.

Campbell of the Detroit Tigers, is being congratulated by Higgins and York as he crosses the plate in his fifth inning home run in the first World Series game between the Detroit Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds at Cincinnati. The home run drove in York and contributed greatly to the Tiger landslide.

Sophs Earn Ram Berths

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Two sophomores were definitely certain of first-string berths when the Fordham Ram meets the feared West Virginia eleven here Saturday in one of the big town's big games.

Steve Filipowicz at fullback and Jim Lansing at right end have earned Coach Jimmy Crowley's respect and he'll give them a chance to make good, flanked by nine veterans.

The Ram coach worked his first team for an hour in a dummy scrimmage against the Frosh, with the Varsity on the defensive most of the time.

Lived To See Son Hurl His World Series Win in First Game

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3, (AP)—Buck Newsom, pitching hero of yesterday's opening world series game, was absent from Crosley field today as his Detroit Tiger teammates went down to a 5-3 defeat by the Reds in the second struggle.

Sobbing brokenly, the big South Carlinian attended simple funeral services at a Cincinnati mortuary for his father, Henry Quillan Buffkin Newsom, who died in his hotel room early today.

An attending physician said the 68-year old retired farmer was victim of a heart illness.

Buck said his father died simply because he had lived long enough to see his son win a world series game. Buck said that if he had not pitched against the Reds until today he was sure his father would have lived to see him do it.

Also attending the services were Buck's stepmother, Mrs. Fronnie Newsom, and two sisters, Miss Alline Newsom of Hartsville, S. C., and Mrs. Lillian Mathis of Lancaster, S. C. His two daughters accompanied the elder Newsom here for the series largely because they were fearful he would die as he did.

When his father left Hartsville, Newsom said, his cronies told him they would see him when he returned. "I won't be back," he answered them.

Tonight, the widow and daughters accompanied the body back to Hartsville.

Bedford Gunner Wins Ali Ghan Weekly Shoot

G. L. Franklin of Bedford won the weekly shoot of the Ali Ghan Gun Club on the local traps yesterday afternoon, shattering 48 of a possible 50. F. C. Diehl and Jim Stevenson were tied for runner-up honors with 45's. Behind them came a three way deadlock for third: Huck McFerran, George Buchhanon and Dr. C. H. Diehl posting 44's. Frank Smith and John Lighter had 42's with Bill Morgan breaking 40 and Dr. J. M. Harris of Johnstown turning in a score of 39.

Shooting at 25 targets, L. O. Miller broke 24. Dr. Emmett Loar 22, Walter Eyler, Charles Simpson jr., and A. Gurley, 18 each.

Jim Powell and Jim Stevenson tied for top honors at skeet with 24's with Dr. Loar runner-up on 22. Dr. Diehl and Buchhannon each had 19. Bill Morgan and Frank Smith had 17's. Dr. Harris had 16 and F. C. Diehl had 16 to wind up the scores. Seventeen gunners completed. On Thursday a "ham" shoot will be held at the regular time.

"Hammering Henry" Meets Zivic Tonight

Packs Full Weight For First Time in Welter Title Bout

Youngest of Pittsburgh's Fighting Family is Tough Scrapper

Feder Picks Champ in Ten but Bash Boulevard is Cautious

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — Henry the Hammer Armstrong, who has finally "grown up" to his championship, puts his world welterweight title on the line against Fritzie Zivic tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden.

Packing welterweight poundage for the first time in his 2½-year reign, LIT Perpetual Motion ruled a one-sided favorite tonight to dispose of the bid of the youngest of five Pittsburgh brothers who have been campaigning in the business of busting beaks for years.

Having learned regretfully in Henry's knockout of lightweight champion Lew Jenkins some weeks back that it doesn't pay to go against the little negro in any fight, this corner strings along with Hennery to take care of the situation. I pick Armstrong to stop Fearless Fritzie somewhere along the tenth round of the scheduled 15-round route.

Chief question concerning Armstrong is whether the extra weight he now carries may slow up the terrific pace he sets from bell to bell. A week ago, he flattened Phil Furr in Washington with no more trouble than he has removing his socks, and he scaled 146 doing it—the heaviest he has ever been since he came out of St. Louis, by way of Los Angeles, to make ring history. He was only 133½ when he whipped gallant Barney Ross to take the crown, and since then, every time he has gone to the post in defense of his laurels, he's spotted his opponents up to 12 pounds.

Some veterans along Bash Boulevard see Zivic with more than an outside chance, however, to pull one out of the hat tomorrow. They point out that he's a rough, tough individual, and that he can punch hard enough to make the birdies sing. But they're all stymied when you ask them if he's ever before tangled with anyone like the buzzsaw.

BATTLERS GIVEN HEALTH O. K.

Dr. William Walker of the New York state boxing commission medical staff examines Fritzie Zivic, while Henry Armstrong, welterweight champion, looks on. The two were scheduled to meet in Madison Square Garden, in battle for the 145-pound crown.

Optimism Prevails at Notre Dame As Irish Await Grid Opener Saturday

By EARL HILLIGAN

SOUTH BEND, Ind., (AP) — Did you ever hear the story about the 38 Irishmen?

Probably not, but the first chapter will be unfurled here Saturday afternoon when the 1940 Notre Dame football team opens its nine-game season against the college of the Pacific. And a flock of young Irishmen are going to play a part in its telling—may play so well, in fact, that Notre Dame may be off to one of the greatest gridiron seasons in several years.

No fewer than 38 boys of Irish extraction are on the Notre Dame squad this season, the sons of Erin holding a majority for the first time in several years. With the O'Brien's, Hogans and Murphy's teaming up with the Piepuls, Juzwiks and Saggaus, it looks as though the 1940 Irish have an excellent chance of justifying the optimism even the coaches are evincing over its chances of a big campaign.

Outlook Was Blue

At first glance a month ago the picture was as blue as the Irish Jerseys. Tom Gallagher, left tackle, was the only starting regular returning from the 1939 team which lost two and won seven games. In all, 17 lettermen were graduated.

But today, with the opener only hours away, things look much brighter—the big season being the play of those boys who were reserves last season. These "shock troops" are likely to give the opposition as head coach, is cheerfully declining the use of the crying towel.

"Our passing game looks better this year, so we'll use it," he said. "We won't know how this team is until after the third game. We have a number of untried men in key spots, but I'll say that some of the 1939 reserves have looked good."

Four Major Reasons

There are four reasons why the Irish may come up with their best team in the last 10 years. They are (1) Milt Piepul, a fine fullback; (2) Bob Saggau, a fleet halfback; (3) Bob Hargrave, a "gambling" quarter back with plenty of football sense, and (4) about seven tackles weighing 200 or more pounds each.

It has been the showing of these tackles—Gallagher, Paul Lillis, Cliff Brosey, Jim Brutz, Lou Rymkus, Lawrence Sullivan and Joe Papa — that highlighted practice sessions.

If they escape injury, Piepul and Saggau may develop into one of the best backfield two-somes in the nation, and help the Irish to gain a claim on the national title.

Here is the Notre Dame schedule: Saturday, Oct. 5, College of the Pacific; Oct. 12, Georgia Tech at South Bend; Oct. 19, Carnegie Tech at South Bend; Oct. 26, Illinois away; Nov. 2, Army at New York; Nov. 9, Navy at Baltimore; Nov. 16, Iowa at South Bend; Nov. 23, Northwestern away and Dec. 77, Southern California at Los Angeles.

City Church League

Y.M.C.A. pinmen defeated Trinity M. E., 2-1, Central M. E. took three games from Livingstone, Grace M. E. scored a sweep victory over Mapleside, and St. Luke's won from Centre Street by forfeit in City Church League matches last week at the "Y."

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—It's probably very, very funny to you folks out there where the Sun smiles and the Moon beams, but the fact that the World Series is being held in Cincinnati and Detroit this year is one of life's little tragedies to New Yorkers.

They are the spoiled kids who have been giving the party so long they think it is their inborn right, and now that the party is being held down the street they don't know just what to make of it. They wander about disconsolately, consoling each other with the plaintive comment that "it's a good thing for baseball," but they miss the big show.

They've tried to work up a sort of synthetic, second-cousin interest in it through Hank Greenberg and Frank McCormick, stars of the rival teams. Both are New York boys, and their presence in the series gives the Gotham fans something to nibble on, even if they can't have the whole apple.

Speaking of Greenberg, it generally is conceded that his shifting to the outfield was a major factor in Detroit's pennant drive. Not that Hankus-Pankus is a better outfielder than he is a first baseman. He isn't as good. But the shift enabled Del Baker to have both Greenberg and Rudy York in the lineup at the same time.

Rudy York is one of those rare baseball freaks which come under the "good hit, no field" classification. He's no bargain at any position, but he's a little less of a liability at first base than anywhere else. In fact, that's the only position where Baker could use him with any certainty that his stout hitting would provide an antidote for his fielding lapses.

With good hitters at a premium, a consisten 300 extra-base batter must be little short of a fifth columnist in the field to be considered a liability by a manager.

Only Zeke Bonura's hitting has kept him floating around in the big show, and even so he's been passed from club to club until it's become a game of button, button, who's got Bonura. The managers look at him just so long, then decide something should move at first base, and the base is spiked down.

Babe Herman was another stout hitter who was just stubble in the field, and Smead Jolley, the White Sox $65,000 prize, could knock the wind out of a baseball, but the baseball reciprocated when he tried to catch it. Ike Boone was still another of the good hit, no field variety.

In contrast, there are those versatile athletes who, in addition to hitting at least passably, hang up their hat at any position and call it home.

Greenberg is in this category. Also Jimmy Foxx, who has done practically everything on a ball field. Babe Ruth could play first base and pitch as well as play the outfield, and Pepper Martin will tackle any position, head first, and come up grinning.

Perhaps the most versatile of all is a perennial rookie named Mike Ryba, who bobs up at some camp almost every year, and is slated for another chance next year. Ryba is just so darn valuable at all positions that it probably interferes with his specializing. He was with Rochester this year, listed as a pitcher.

The list of these jacks-of-all-trades is long—Billy Sullivan, Don Padgett, Johnny Coney, Mel Ott, Jimmy Dykes, Paul Waner, Rogers Hornsby to name a few who could take several parts.

And, just for variety, there was Earle Combs, who could field and hit, but had to carry a caddy to throw the ball for him.

Redskin Fans To Follow Team for Pittsburgh Game

Seven Hundred and 100 Piece Band To Cheer Up Pro Gridders

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 3. Bolstered by their official 100 piece marching band and some 700 hometown fans who will follow them here from the nation's capitol, the Washington Redskins, favored to take top honors in the Eastern Division of the National Football League, will steam into town Saturday, one day ahead of their scheduled meeting with the Pittsburgh Steelers at Forbes Field Sunday afternoon.

Riding on the crest of two straight victories over league rivals, and the only undefeated team in either division of the professional loop, the Skins are favored to hand the Steelers their second sucessive loss, but the odds on the Capitol City group are by no means prohibitive.

Steelers Had Off Day

It is generally admitted by football observers that the Ironmen of Pittsburgh suffered an off-day in their game last Sunday with Brooklyn's Dodgers, and all indications point to their rebounding from the the defeat with renewed vigor, thereby making them a pretty formidable foe for the Washington club.

Coach Walter Kiesling, of the Steelers, expects to have his stellar fullback, Boyd Brumbaugh, back in the starting line-up Sunday against the Redskins. The former Duquesne University gridder will wear a specially constructed mask to protect the cheekbone broken in the Steelers' game with Detroit two weeks ago, if he plays.

Should Brumbaugh be able to return to grid warfare, the Steel City aggregation will find that the odds against them have droped considerably. Bounding Boyd is rated one of the top plunging fullbacks in the National League, and had he been able to take part in the Dodger contest the final score might have read a little different.

Underweight since the opening of the season, Brumbaugh has benefited in this respect from the two weeks of rest his injury forced on him, picking up some five or six pounds, thus, coming back almost to his normal playing weight.

The Steeler-Washington Redskin contest is to be dedicated to the memory of Knute Rockne, the story of whose life has been made into a motion picture and is soon to be shown at a local movie house.

Centreville Host to Rainsburg on Sunday

The Centerville Reds of the Pen-Mar League will play Rainsburg of the Tri-County League in the first game of their series at Centreville Sunday to determine the championship of the Bedford, Pa., area. The second game will be played at Bedford.

Centreville won a series from the Cumberland Merchants last Sunday, taking two straight games.

Rose or Zembower will face Rainsburg Sunday with Mickey catching Diehl or Mill will get the hurling assignment for Rainsburg.

Names Umps for Bi-State League Play-off Sunday

Umpire-in-chief John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh announced the following umpires to handle Sunday's Frostburg American Legion-Keyser Moose Bi-State League play-off game: Dunbar, behind the plate; Middleton at first, and Merrbaugh at third.

West Virginia and Fordham Clash Is Tops in East

Mountaineers Future Is All Wrapped Up in Game Tomorrow

By DICK BOYD
Associated Press Sports Writer

Like waiting for a New England boiled dinner, there's some doubt, but the clash Saturday between West Virginia and Fordham's Rough Rams up New York way should answer the question of what to expect from the Mountaineers this football season.

Jumping into the spot formerly held by Pitt on the Mountaineer schedule—the game West Virginia fans in other years considered the first test of the season—the Rams shape up as one of four opponents against whom Coach Bill Kern predicted his squad "didn't have much chance."

The others were Michigan State, Penn State and Kentucky.

So a lack of optimism on the West Virginia bandwagon is something less than a surprise, though Fordham is untested this year to date and none will deny it's a beautiful spot for an upset.

A squad of 30—all in good shape except Vic Peelish, guard, who suffered an ankle injury in the Westminster encounter, entrained for New York last night.

The game is "No. 1 stage center with spotlight," on the program engaging State college elevens this week-end, but the fans back home won't be entirely without interesting competition to shout about.

Other Games

These include the bout between Marshall and Dayton at Huntington, and a renewal of the Morris Harvey-West Virginia Wesleyan dispute, at Charleston, both on Saturday.

Marshall, barring a letdown after the herd's sparking victory over Virginia Tech last week, should make it three victories straight, and Morris-Harvey holds whatever edge playing on the home field might offer.

New River and Fairmont, scheduled today at Fairmont, and with the former favored to win, are the only other teams playing within the state.

Other Saturday contests, all away and with the West Virginians in the underdog role in every case, include:

Jewish Holiday Calls Off Football Game

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Oct. 3 (AP) —Both the time and place of Washington College's football game with Johns Hopkins University were changed today because six players for the latter school are Jewish and the game is scheduled Oct. 12, a Jewish holiday.

The game was to be played here in the afternoon. Because of the holiday, Hopkins officials explained, six of their players couldn't participate until after 6 P. M. But Washington College's Kibler field insn't equipped for night games.

So Washington College agreed to play in Baltimore on Johns Hopkins' Homewood Field, at 8:15 P. M. The date was not changed.

BASKETBALL---BUT IN THE TROPICS

Since Coach Clair Bee of the Long Island university, N. Y., team introduced basketball in Puerto Rico two years ago, the Long Island Blackbird team is idolized by fans in San Juan. Here is the 1940-41 club already practicing at the beach club at San Juan. The boys play exhibition games here.

Terrors Ease Up

WESTMINSTER, Md., Oct. 3 (AP) —Easing up after yesterday's scrimmage in the rain, Western Maryland's football squad worked on pass defense, blocking and tackling today.

At present this looks like the starting team: Suffern and Gugesky, ends; Thomas and Faw, tackles; Pirie and Cohen, guards; Mike Phillips, center; McPike, Kaplan, Biasi and Knepp, backs.

Western Maryland opens with Mt. Tt. Mary's Oct. 12.

Liberty Dairy Wins Over Lacy Delicatets

Liberty Dairy squeezed out a victory over the Lacy's Delicatets yesterday at the Taylor Field in the third game of their Booster League series by scoring two runs in the sixth on Shirk's single to short with runners on first and second. Seven big runs in the first were a long way to the win.

The teams meet again this afternoon in the fourth game of the series of five games.

Line score:

LACY'S ..... 321 100 1—8
LIBERTY'S ..... 700 002 x—9
Scaletta and Sarver; Knierlem and Hagan.

Freshmen in Lineup

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Oct. 3 —Three freshmen are expected to be in Washington College's starting lineup when the Sho'men open their 1940 football season against Swarthmore here Saturday.

Two of them, Yerkies and Magag, will perform in the backfield and the third, Gibe, will hold down one of the guard positions.

Yerkies, a 150-pounder, will call signals and do the kicking. Magag, weighing 180 pounds, is a fullback. Gibe, weighing only 160 pounds, light for a guard, was a star last year at West Nottingham Academy.

"Hammering Henry" Meets Zivic Tonigh

Youngest of Pittsburgh's Fighting Family is Tough Scrapper

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP) — Henry the Hammer Armstrong, who has finally "grown up" to his championship, puts his world welterweight title on the line against Fritzie Zivic tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden.

Packing welterweight poundage for the first time in his 2½-year reign, LIT Perpetual Motion ruled a one-sided favorite tonight to dispose of the bid of the youngest of five Pittsburgh brothers who have been campaigning in the business of busting beaks for years.

Having learned regretfully in Henry's knockout of lightweight champion Lew Jenkins some weeks back that it doesn't pay to go against the little negro in any fight, this corner strings along with Hennery to take care of the situation. I pick Armstrong to stop Fearless Fritzie somewhere along the tenth round of the scheduled 15-round route.

Chief question concerning Armstrong is whether the extra weight he now carries may slow up the terrific pace he sets from bell to bell. A week ago, he flattened Phil Furr in Washington with no more trouble than he has removing his socks, and he scaled 146 doing it—the heaviest he has ever been since he came out of St. Louis, by way of Los Angeles, to make ring history. He was only 133½ when he whipped gallant Barney Ross to take the crown, and since then, every time he has gone to the post in defense of his laurels, heh as spotted his opponents up to 12 pounds.

Some veterans along Bash Boulevard see Zivic with more than an outside chance, however, to pull one out of the hat tomorrow. They point out that he's a rough, tough individual, and that he can punch hard enough to make the birdies sing. But they're all stymied when you ask them if he's ever before tangled with anyone like the buzzsaw.

BATTLERS GIVEN HEALTH O. K.

Dr. William Walker of the New York state boxing commission medical staff examines Fritzie Zivic, while Henry Armstrong, welterweight champion, looks on. The two were scheduled to meet in Madison Square Garden, in battle for the 145-pound crown.

Optimism Prevails at Notre Dame As Irish Await Grid Opener Saturday

By EARL HILLIGAN

SOUTH BEND, Ind., (AP) — Did you ever hear the story about the 38 Irishmen?

Probably not, but the first chapter will be unfurled here Saturday afternoon when the 1940 Notre Dame football team opens its nine-game season against the college of the Pacific. And a flock of young Irishmen are going to play a part in its telling—may play so well, in fact, that Notre Dame may be off to one of the greatest gridiron seasons in several years.

No fewer than 38 boys of Irish extraction are on the Notre Dame squad this season, the sons of Erin holding a majority for the first time in several years. With the O'Brien's, Hogans and Murphy's teaming up with the Piepuls, Juzwiks and Saggaus, it looks as though the 1940 Irish have an excellent chance of justifying the optimism even the coaches are evincing over its chances of a big campaign.

Outlook Was Blue

At first glance a month ago the picture was as blue as the Irish Jerseys. Tom Gallagher, left tackle, was the only starting regular returning from the 1939 team which lost two and won seven games. In all, 17 lettermen were graduated.

But today, with the opener only hours away, things look much brighter—the big season being the play of those boys who were reserves last season. These "shock troops" are likely to give the opposition as head coach, is cheerfully declining the use of the crying towel.

"Our passing game looks better this year, so we'll use it," he said. "We won't know how this team is until after the third game. We have a number of untried men in key spots, but I'll say that some of the 1939 reserves have looked good."

Four Major Reasons

There are four reasons why the Irish may come up with their best team in the last 10 years. They are (1) Milt Piepul, a fine fullback; (2) Bob Saggau, a fleet halfback; (3) Bob Hargrave, a "gambling" quarter back with plenty of football sense, and (4) about seven tackles weighing 200 or more pounds each.

It has been the showing of these tackles—Gallagher, Paul Lillis, Cliff Brosey, Jim Brutz, Lou Rymkus, Lawrence Sullivan and Joe Papa — that highlighted practice sessions.

If they escape injury, Piepul and Saggau may develop into one of the best backfield two-somes in the nation, and help the Irish to gain a claim on the national title.

Here is the Notre Dame schedule: Saturday, Oct. 5, College of the Pacific; Oct. 12, Georgia Tech at South Bend; Oct. 19, Carnegie Tech at South Bend; Oct. 26, Illinois away; Nov. 2, Army at New York; Nov. 9, Navy at Baltimore; Nov. 16, Iowa at South Bend; Nov. 23, Northwestern away and Dec. 77, Southern California at Los Angeles.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—It's probably very, very funny to you folks out there where the Sun smiles and the Moon beams, but the fact that the World Series is being held in Cincinnati and Detroit this year is one of life's little tragedies to New Yorkers.

They are the spoiled kids who have been giving the party so long they think it is their inborn right, and now that the party is being held down the street they don't know just what to make of it. They wander about disconsolately, consoling each other with the plaintive comment that "it's a good thing for baseball," but they miss the big show.

They've tried to work up a sort of synthetic, second-cousin interest in it through Hank Greenberg and Frank McCormick, stars of the rival teams. Both are New York boys, and their presence in the series gives the Gotham fans something to nibble on, even if they can't have the whole apple.

Speaking of Greenberg, it generally is conceded that his shifting to the outfield was a major factor in Detroit's pennant drive. Not that Hankus-Pankus is a better outfielder than he is a first baseman. He isn't as good. But the shift enabled Del Baker to have both Greenberg and Rudy York in the lineup at the same time.

Rudy York is one of those rare baseball freaks which come under the "good hit, no field" classification. He's no bargain at any position, but he's a little less of a liability at first base than anywhere else. In fact, that's the only position where Baker could use him with any certainty that his stout hitting would provide an antidote for his fielding lapses.

With good hitters at a premium, a consisten 300 extra-base batter must be little short of a fifth columnist in the field to be considered a liability by a manager.

Only Zeke Bonura's hitting has kept him floating around in the big show, and even so he's been passed from club to club until it's become a game of button, button, who's got Bonura. The managers look at him just so long, then decide something should move at first base, and the base is spiked down.

Babe Herman was another stout hitter who was just stubble in the field, and Smead Jolley, the White Sox' $65,000 prize, could knock the wind out of a baseball, but the baseball reciprocated when he tried to catch it. Ike Boone was still another of the good hit, no field variety.

In contrast, there are those versatile athletes who, in addition to hitting at least passably, hang up their hat at any position and call it home.

Greenberg is in this category. Also Jimmy Foxx, who has done practically everything on a ball field. Babe Ruth could play first base and pitch as well as play the outfield, and Pepper Martin will tackle any position, head first, and come up grinning.

Perhaps the most versatile of all is a perennial rookie named Mike Ryba, who bobs up at some camp almost every year, and is slated for another chance next year. Ryba is just so darn valuable at all positions that it probably interferes with his specializing. He was with Rochester this year, listed as a pitcher.

The list of these jacks-of-all-trades is long—Billy Sullivan, Don Padgett, Johnny Coney, Mel Ott, Jimmy Dykes, Paul Waner, Rogers Hornsby to name a few who could take several parts.

And, just for variety, there was Earle Combs, who could field and hit, but had to carry a caddy to throw the ball for him.

Other Games

These include the bout between Marshall and Dayton at Huntington, and a renewal of the Morris Harvey-West Virginia Wesleyan dispute, at Charleston, both on Saturday.

Marshall, barring a letdown after the herd's sparking victory over Virginia Tech last week, should make it three victories straight, and Morris-Harvey holds whatever edge playing on the home field might offer.

New River and Fairmont, scheduled today at Fairmont, and with the former favored to win, are the only other teams playing within the state.

Other Saturday contests, all away and with the West Virginians in the underdog role in every case, include:

Jewish Holiday Calls Off Football Game

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Oct. 3 (AP) —Both the time and place of Washington College's football game with Johns Hopkins University were changed today because six players for the latter school are Jewish and the game is scheduled Oct. 12, a Jewish holiday.

The game was to be played here in the afternoon. Because of the holiday, Hopkins officials explained, six of their players couldn't participate until after 6 P. M. But Washington College's Kibler field insn't equipped for night games.

So Washington College agreed to play in Baltimore on Johns Hopkins' Homewood Field, at 8:15 P. M. The date was not changed.

BASKETBALL---BUT IN THE TROPICS

Since Coach Clair Bee of the Long Island university, N. Y., team introduced basketball in Puerto Rico two years ago, the Long Island Blackbird team is idolized by fans in San Juan. Here is the 1940-41 club already practicing at the beach club at San Juan. The boys play exhibition games here.

Terrors Ease Up

WESTMINSTER, Md., Oct. 3 (AP) —Easing up after yesterday's scrimmage in the rain, Western Maryland's football squad worked on pass defense, blocking and tackling today.

At present this looks like the starting team: Suffern and Gugesky, ends; Thomas and Faw, tackles; Pirie and Cohen, guards; Mike Phillips, center; McPike, Kaplan, Biasi and Knepp, backs.

Western Maryland opens with Mt. Tt. Mary's Oct. 12.

LaSalle To Play Morgantown Here Tonight

Conway's Eleven After Third Win At Hill Stadium

Blue and Gold Counted on To Down St. Francis on Records to Date

Allegany Host to Keyser Tomorrow Evening at Fort Hill

The St. Francis High Trojans of Morgantown, W. Va., and the Keyser (W. Va.) High Golden Tornado eleven will invade Cumberland this weekend with the Trojans to face Coach Pat Conway's LaSalle High outfit this evening at eight o'clock and Keyser to oppose Allegany High's footballers Saturday night at the same time. Both games will be at the Fort Hill Stadium.

LaSalle, unbeaten in two starts this season holds a 19-0 victory over Keyser and last week battled Altoona Catholic to a scoreless deadlock.

The Trojans have also played two games, losing both. The Morgantown eleven bowed to St. Mary's of Clarksburg 6-0 in its opener and then suffered a 37-0 trouncing at the hands of Johnstown Central Catholic. Coach Conway's starting lineup will see McGraw and Small, ends; Klosterman and R. Palmer, tackles; Greenya and J. Palmer, guards; McGeady, center; Shaffer, quarterback; Speir and Smith at the halves, and Cavanaugh, fullback.

Regulars In Backfield

At the start of the season, 30 boys reported to Coach John Audia at St. Francis including two regulars from the 1939 aggregation.

The Trojans present most of their experience in the backfield with Mitch Trovato and Bill Price, the holdover first-stringers, at quarterback and left halfback, respectively. The former, an end the past two years, directs the team with Price doing most of the passing and punting.

Coach Audia has five other lettermen—Charley Price and Jim Simons, backs; Connie Straub, center; James Murphy, tackle, and Joe Zizzi, guard.

Two recruits who have attracted attention because of their size are Dan Spiroff and Fred Simons. Spiroff weighs 203 pounds and plays right tackle while Simons, son of a former coach, Jack Simons, scales 180 and plays left end. The latter received some experience last year at Staunton Military Academy.

Allegany Favored

Allegany will probably send a crippled eleven against Keyser but the Campers will be favored to defeat Coach John Shelton's crew, which has bowed by large scores to both Fort Hill and LaSalle.

Coach Herman Ball's West Siders took a physical beating last Saturday when they were trounced 34-6 by a heavy Baltimore City College team for their first defeat of the season. Bill James, speedy but small regular halfback, will probably be missing from the Allegany lineup due to an injured leg but with Bill Yoder, Bill Chandlee, Tommy Rudd and Eddie Robinette in the backfield, the Campers still loom as too great an obstacle for the Keyserites.

Two Potomac Valley Conference skirmishes are also on tap today with the spotlight focused on the contest at Ridgeley between Coach Bill Hahn's aggregation and the Parsons High Panthers. In the other tilt, Thomas will invade Moorefield.

Shared Title Last Year

Ridgeley and Parsons were both unbeaten in the conference last season and shared the championship. Parsons defeated Keyser 27-12 last week after losses to Charles Town 29-0 and Elkins 27-13 while Ridgeley bested Piedmont 6-0 a week ago after losing to Allegany 21-6.

Ridgeley Coach Bill Hahn said yesterday that Bib Zimmerman, who didn't play against Piedmont last week will start at left halfback with Bill Robinson going to quarterback.

Except for a few bruises, the Ridgeley squad is in tip-top condition for the first meeting on the gridiron of Ridgeley and Parsons elevens. Hahn, who took over coaching duties at the nearby school this fall, attended Parsons High.

Thomas is unscored on to date, holding a 6-0 decision over Franklin and a 31-0 victory over Petersburg. Moorefield lost to Greenbank 28-7 in its opener but bested Franklin 27-6 in its next start.

In other contests today, Piedmont will go to Hyndman and Romney will entertain the Charles Town Purple Panthers. Piedmont lost to Ridgeley in its only start and Hyndman dropped to Bedford 31-0 and Boswell 32-0 but defeated Broad Top 12-0. Romney opened last week with an 18-0 verdict over Berkeley Springs.

The rest of Saturday's slate is Berkeley Springs at Martinsburg and Potomac State at Waynesburg. Fort Hill will be idle this week.

Local Aquatic Club Will Meet Tonight

The regular weekly meeting of the Cumberland Aquatic Club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the library of the Central Y.M.C.A. It was announced that the club plans a membership drive.

Mountaineers On Way To Meet Rams Tomorrow

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 3 (AP) — Thirty West Virginia University gridders pulled out of Morgantown tonight for a trip to New York and their Saturday clash with the Fordham Rams at Randall's Island.

They will arrive Friday morning and run through a light drill before going to the Knollwood Country Club at White Plains.

Coach Bill Kern, who stressed defense against Fordham formations in scrimmages duuing the week, said only that "we're far from being ready to meet a team like Fordham. We haven't looked good at all this week."

Kern may use Vincent Cimino, a Sophomore, at right guard in place of Vic Peelish, the regular who is injured in the season's opener last Saturday against Westminster.

Joe Siko and John Shonk will work the ends. Walt Pike and Frank Kimble tackles, John Rockis at the other guard, Sam Mandich at center and Charles Seabright, Ike Martin, Don McCann and John Carliss in the backfield.

Thomas Seeks Third Conference Victory

Thomas, W. Va., Oct. 3—Coach Emil Suder's Thomas High eleven, unscored on in two games this season, will take an unbeaten record to Moorefield tomorrow where the locals will meet the Moorefield High Jackets in a Potomac Valley Conference battle.

Thomas opened by sinking Franklin 6-0 and then piled up a 31-0 score on the Petersburg Vikings. Both were conference engagements.

Suder, beginning his thirteenth year as Thomas coach, was on the spot when the season opened. All but one regular lineman graduated last spring and then this past summer, the first-stringer slated to return joined the army.

The Thomas forward wall is built around Joe Yonish and Bob Luzier, ends, and Videl Tonell, a tackle, all lettermen. Topping backfield candidates is Edward Michelitch, regular fullback in 1939. "Muzzy" Menanscarco and Reggy Gen antonio earned letters.

Canes Will Oppose Meyersdale Sunday

The Meyersdale Firemen and the Cumberland Hurricane A. C. gridders will clash Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Community Park. The Firemen defeated the Canes twice last year to become one of few rivals ever to best the local footballers two times in one season.

Rosenbaum's League

The Kaye Seals won two from the Arrows, and the Beverly's duplicated at the expense of the Seampruffs, while the NoMends took all three off the Kragshires in Rosenbaum's League games at the Savoy Bowling Alleys. The scores:

Probable Football Winners This Week Listed in Prose

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

By JOHN LARDNER

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 3—Football winners will be delivered at the back door as advertised this week, but strictly in prose. Next week I will resume the tender and beautifully-moulded verses which caused the late Disraeli to exclaim, "Gad, how that Lardner can rhyme!"

No poet can do himself justice during a world series. There is some doubt anyway as to what constitutes justice for a poet. Some say hanging from the ardarm, some favor keelhauling. The fact remains that the Poet Byron (whose stuff was much like mine, only a little rougher at the edges) absolutely refused to woo the muse while a World Series was in progress.

"I won't do it," said Byron firmly, and that was that. Apart from the fact that nobody asked him to do it, it constituted a milestone in the history of stamp-collecting.

The example of the Sweet Singer of Surely is good enough for me, the Mad Mockingbird of Manhattan. Football selections will be in prose this week. With each winner I give a clear, careful analysis of the situation, and in some cases the population of the nearest county seat.

Duke over Tennessee—May be close.

Cornell over Colgate—couple of New York State teams, or I miss my guess.

Texas over Indiana—looks intersectional.

Holy Cross over Louisiana State—same here.

Princeton over Vanderbilt—could be intersectional, if rain holds off.

Syracuse over Northwestern—Intersectional as the very deuce.

Nebraska over Minnesota—Nip and tuck.

Georgetown over Temple—tough and go."

Notre Dame over College of the Pacific—early foot.

Ohio State over Perdue—likes track.

Wisconsin over Marquette—fast trials.

Michigan over Michigan State—last was good.

Iowa State over Kansas—may surprise.

Virginia over Yale—second to Challedon in last.

Harvard over Amherst—blinkers off.

Penn State over Bucknell—likes distance.

Tulane over Auburn—Dropping down.

Case over Lehigh—needed last.

Detroit over Catholic U.—Picks up weight.

N. Y. U. over Lafayette—splendid contest.

Georgia Tech over Howard—Interesting struggle.

Fordham over West Virginia—Corking bout.

Penn over Maryland—Dandy display.

Missouri over Pittsburgh—may build character.

Texas Christian over Arkansas—Fifteen-minute periods.

Rice over Centenary—begins to take on southwestern complexion.

Texas A & M over Tulsa—same here, if game follows form.

St. Mary's over California—has far-western tinge.

Santa Clara over U. C. L. A.—has earmarks of a Friday contest.

Washington over Idaho—great climate.

Oregon over Stanford—loser may drop from undefeated list.

Southern California over Oregon State—at Los Angeles.

Duke over Tennessee—this is where we came in.

Rudy York Beaned in Practice; Bangs Ball

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3 (AP)—Was Rudy York sore?

The slugging Detroit Tiger first baseman was hit on the head with a pitched ball during World Series batting practice today, shook it off and took another swing.

The ball went out of Crosley Field.

Race Notes

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Your Chance, Mrs. G. D. Widener's New York Handicap entry, and definitely one of the outstanding three-year-olds of the year, is coming up to the big Saturday engagement at Belmont in fine fettle. Made ready by A. J. Joyner, dean of American trainers, the son of Chance Shot was sent two miles yesterday in 3.26 2-5, the first mile in 1.40 3-5.

Mioland

C. S. Howard's Mioland is none the worse for the accident that befell him in the Jerome at Belmont last week. He proved it yesterday by breezing a mile in 1.44 in the Jerome, which was to have been his only appearance at Belmont, and in which he was the favorite, he stumbled at the start, throwing his rider and slightly scratching an ankle.

Casualty

Skeets Justin, an exercise boy for the E. K. Bryson Stable, suffered a broken shoulder in a training spill yesterday.

LaSalle To Play Morgantown Here Tonight

Conway's Eleven After Third Win At Hill Stadium

The St. Francis High Trojans of Morgantown, W. Va., and the Keyser (W. Va.) High Golden Tornado eleven will invade Cumberland this weekend with the Trojans to face Coach Pat Conway's LaSalle High outfit this evening at eight o'clock and Keyser to oppose Allegany High's footballers Saturday night at the same time. Both games will be at the Fort Hill Stadium.

LaSalle, unbeaten in two starts this season holds a 19-0 victory over Keyser and last week battled Altoona Catholic to a scoreless deadlock.

The Trojans have also played two games, losing both. The Morgantown eleven bowed to St. Mary's of Clarksburg 6-0 in its opener and then suffered a 37-0 trouncing at the hands of Johnstown Central Catholic. Coach Conway's starting lineup will see McGraw and Small, ends; Klosterman and R. Palmer, tackles; Greenya and J. Palmer, guards; McGeady, center; Shaffer, quarterback; Speir and Smith at the halves, and Cavanaugh, fullback.

Regulars In Backfield

At the start of the season, 30 boys reported to Coach John Audia at St. Francis including two regulars from the 1939 aggregation.

The Trojans present most of their experience in the backfield with Mitch Trovato and Bill Price, the holdover first-stringers, at quarterback and left halfback, respectively. The former, an end the past two years, directs the team with Price doing most of the passing and punting.

Coach Audia has five other lettermen—Charley Price and Jim Simons, backs; Connie Straub, center; James Murphy, tackle, and Joe Zizzi, guard.

Two recruits who have attracted attention because of their size are Dan Spiroff and Fred Simons. Spiroff weighs 203 pounds and plays right tackle while Simons, son of a former coach, Jack Simons, scales 180 and plays left end. The latter received some experience last year at Staunton Military Academy.

Allegany Favored

Allegany will probably send a crippled eleven against Keyser but the Campers will be favored to defeat Coach John Shelton's crew, which has bowed by large scores to both Fort Hill and LaSalle.

Coach Herman Ball's West Siders took a physical beating last Saturday when they were trounced 34-6 by a heavy Baltimore City College team for their first defeat of the season. Bill James, speedy but small regular halfback, will probably be missing from the Allegany lineup due to an injured leg but with Bill Yoder, Bill Chandlee, Tommy Rudd and Eddie Robinette in the backfield, the Campers still loom as too great an obstacle for the Keyserites.

Two Potomac Valley Conference skirmishes are also on tap today with the spotlight focused on the contest at Ridgeley between Coach Bill Hahn's aggregation and the Parsons High Panthers. In the other tilt, Thomas will invade Moorefield.

Shared Title Last Year

Ridgeley and Parsons were both unbeaten in the conference last season and shared the championship. Parsons defeated Keyser 27-12 last week after losses to Charles Town 29-0 and Elkins 27-13 while Ridgeley bested Piedmont 6-0 a week ago after losing to Allegany 21-6.

Ridgeley Coach Bill Hahn said yesterday that Bib Zimmerman, who didn't play against Piedmont last week will start at left halfback with Bill Robinson going to quarterback.

Except for a few bruises, the Ridgeley squad is in tip-top condition for the first meeting on the gridiron of Ridgeley and Parsons elevens. Hahn, who took over coaching duties at the nearby school this fall, attended Parsons High.

Thomas is unscored on to date, holding a 6-0 decision over Franklin and a 31-0 victory over Petersburg. Moorefield lost to Greenbank 28-7 in its opener but bested Franklin 27-6 in its next start.

In other contests today, Piedmont will go to Hyndman and Romney will entertain the Charles Town Purple Panthers. Piedmont lost to Ridgeley in its only start and Hyndman dropped to Bedford 31-0 and Boswell 32-0 but defeated Broad Top 12-0. Romney opened last week with an 18-0 verdict over Berkeley Springs.

The rest of Saturday's slate is Berkeley Springs at Martinsburg and Potomac State at Waynesburg. Fort Hill will be idle this week.

Local Aquatic Club Will Meet Tonight

The regular weekly meeting of the Cumberland Aquatic Club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the library of the Central Y.M.C.A. It was announced that the club plans a membership drive.

Mountaineers On Way To Meet Rams Tomorrow

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 3 (AP) — Thirty West Virginia University gridders pulled out of Morgantown tonight for a trip to New York and their Saturday clash with the Fordham Rams at Randall's Island.

They will arrive Friday morning and run through a light drill before going to the Knollwood Country Club at White Plains.

Coach Bill Kern, who stressed defense against Fordham formations in scrimmages duuing the week, said only that "we're far from being ready to meet a team like Fordham. We haven't looked good at all this week."

Kern may use Vincent Cimino, a Sophomore, at right guard in place of Vic Peelish, the regular who is injured in the season's opener last Saturday against Westminster.

Joe Siko and John Shonk will work the ends. Walt Pike and Frank Kimble tackles, John Rockis at the other guard. Sam Mandich at center ,and Charles Seabright, Ike Martin, Don McCann and John Carliss in the backfield.

Thomas Seeks Third Conference Victory

Thomas, W. Va., Oct. 3—Coach Emil Suder's Thomas High eleven, unscored on in two games this season, will take an unbeaten record to Moorefield tomorrow where the locals will meet the Moorefield High Jackets in a Potomac Valley Conference battle.

Thomas opened by sinking Franklin 6-0 and then piled up a 31-0 score on the Petersburg Vikings. Both were conference engagements.

Suder, beginning his thirteenth year as Thomas coach, was on the spot when the season opened. All but one regular lineman graduated last spring and then this past summer, the first-stringer slated to return joined the army.

The Thomas forward wall is built around Joe Yonish and Bob Luzier, ends, and Videl Tonell, a tackle, all lettermen. Topping backfield candidates is Edward Michelitch, regular fullback in 1939. "Muzzy" Menanscarco and Reggy Gennantonio earned letters.

Canes Will Oppose Meyersdale Sunday

The Meyersdale Firemen and the Cumberland Hurricane A. C. gridders will clash Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Community Park. The Firemen defeated the Canes twice last year to become one of few rivals ever to best the local footballers two times in one season.

Rosenbaum's League

The Kaye Seals won two from the Arrows, and the Beverly's duplicated at the expense of the Seampruffs, while the NoMends took all three off the Kragshires in Rosenbaum's League games at the Savoy Bowling Alleys. The scores:

Probable Football Winners This Week Listed in Prose

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

By JOHN LARDNER

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 3—Football winners will be delivered at the back door as advertised this week, but strictly in prose. Next week I will resume the tender and beautifully-moulded verses which caused the late Disraeli to exclaim, "Gad, how that Lardner can rhyme!"

No poet can do himself justice during a world series. There is some doubt anyway as to what constitutes justice for a poet. Some say hanging from the ardarm, some favor keelhauling. The fact remains that the Poet Byron (whose stuff was much like mine, only a little rougher at the edges) absolutely refused to woo the muse while a World Series was in progress.

"I won't do it," said Byron firmly, and that was that. Apart from the fact that nobody asked him to do it, it constituted a milestone in the history of stamp-collecting.

The example of the Sweet Singer of Surely is good enough for me, the Mad Mockingbird of Manhattan. Football selections will be in prose this week. With each winner I give a clear, careful analysis of the situation, and in some cases the population of the nearest county seat.

Duke over Tennessee—May be close.

Cornell over Colgate—couple of New York State teams, or I miss my guess.

Texas over Indiana—looks intersectional.

Holy Cross over Louisiana State—same here.

Princeton over Vanderbilt—could be intersectional, if rain holds off.

Syracuse over Northwestern—Intersectional as the very deuce.

Nebraska over Minnesota—Nip and tuck.

Georgetown over Temple—tough and go.

Notre Dame over College of the Pacific—early foot.

Ohio State over Perdue—likes track.

Wisconsin over Marquette—fast trials.

Michigan over Michigan State—last was good.

Iowa State over Kansas—may surprise.

Virginia over Yale—second to Challedon in last.

Harvard over Amherst—blinkers off.

Penn State over Bucknell—likes distance.

Tulane over Auburn—Dropping down.

Case over Lehigh—needed last.

Detroit over Catholic U.—Picks up weight.

N. Y. U. over Lafayette—splendid contest.

Georgia Tech over Howard—Interesting struggle.

Fordham over West Virginia—Corking bout.

Penn over Maryland—Dandy display.

Missouri over Pittsburgh—may build character.

Texas Christian over Arkansas—Fifteen-minute periods.

Rice over Centenary—begins to take on southwestern complexion.

Texas A & M over Tulsa—same here, if game follows form.

St. Mary's over California—has far-western tinge.

Santa Clara over U. C. L. A.—has earmarks of a Friday contest.

Washington over Idaho—great climate.

Oregon over Stanford—loser may drop from undefeated list.

Southern California over Oregon State—at Los Angeles.

Duke over Tennessee—this is where we came in.

Rudy York Beaned in Practice; Bangs Ball

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3 (AP)—Was Rudy York sore?

The slugging Detroit Tiger first baseman was hit on the head with a pitched ball during World Series batting practice today, shook it off and took another swing.

The ball went out of Crosley Field.

Race Notes

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Your Chance, Mrs. G. D. Widener's New York Handicap entry, and definitely one of the outstanding three-year-olds of the year, is coming up to the big Saturday engagement at Belmont in fine fettle. Made ready by A. J. Joyner, dean of American trainers, the son of Chance Shot was sent two miles yesterday in 3.26 2-5, the first mile in 1.40 3-5.

Mioland

C. S. Howard's Mioland is none the worse for the accident that befell him in the Jerome at Belmont last week. He proved it yesterday by breezing a mile in 1.44. In the Jerome, which was to have been his only appearance at Belmont, and in which he was the favorite, he stumbled at the start, throwing his rider and slightly scratching an ankle.

Casualty

Skeets Justin, an exercise boy for the E. K. Bryson Stable, suffered a broken shoulder in a training spill yesterday.

BASEBALL'S CAPITAL

Detroit—When the world series reaches Detroit it swings into baseball's capital.

Here is the top city of the game. I'd rank Brooklyn second, but Detroit comes first. Year after year it leads both leagues in attendance. This year it passed 1,200,000 and this year it will set a new Detroit record for public attendance where a world series is concerned.

I've never seen a city as strongly entrenched back of its team as Detroit is in this Indian summer autumn of 1940. When the Tigers came back home a few days ago from Cleveland, 100,000 wrought up fans were on hand to pass out the hoarse huzzas.

Back in April Detroit was hoping somewhat wanly for a team that might head the second division. Maybe reach fourth place. No one figured the badly scrambled and somewhat ancient Tigers could ever hope to beat out the Yankees, Indians and Red Sox. They might just nip the White Sox.

But here is Detroit again paying deep-mouthed welcome to another series entry—five years after Mickey Cochrane led the Tigers against the Cubs.

About Detroit

I talked to one of baseball's smartest writers and one of Detroit's veteran citizens about the Tiger city.

"Most of the leading people in Detroit," he said, "came up the hard way. Many of them came from tough jobs to their millions. I knew Walter Briggs when he was getting $25 a week. They knew or cared nothing about yachts and polo. Their game was baseball. So when they made their fortunes they stuck to baseball. The wealthy people in New York and Chicago go in for racing, yachting and polo. In Detroit they go in for baseball.

"Here the millionaire, the newsboy, the iron puddler, the mechanic, all have the same game. This is why Detroit is the greatest baseball city the United States has ever known. Just look at its attendance record. You can understand the added frenzy this week.

"Detroit fans had expected little from what looked to be a limping, worn-out set of veterans—Gehringer, Bartell, Rowe, Fox, Higgins, Bridges—but the miracle came off. Detroit won against odds that should have been at least 30 to 1. So you should be able to understand the tremendous civic frenzy that will be going on the next few days."

Heroes At Home

No wonder Detroit is keyed up to a greater extent this year than ever before—even when Ty Cobb and Hughey Jennings—when Wild Bill Donovan and others resigned—when Mickey Cochrane was the main idol—when Schoolboy Rowe was in his prime. Quiet, smart, gentle Del Baker has given this city a new type of thrill.

A thrill based on amazing cooperation between owner Walter Briggs and Manager Del Baker, and never forget what this pair have meant—a thrill based on the team spirit of such men as Hank Greenberg, Dick Bartell and Charles Gehringer.

Greenberg gladly traded a sure place at first for the gamble of an outfield job—just to help his team.

This may be the last Detroit world series whirl in some time. The Tigers have the oldest team in the league. The stupid American League rule that prevents any pennant winner trading through the following year, pushed through to stop the Yankees, now falls across the Tiger back.

No one can expect Gehringer, Bartell, Rowe, Bridges, Higgins, Fox and others to go on forever. Walter Briggs would be more than willing to spend any amount of money in American League trades and purchases. But he can't.

So Detroit is making the best of its startling year. Almost an entire city is still back of the Big Punch—also the pitching handled by Rowe, Newsom, Bridges, Corsica and others. Detroit not only believes in the walloping eye of its team, but also in the pitching arms.

In fact, Detroit has been back of its team all year, win, lose or draw. And don't forget how much this has helped Del Baker and his entire squad.

Charles Town Plays At Romney High Today

Charles Town, W. Va., Oct. 3—The Charles Town High School gridmen will journey to Romney tomorrow for a game with Romney High School. This is the first time in a number of years that these two schools have met on the gridiron.

Both teams won games last week. Charles Town downed Harrisonburg High 13-0 for their second victory in three starts while Romney tripped Berkeley Springs 18-0 in their season's opener.

The Hillmen will leave for Romney early tomorrow morning in order to arrive there in time for lunch and rest up for the game which will get under way at p. m.

La Vale Tosser Wins League Series Honors

Harold Conrad, LaVale, A. A. outfielder, turned in the best batting average for the recent Allegany County Softball League championship series in which Clary Club defeated LaVale three games to two.

Conrad stepped to the plate 16 times and drove out ten hits for a .625 percentage. Next in line was C. Hughes, LaVale catcher, with .600, while Andy Dunn of Clary Club was third with .588.

Clary Club had nine players over the .300 mark while LaVale had ten. LaVale's team average was .422 with 11 of its 70 hits for extra bases. Clary Club hit .287 with six of its safeties for extra cushions.

In the run column, Clary Club had a 40 to 38 edge. In the pitching department, Blank of Clary Club and Paul Markwood of LaVale each won two games without a defeat. Markwood gave only 18 hits and walked three in 18 innings while Blank yielded 32 blows in 17 frames. Leo Kisamore was charged with LaVale's three losses.

In extra-base hits, Kammauf, Dunn and E. Densmore each had two and R. Middleton one for LaVale and Davis, Lyons and K. Edwards each had one for Clary Club. L. Middleton of LaVale had two triples while Blank of Clary Club and Kammauf of LaVale each hit a homer. Series batting records follow:

Winning the third and deciding game of one of the closest matches so far this year by six pins, the Club Seniors bested the Club Juniors 2-1 this week at Club Recreation to take a one-game lead in the City Bowling League first half race.

The Seniors toppled 818 sticks for a new single game record in the deciding contest with Francis Twigg racking up a new individual game mark with 216 and "Pie" Conley not so far behind with 201. Conley had the best set of the match with 507 while Twigg rolled 494. Frank Stakem was high for the Juniors with 491.

In other matches, the SS. Peter and Paul Seniors took two from the Roxy on the losers' lanes. Diamond bested SS. Peter and Paul Juniors 2-1 at SS. Peter and Paul, and Silver Lanes topped the American Brewers 2-1 at Cresaptown.

Owen McGreevy of the Silver Lanes set a new season record of 516 for three games. The old mark was 503 held by Frank Stakem of the Club Juniors. Twigg broke the record of 210 held by Paul Stakem of the Club Seniors while the Club Seniors shattered the team game high of 816 made by the Diamond.

BASEBALL'S CAPITAL

Detroit—When the world series reaches Detroit it swings into baseball's capital.

Here is the top city of the game. I'd rank Brooklyn second, but Detroit comes first. Year after year it leads both leagues in attendance. This year it passed 1,200,000 and this year it will set a new Detroit record for public attendance where a world series is concerned.

I've never seen a city as strongly entrenched back of its team as Detroit is in this Indian summer autumn of 1940. When the Tigers came back home a few days ago from Cleveland, 100,000 wrought up fans were on hand to pass out the hoarse huzzas.

Back in April Detroit was hoping somewhat wanly for a team that might head the second division. Maybe reach fourth place. No one figured the badly scrambled and somewhat ancient Tigers could ever hope to beat out the Yankees, Indians and Red Sox. They might just nip the White Sox.

But here is Detroit again paying deep-mouthed welcome to another series entry—five years after Mickey Cochrane led the Tigers against the Cubs.

About Detroit

I talked to one of baseball's smartest writers and one of Detroit's veteran citizens about the Tiger city.

"Most of the leading people in Detroit," he said, "came up the hard way. Many of them came from tough jobs to their millions. I knew Walter Briggs when he was getting $25 a week. They knew or cared nothing about yachts and polo. Their game was baseball. So when they made their fortunes they stuck to baseball. The wealthy people in New York and Chicago go in for racing, yachting and polo. In Detroit they go in for baseball.

"Here the millionaire, the newsboy, the iron puddler, the mechanic, all have the same game. This is why Detroit is the greatest baseball city the United States has ever known. Just look at its attendance record. You can understand the added frenzy this week.

"Detroit fans had expected little from what looked to be a limping, worn-out set of veterans—Gehringer, Bartell, Rowe, Fox, Higgins, Bridges—but the miracle came off. Detroit won against odds that should have been at least 30 to 1. So you should be able to understand the tremendous civic frenzy that will be going on the next few days."

Heroes At Home

No wonder Detroit is keyed up to a greater extent this year than ever before—even when Ty Cobb and Hughey Jennings—when Wild Bill Donovan and others resigned—when Mickey Cochrane was the main idol—when Schoolboy Rowe was in his prime. Quiet, smart, gentle Del Baker has given this city a new type of thrill.

A thrill based on amazing cooperation between owner Walter Briggs and Manager Del Baker, and never forget what this pair have meant—a thrill based on the team spirit of such men as Hank Greenberg, Dick Bartell and Charles Gehringer.

Greenberg gladly traded a sure place at first for the gamble of an outfield job—just to help his team.

This may be the last Detroit world series whirl in some time. The Tigers have the oldest team in the league. The stupid American League dule that prevents any pennant winner trading through the following year, pushed through to stop the Yankees, now falls across the Tiger back.

No one can expect Gehringer, Bartell, Rowe, Bridges, Higgins, Fox and others to go on forever. Walter Briggs would be more than willing to spend any amount of money in American League trades and purchases. But he can't.

So Detroit is making the best of its startling year. Almost an entire city is still back of the Big Punch—also the pitching handled by Rowe, Newsom, Bridges, Corsica and others. Detroit not only believes in the walloping eye of its team, but also in the pitching arms.

In fact, Detroit has been back of its team all year, win, lose or draw. And don't forget how much this has helped Del Baker and his entire squad.

Charles Town Plays At Romney High Today

Charles Town, W. Va., Oct. 3—The Charles Town High School gridmen will journey to Romney tomorrow for a game with Romney High School. This is the first time in a number of years that these two schools have met on the gridiron.

Both teams won games last week. Charles Town downed Harrisonburg High 13-0 for their second victory in three starts while Romney tripped Berkeley Springs 18-0 in their season's opener.

The Hillmen will leave for Romney early tomorrow morning in order to arrive there in time for lunch and rest up for the game which will get under way at ... p. m.

Winning the third and deciding game of one of the closest matches so far this year by six pins, the Club Seniors bested the Club Juniors 2-1 this week at Club Recreation to take a one-game lead in the City Bowling League first half race.

The Seniors toppled 818 sticks for a new single game record in the deciding contest with Francis Twigg racking up a new individual game mark with 216 and "Pie" Conley not so far behind with 201. Conley had the best set of the match with 507 while Twigg rolled 494. Frank Stakem was high for the Juniors with 491.

In other matches, the SS. Peter and Paul Seniors took two from the Roxy on the losers' lanes. Diamond bested SS. Peter and Paul Juniors 2-1 at SS. Peter and Paul, and Silver Lanes topped the American Brewers 2-1 at Cresaptown.

Owen McGreevy of the Silver Lanes set a new season record of 516 for three games. The old mark was 503 held by Frank Stakem of the Club Juniors. Twigg broke the record of 210 held by Paul Stakem of the Club Seniors while the Club Seniors shattered the team game high of 816 made by the Diamond.

La Vale Tosser Wins League Series Honors

Harold Conrad, LaVale, A. A. outfielder, turned in the best batting average for the recent Allegany County Softball League championship series in which Clary Club defeated LaVale three games to two.

Conrad stepped to the plate 16 times and drove out ten hits for a .625 percentage. Next in line was C. Hughes, LaVale catcher, with .600, while Andy Dunn of Clary Club was third with .588.

Clary Club had nine players over the .300 mark while LaVale had ten. LaVale's team average was .422 with 11 of its 70 hits for extra bases. Clary Club hit .287 with six of its safeties for extra cushions.

In the run column, Clary Club had a 40 to 38 edge. In the pitching department, Blank of Clary Club and Paul Markwood of LaVale each won two games without a defeat. Markwood gave only 18 hits and walked three in 18 innings while Blank yielded 32 blows in 17 frames. Leo Kisamore was charged with LaVale's three losses.

In extra-base hits, Kammauf, Dunn and E. Densmore each had two and R. Middleton one for LaVale and Davis, Lyons and K. Edwards each had one for Clary Club. L. Middleton of LaVale had two triples while Blank of Clary Club and Kammauf of LaVale each hit a homer. Series batting records follow:

More Premiers Are Scheduled By Radio Chains

Nazimova Will Have Lead in Play by Everyman's Theater

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—More program premieres are due on the networks Friday night. WEAF-NBC and MBS divide the honors with the new ones this way:

WEAF-NBC—9:30 Return of Archibald Cooler's plays as Everyman's Theater with Nazimova playing "This Lonely Heart" as the opener; 10 Wings of Destiny, aviation drama, with an airplane to be awarded each week.

Football Forecasts

MBS—7:15 to the midwest only, Red Grange in football forecasts; 7:30 entire chain, California Melodies come back.

Baseball and boxing get the sports attention, the baseball, of course, being the world series, with the third game on the schedule for playing at Detroit and with details carried by the MBS chain at 1:15 augmented by 253 stations. The boxing is welterweight battle in New York on WJZ-NBC at 10 in which Henry Armstrong is to defend his title against Fritzie Zivic.

Kate Smith will present her ABC-CBS variety hour at 8 from South Bend, Ind., in honor of Knute Rockne and a new movie of his career. Among the guests are to be Mrs. Rockne, Pat O'Brien, Elmer Layden and the Notre Dame band and glee club.

From Europe

Of and about Europe and other developments: NBC 8 a. m., 1:45 p. m., 12 mid; CBS 8, 9:15 a. m., 6:45, 7:55, 10:45 east; MBS 11:05, 11:45 a. m., 10, 10:30, 11:45 p. m.; WEAF-NBC 7:15; WJZ-NBC 9:30.

Added to the schedule: MBS at 7:15 Politics, Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate.

South Africa Natives Mistake Eclipse of Sun For "Hitler's Aviators"

CALVINIA, CAPE OF GOOD HOPE PROVINCE, UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA, Oct. 3. (AP)—Fearful natives, shouting "Hitler's war birds are coming," ran pell mell into the hills during a four-minute total eclipse of the sun.

Although they were forewarned, the quick transition from daylight to eerie twilight was too much for the inhabitants who vacated towns in a 20-mile belt across the Northwest cape of the Kaffrarian coast.

The nervousness of the natives was shared by nervously twittering birds and lustily crowing cocks as the shadow of the moon raced across the veldt at seventy miles a minute.

Red Cross Would Provide Workers To Register Men

A story in the CUMBERLAND NEWS yesterday morning stating that the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors was issuing a call for volunteers Oct. 16 to register men between 21 and 35 for the Selective Service Act, brought results.

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, chairman of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross wrote James E. Kenney, chairman of the election board offering to help supply volunteer workers needed to register an estimated 12,000 Allegany county men for military service.

"If the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross can be of any service to you," Mrs. Witherup wrote, "we will be glad to help you.

"We can obtain volunteer workers at any time and if you will give me some idea of the qualifications for such workers and the number that you will need, we will get to work on it at once".

Betty Alwein Is Hurt Skating

Betty Alwein, 17, of Route 3, Johnstown, Pa., was treated at Allegany hospital, Wednesday night, for a lacerated chin suffered in a fall at Crystal Park skating rink.

The injury occured while she was skating with two youths. Five stitches were taken in the wound and she was released.

Two Veteran

dogs during their respective careers, Mr. Statler said he had been chewed dozens of times, Mr. Logsdon only once.

"However, I must admit that in most cases I generally got acquainted with most of the dogs on my routes," Mr. Statler added. "There were times I would have as many as three and four friendly dogs following me as I passed down the line."

Both men said that as a rule they seldom ever became very well acquainted with the men living along their beats. Most of them are away at work when postmen come along.

"It's the women we get to know," Mr. Statler announced with a chuckle.

Witness Life Cycle

People are born, get married, are sick and sometimes die in the normal experience of a veteran mailman and in most cases he knows the whole story just from going up to a doorstep, saying hello, and passing the time of day before going on his way.

A sack full of mail tells a complete story of a community to a veteran mailman. There will be the letter Mrs. Jones has been anxiously waiting for from her son who has gotten into some mischief or other, or the letter Mrs. Smith has been waiting for to find out if her daughter passed college algebra or not.

Mailmen, these veterans aver, know the letters people on their beats are waiting for, know how much they sometimes mean to housewives waiting on doorsteps with hands in apron pockets.

Both Good Yarn Tellers

Once Mr. Statler and Mr. Logsden start musing regarding their experiences, a third person just sits still and listens. Some of their stories are boisterously funny, others exceedingly sad — but all are very human, show that most people are often as concerned over trivial things as important things.

These two retiring veterans were given a party last night at the Central Y. M. C. A. by other mail carriers in Cumberland. It was sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary No. 255 of the National Association of Letter Carriers.

After a sumptuous banquet, talks were made by James Webster, superintendent of mails, and Baird Wolford, foreman of carriers. Roy B. Whitson was toastmaster.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Statler Sr., Walter Logsdon, Baird Wolford, James Webster, Sylvester Schilling, Edward Hader, Lloyd Bucy, Theodora Beck, Mr. and Mrs. George Statler Mr. and Mrs. Charles Statler Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Isat, Mr. and Mrs. John Lochner, James Fatkin, Miss Evelyn Reckley, Miss Ruth Smith, Miss Edith Crabtree, Miss Bessie Crabtree, Miss Esther Whalley, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crabtree, Mrs. Martha Athey, Mrs. Margaret Brooks, Mrs. Lillie Whalley, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Whitson, Mrs. Lulu Smith,

Records established during the past two weeks took a beating in National and American Tenpin League matches last week at the Roxy with all four marks being shattered in the National and two new highs going up in the American.

The Rompers extended their lead in the National to two games by defeating the Rollers 2-1. The Rovers turned back the Roosters 2-1 and the Rounders copped a pair from the Rookies.

In the American League, the Rockets made it a three-way deadlock for first. The Robins and Roses had previously been tied at the top of the standing and in third-week matches, the Rockets took two from the Robins, the Roses bowed to the Rowdies 2-1 and the Rogues turned back the Royals 2-1.

Town Hall Players Resume Rehearsals In Renovated "Barn"

Work on renovating "The Barn", meeting place of the Town Hall Players was completed yesterday, and rehearsals have been continued for "No Time For Comedy", which will be presented as the first show of the 1940-41 dramatic season. The Barn was badly damaged Friday night when fire started in the attic and storage rooms from a defective flue.

An inventory of the Town Hallers equipment showed most of their scenery and all of their flood lamps and spot lights were destroyed. The place was badly flooded with water and much furniture was made practically worthless.

Despite this setback in their season, Town Hallers were busy last night calling on patrons and subscribers to complete the ticket campaign. In order to partially offset the financial loss suffered in the fire, it will be necessary to sell about 100 more tickets than had been planned, to assure a successful season financially. The group will meet again Monday evening and again on the following Wednesday.

Directors of Police Boy's Club To Meet

Directors of the Police Boys Club will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A.

More Premiers Are Scheduled By Radio Chains

Nazimova Will Have Lead in Play by Everyman's Theater

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—More program premieres are due on the networks Friday night. WEAF-NBC and MBS divide the honors with the new ones this way:

WEAF-NBC—9:30 Return of Archibald Coler's plays as Everyman's Theater with Nazimova playing "This Lonely Heart" as the opener; 10 Rings of Destiny, aviation drama, with an airplane to be awarded each week.

Football Forecasts

MBS—7:15 to the midwest only, Red Grange in football forecasts; 8:30 entire chain, California Melodies come back.

Baseball and boxing get the sports attention, the baseball, of course, being the world series, with the third game on the schedule for playing at Detroit and with details carried by the MBS chain at 1:15 augmented by 253 stations. The boxing is welterweight battle in New York on WJZ-NBC at 10 in which Henry Armstrong is to defend his title against Fritzie Zivic.

Kate Smith will present her WABC-CBS variety hour at 8 from South Bend, Ind., in honor of Knute Rockne and a new movie of his career. Among the guests are to be Mrs. Rockne, Pat O'Brien, Elmer Layden and the Notre Dame band and glee club.

From Europe

Of and about Europe and other developments: NBC 8 a. m., 1:45 p. m., 12 mid; CBS 8, 9:15 a. m., 6:45, 7:55, 10:45 east; MBS 11:05, 11:45 a. m., 10, 10:30, 11:45 p. m.; WEAF-NBC 7:15; WJZ-NBC 9:30.

Added to the schedule: MBS at 1:15 Politics, Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate.

South Africa Natives Mistake Eclipse of Sun For "Hitler's Aviators"

CALVINIA, CAPE OF GOOD HOPE PROVINCE, UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA, Oct. 3. (AP)—Fearful natives, shouting "Hitler's war birds are coming," ran pell mell into the hills during a four-minute total eclipse of the sun.

Although they were forewarned, the quick transition from daylight to eerie twilight was too much for the inhabitants who vacated towns in a 20-mile belt across the Northwest cape of the Kaffrarian coast.

The nervousness of the natives was shared by nervously twittering birds and lustily crowing cocks as the shadow of the moon raced across the veldt at seventy miles a minute.

Red Cross Would Provide Workers To Register Men

A story in the CUMBERLAND NEWS yesterday morning stating that the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors was issuing a call for volunteers Oct. 16 to register men between 21 and 35 for the Selective Service Act, brought results.

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, chairman of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross wrote James E. Kenney, chairman of the election board offering to help supply volunteer workers needed to register an estimated 12,000 Allegany county men for military service.

"If the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross can be of any service to you," Mrs. Witherup wrote, "we will be glad to help you.

"We can obtain volunteer workers at any time and if you will give me some idea of the qualifications for such workers and the number that you will need, we will get to work on it at once".

Betty Alwein Is Hurt Skating

Betty Alwein, 17, of Route 3, Johnstown, Pa., was treated at Allegany hospital, Wednesday night, for a lacerated chin suffered in a fall at Crystal Park skating rink.

The injury occured while she was skating with two youths. Five stitches were taken in the wound and she was released.

Two Veteran

dogs during their respective careers, Mr. Statler said he had been chewed dozens of times, Mr. Logsdon only once.

"However, I must admit that in most cases I generally got acquainted with most of the dogs on my routes," Mr. Statler added. "There were times I would have as many as three and four friendly dogs following me as I passed down the line."

Both men said that as a rule they seldom ever became very well acquainted with the men living along their beats. Most of them are away at work when postmen come along.

"It's the women we get to know," Mr. Statler announced with a chuckle.

Witness Life Cycle

People are born, get married, are sick and sometimes die in the normal experience of a veteran mailman and in most cases he knows the whole story just from going up to a doorstep, saying hello, and passing the time of day before going on his way.

A sack full of mail tells a complete story of a community to a veteran mailman. There will be the letter Mrs. Jones has been anxiously waiting for from her son who has gotten into some mischief or other, or the letter Mrs. Smith has been waiting for to find out if her daughter passed college algebra or not.

Mailmen, these veterans aver, know the letters people on their beats are waiting for, know how much they sometimes mean to housewives waiting on doorsteps with hands in apron pockets.

Both Good Yarn Tellers

Once Mr. Statler and Mr. Logsden start musing regarding their experiences, a third person just sits still and listens. Some of their stories are boisterously funny, others exceedingly sad — but all are very human, show that most people are often as concerned over trivial things as important things.

These two retiring veterans were given a party last night at the Central Y. M. C. A. by other mail carriers in Cumberland. It was sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary No. 255 of the National Association of Letter Carriers.

After a sumptuous banquet, talks were made by James Webster, superintendent of mails, and Baird Wolford, foreman of carriers. Roy B. Whitson was toastmaster.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Statler Sr., Walter Logsdon, Baird Wolford, James Webster, Sylvester Schilling, Edward Hader, Lloyd Bucy, Theodora Beck, Mr. and Mrs. George Statler Mr. and Mrs. Charles Statler Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Isat, Mr. and Mrs. John Lochner, James Fatkin, Miss Evelyn Reckley, Miss Ruth Smith, Miss Edith Crabtree, Miss Bessie Crabtree, Miss Esther Whalley, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crabtree, Mrs. Martha Athey, Mrs. Margaret Brooks, Mrs. Lillie Whalley, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Whitson, Mrs Lulu Smith,

Town Hall Players Resume Rehearsals In Renovated "Barn"

Work on renovating "The Barn", meeting place of the Town Hall Players was completed yesterday, and rehearsals have been continued for "No Time For Comedy", which will be presented as the first show of the 1940-41 dramatic season. The Barn was badly damaged Friday night when fire started in the attic and storage rooms from a defective flue.

An inventory of the Town Hallers equipment showed most of their scenery and all of their flood lamps and spot lights were destroyed. The place was badly flooded with water and much furniture was made practically worthless.

Despite this setback in their season, Town Hallers were busy last night calling on patrons and subscribers to complete the ticket campaign. In order to partially offset the financial loss suffered in the fire, it will be necessary to sell about 100 more tickets than had been planned, to assure a successful season financially. The group will meet again Monday evening and again on the following Wednesday.

Directors of Police Boy's Club To Meet

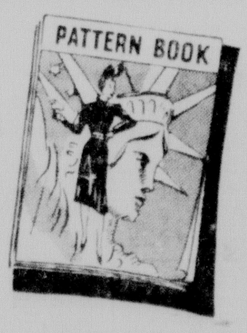
Everyone is talking about the ANNE ADAMS Winter Pattern Book
JANE: What a stunning, colorful fashion book! And such a variety of styles!
SUE: Yes, it's my new Anne Adams Pattern Book. Have you ever seen designs that are so smart and original . . . and still so wearable? The patterns are the easiest I've ever worked with, too. Everything I wear is from an Anne Adams pattern — that's why my clothes cost so little!



JANE: No wonder you always look smart. I'm sending an order for my book at once!
Get YOUR copy too! The book is fifteen cents, but when ordered with a pattern, the two together are twenty-five cents.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Carole Richard Hartley vs. Rue Bess Hartley. No. 7268 Equity. In the Circuit Court For Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii on the grounds of the desertion of the plaintiff by the defendant for three years next before the filing of the bill of complaint. The bill states that the parties were married on the 23rd day of December, 1925, at Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, and that no children were born of the marriage. The bill further states that the defendant deserted the plaintiff without cause on the 23rd day of June, 1936, and thereafter the plaintiff lived with the defendant and they lived together as husband and wife until the 23rd day of June, 1936, when the defendant deserted the plaintiff without cause and has continued to live separate and apart from the plaintiff since that time. The bill further states that there were no children born into the marriage of the parties; that the plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for many years, and the defendant is a resident of the State of Maryland.

It is therefore this 7th day of October, 1940, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, ordered that the plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 2nd day of November, 1940, give notice to the defendant of the object and substance of this bill warning her to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 16th day of December, 1940, and answer the bill or be proceeded against as by law and the rules of this Court may be required.

True Copy.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE

Of Frame Dwelling Nos. 94 and 96 and 98 Main Street, Frostburg, Maryland.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from Charles Shields to Thomas G. Dilley and Anna Dilley, his wife, dated January 8th, 1926, and recorded in Liber No. 175, folio 267 et seq., one of the Mortgage Records of Allegany County, default having occurred under the covenants and conditions of said mortgage, the undersigned Assignee will offer for sale at public auction on the premises known as Nos. 94 and 96 Main Street, Frostburg, Md., on the following property, to-wit:

OCTOBER 12th, 1940,
at 10:00 o'clock, A. M.,

All that real estate lying in Frostburg, Allegany County, Maryland, which was conveyed by and from Thomas G. Dilley and wife to Charles Shields by deed dated the 8th day of January, 1926, and recorded among the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, in Liber No. 175, folio 267 et seq., BEGINNING at a peg on the South side of Main Street, on the line between the lands of Thomas G. Dilley and Dillon properties, and with said division line South 28 degrees and 30 minutes West 158 feet to the beginning; it being a part of Lot Number fourteen and a part of Lot Number fifteen, as described in a deed from Cornelius Lynch and wife to Thomas G. Dilley, dated the 8th day of December, 1894, and recorded among the Land Records of Allegany County in Liber L. J. No. 56, folio 261.

This property is improved by a three frame dwelling known as Nos. 94, 96 and 98 Main Street, No. 94 Main Street being a one story frame building containing three rooms, with gas and electricity, and No. 96 having five rooms with bath, gas and electricity, and No. 98 having five rooms with bath, gas and electricity. The property will be offered separately and also offered as a whole if no sufficient bids are received for the separate properties.

TERMS OF SALE: CASH on day of sale.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Claude Richard Hartley vs. Sue Bessie Hartley
No. 13838 Equity. In the Circuit Court For Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure an annulment of the marriage of the plaintiff to the defendant, Sue Bessie Hartley.

The Bill states that the parties were married on the 28th day of December, 1925, at Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, and that on or about the 22nd day of June, 1940 the defendant abandoned and deserted the plaintiff without any just cause or reason and declared her intention to live with him no longer, and thereafter the plaintiff learned that there was a prior existing marriage between the defendant and one Charles Burns, and that there were no children born unto the marriage of the plaintiff and the defendant that the plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for many years and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 1st day of October, 1940, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, by equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once in each of four successive weeks before the 2nd day of November, 1940, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of the Bill warning her to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 16th day of November, 1940, to show cause if any she has why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Sunshine Camp Is Successful, Young Declares

Tells Kiwanians of Good Accomplished with Children Last Summer

Years ago near the City Temple in London, the ground was cleared of some very old buildings, between Holborn and the Strand.

It lay for a year exposed to light, air and rain. The soil had not felt the touch of spring since the Romans sailed up the Thames.

In June, strange flowers began to bloom among the rubble—some of them flowers unknown to England. They were plants brought by the Romans.

The seeds lay dormant—not dead. Given sunshine, an unguessed beauty was set free and burst into bloom.

Hidden Flowers Brought Out

Such was the story told yesterday by Joseph W. Young to illustrate the untold good accomplished by the Kiwanis club's Sunshine Camp for underprivileged children.

Speaking at the club's weekly luncheon-meeting at the Fort Cumberland hotel, Young, who served as camp director, told the Kiwanians how "hidden flowers" had been brought out by "the warmth of the Sunshine Camp."

The approximately 120 boys and girls given vacations at the camp last summer all had "fine characters," Young went on, but they had been given little or no opportunity to develop fully.

Through its camp, the club is "helping life to blossom—life that may mean much to the next generation," the members heard.

Young explained how the camp had led the children to "a community spirit in play, discipline and consideration of others"; how it has "encouraged the discouraged; turned the cynical mind to one of better outlook; showed that kindness and discipline could emanate from the same source; fed the heart that was hungry for love and affection; provided recreation that was wholesome; fed the hungry stomach; and directed thought to the fact that God is a God of love and is greater than the selfishness and strife that is around us and that God leads man to expressions of love for his fellow man."

Camp a Real Success

For these reasons, the speaker declared, the camp was a real success, providing as it did a wholesome influence on boys and girls at the impressionable and flexible age—an age when lives can be changed and characters moulded.

The camp director recounted several incidents to show in a concrete way what had been accomplished. One little girl, he said, was "the kind who would break a brick every time she would spit; the shrug of her shoulders, the curl of her mouth would all indicate she had been on the outside taking care of herself and was becoming hard.

"At the end of the first week, she said, 'There is one thing that you have done out here, and that is to tame me down a lot.'

"During the first part of the second week, she told her counselor, 'You know, I don't know what I was when I came out here, but I certainly wasn't a little girl. Since I have been here, I've learned to be a little girl. And, Oh, how I love it! From now on, that's what I'm going to be.'"

To Continue Camp

Looking forward, Young urged the club to continue its program and expand it if possible.

Assurance of such development was immediately given by President W. M. Somerville and Dr. C. L. Owens, general chairman of the camp committee.

Dr. Owens, speaking briefly, said plans were underway to operate the camp three months next year and to take care of 150 children. He also revealed that a swimming pool is to be installed.

Lloyd Rawlings, chairman of the budget committee, reported over $2,100 spent and a surplus of $305 to be carried over for next year's work.

B. and O. Railroad To Purchase 1,000 Steel Hopper Cars

The national defense program is expected to stimulate railroad traffic to such an extent that the purchase of 100,000 additional freight cars by railroads in the country will be necessary within the next year.

Directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company have authorized the purchase of 1,000 steel hopper cars and the construction at its own shops of 1,000 wagon tox box cars of fifty ton capacity.

The company's car forces are now engaged on the repair of bad order hopper cars, of which there are about 2,500 on hand. This work is expected to be completed before the first of the year to make way for the construction of the new box cars, materials for which are now being assembled.

The cars will be fabricated in the forge shops in Cumberland, and will be constructed entirely by Baltimore and Ohio forces. About half of this work is planned for Keyser, W. Va., the remainder to be distributed to other points.

Since the program calls for the completion of ten cars a day, the order is expected to keep all the company's regular car forces employed well into 1941.

Airport Plans Are Discussed By Engineers

Rizer Expects To Submit Master Outline in the Next Month

Plans discussed Wednesday by Albert H. Wessell, division-airport engineer of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer call for four runways at the proposed new municipal airport for Cumberland to be located at Wiley Ford, W. Va., the field would be classed as a No. 4 airport.

The city engineer said yesterday he expects to submit a master plan to the CAA within the next month. The master plan will show the location of the administration building, hangars, runways and a profile of the runways.

The runway grades will be within the maximum limit of one and one-half percent. One of them will be 4,500 feet long, which is a requirement for a No. 4 airport. The shortest will be 2,700 feet.

Runways will be 500 feet wide with a center stripe 150 feet of hard surface. By purchasing more land it will be possible to make one runway 6,000 feet long, said Rizer.

Rizer and Wessell spent most of yesterday afternoon going over the ground and preliminary plans for the airport, which will be big enough for transport planes to land.

Local Girl Will Attend Conference Of Junior Colleges

Jean Witherup Will Represent St. Mary's Female Seminary at Meeting

Miss Jean Witherup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, of Cumberland, a junior in St. Mary's Female Seminary-Junior college, of St. Mary's City, has been selected to attend in Washington, D. C., October 5, an educational conference of junior colleges. Representing her classmates in the commercial course, Miss Witherup will attend sessions dealing primarily with vocational education in the semi-professional fields.

St. Mary's Female Seminary-Junior college will be among forty junior colleges of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia meeting to discuss two-year courses in junior colleges especially for students who will not continue their education beyond the sophomore year.

Mrs. Witherup will be accompanied by other representatives from her school, Miss M. Adele France, president; Miss Margaret Hight, registrar and head of the social science department; Miss June E. Newkirk, head of the business department; Miss Mary B. Renshaw, head of the physical educational department; Miss Frances Gill, secretary and NYA administrator; and Miss Edna Pace Booth of Reedville, Virginia, a student in recreational leadership.

This conference will be one of twenty meetings in various parts of the country, from Boston to Los Angeles, to discuss vocational and general education for students just out of secondary school. Supplementing four similar conferences held last spring, these discussions are expected to reach almost all the 600 junior colleges in the country, as a part of an investigation conducted by the Commission on Junior colege terminal education.

Two Damage Suits Totaling $4,000 Are Filed Here

Two suits totaling $4,000 were filed in circuit court yesterday against the Reliable Motors, a corporation, by George D. Keith and Marion Goff, the latter through her father, Porter Goff.

Keith contends that he purchased a 1933 model coupe from the used car concern in May 1939, and that the firm guaranteed it was in perfect working order.

Keith contends he was operating his car in a prudent manner on Bedford road Sept. 22, 1939, when the steering gear broke. As a result, the car struck a stone abutment, he charges.

The plaintiff charges he received serious injuries and that "twenty-one stitches were required to close his wounds."

All this was due to the "false statements and misrepresentations made by the defendant for the purpose of inducing the plaintiff to buy the car," Keith claims.

Marion Goff, who says she was riding in the car with Keith, charges she was "seriously and permanently" cut and bruised in the accident and also asks $2,000.

The suits were docketed by Attorney Edward J. Ryan.

Potomac Park Woman Is Injured in Fall

A Potomac Park woman fell from the porch at her home last evening and was admitted to Memorial hospital after she complained of pains in her chest and back.

The woman, Mrs. Genevieve Wagner, 36, will be X-rayed today to determine the extent of her injuries.

TO GIVE THEIR FEET A REST—These two men have tramped hundreds of miles up and down Cumberland city streets and know hundreds of Cumberland people. They are, seated, Walter D. Logsdon, 61, of 136 West Third street, and C. E. Statler, 65, of 522 City View terrace. Logsdon has been a postman for thirty-three years, Statler for twenty-nine years. Both retired from the service last night. The normal life of a special made shoe with these men is from six to eight months. Composition-soled shoes stand the gaff better than leather-soled shoes, they aver. Leather lasts about six weeks, composition from four to five months. But any way you look at it, these boys are mighty hard on shoe leather. Both men got together last night, mused for awhile regarding their experiences. They were well-worth hearing. Logsdon looked somewhat solemn when he propped his feet up on a chair and stared at them. Statler was more interested in Logsdon's shoes, gave the present pair another six months now that he's retired.

Six New Willkie Clubs Organized In Maryland

Richard F. Cleveland Has Been Named Chairman of Speakers' Group

Lewis M. Wilson, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, announced yesterday that he has been advised of the formation of six new Willkie clubs and their inclusion in the Associated Willkie Clubs of Maryland.

The new clubs are in Hagerstown, Frederick, Reisterstown, Chestertown, Easton and Talbot county.

Officers Are Named

Officers of the clubs are:

Hagerstown — William J. Clapp, chairman; George Orrick, treasurer; George Swartz, secretary.

Frederick — Peter W. Chichester, chairman; T. Poole Jones, treasurer; Mrs. R. R. Lewis, secretary.

Chestertown — Dr. Alex C. Dick, chairman.

Easton—James Dixon, chairman; Mrs. E. McNeal Shannahan, treasurer.

Democrats for Willkie Club of Talbot county — T. Hughlett Henry, chairman; Howard N. German, treasurer.

Cleveland Is Chairman

It also was announced that Richard F. Cleveland, of Baltimore, has been named chairman of the speakers' committee of the Associated Willkie Clubs of Maryland.

In a letter accepting membership on the directing committee of the Associated Willkie Clubs of Maryland, R. E. Lee Marshall, for many years Baltimore city solicitor under the Democratic municipal administration, declared that he intends to support Willkie.

"Briefly stated, the reasons . . . are clear and simple," Marshall said. "The essence of dictatorship is self-perpetuation in the office of Chief Magistrate. The essence of democracy is rotation in that office.

"All previous chief magistrates of the United States, Democrats and Republicans, have recognized and honored this principle and it remains for the present chief magistrate to violate it. Why? The iconoclast himself offers no explanation of any sort. His political confederates say that he is the indispensable man, and the campaign for his reelection has so far been run solely upon this fictitious and fradulent basis."

Two Men Receive Suspended Sentences

Lawson Perdew, 510-512 Central avenue, and Charles Perdew, 507 Central avenue, were technically charged with "failure to connect a sewer and abate a nuisance," when brought to police court yesterday.

After neighbors complained of the condition the health department told the men to remedy the situation.

The court gave the men sixty days to comply with the order. Both men said they had been out of work for some time and it would be a hardship to have the changes made.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew, no relation to the defendants, gave the men a suspended sentence of sixty days in jail.

Two Veteran Cumberland Mail Carriers Retire

Walter D. Logsdon and C. E. Statler Give Interesting Account of Long Public Service

A reporter who interviewed two veteran mailmen last night decided it would be a good idea if all newspapermen and all mailmen swapped jobs.

For newspapermen are notoriously stupid fellows since nobody, of course, ever tells them anything of importance. Mailmen, on the other hand, are always sharp as tacks since housewives all along their routes are continually stuffing them full with lively gossip for which the postmen have little if any use.

However, it must be admitted postmen, by their very natures, inspire more confidence than most people since their job of carting news, both good and bad, into countless homes softens them up, makes them more sympathetic and tolerant than most folks.

Inspire Confidence

This is undoubtedly true in the cases of Walter D. Logsdon, 61, of 136 West Third street, and C. E. Statler, 65, of 522 City View Terrace, who officially retired last night after piling up a total of sixty-two years' service between them.

Mr. Statler, who looks a little bit like Cordull Hull and who has traipsed every route in Cumberland except one, finished up his mail-toting career in the Frederick and Decatur street section.

Mr. Logsdon, who looks a little bit like Mr. Jones of the Jones family movies, started out as a rural carrier and finished up by carrying the mail to everybody who lives west of Virginia avenue.

Routes Are 10 Miles

Both routes constitute ten-mile daily hikes and both men have been making these ten-mile hikes 306 days a year for thirty-three and twenty-nine years respectively.

"No, I never kept track of the amount of shoe leather I've used in the last twenty-nine years," Mr. Statler said. "Personally, I wear a special shoe with a heavy sole which lasts me from six to eight months.

"A composition shoe," Mr. Statler continued seriously, getting technical," lasts longer than a leather shoe, I've found. Your leather-soled shoe has to be tapped every six weeks. Your composition shoe on the other hand, will stand up from four to five months."

Tell of Early Life

Changing the subject, Mr. Logsdon recalled that he first started out as a rural carrier out Bedford road and over into Pennsylvania.

"I used a horse and buggy," he recalled, "and at that time Nave's Crossroad was the jumping off place. It was mud from there on out.

First Mechanized Carrier

"Later, I was the first carrier in Allegany county to use a motor vehicle for delivering mail. It was a motorcycle and I started using it in 1907 to take mail out in that section where the dam is now," Logsdon declared.

Comparing notes on the number of times they had been bitten by

Rosh Ha-shono was observed by Cumberland Jews as well as others throughout the world Wednesday and Thursday.

Rosh Ha-shono, the Jewish religious New Year, opened Wednesday evening (eve of the first day of Tishri, according to the Jewish calendar). It is a holy day which brings a welcome message of eternal values to Jews throughout the world.

Observed for two days by orthodox and conservative Jews, Rosh Ha-shono is observed by Reform Jews for one day, as prescribed originally.

Once a part of the feast of ingathering at the end of the harvest season, the New Year festival assumed its present solemn character within two generations after the fall of the second temple.

As a separate holy days, Rosh Ha-shono has no connection with nature or with historic events. It urges the individual to live a worthy life and to remember that life is very short in contrast to eternity. It ushers in the Ten Days of Penitence, which conclude with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

Blowing of the shofer, a ram's horn, in the synagogue is a feature of the Rosh-Ha-shono service. Special delicacies eaten on the eve of the New Year include honey, which represents the hope for a sweet year. The exchange of New Year's greetings is a custom connected with the holy day.

In accordance with the traditional idea that God judges and assigns the destiny of each individual on Rosh Ha-shono, one greeting often used is "May you be inscribed (in the Book of Life) for a second year.

Local Industries Ready To Produce Defense Products

Celanese Is Making Fortisan Yarn on an Experimental Basis

Fred T. Small, plant manager of the Celanese Corporation of America, announced yesterday that the Celanese is prepared to go into the commercial manufacture of Celanese fortisan, a new strong yard, considered as a possible substitute for parachute fabric, if necessary.

According to Mr. Small, fortisan is now being made at the local plant on an experimental basis and could be ready for market in a few months, in case there is a demand for the product.

Fifteen Truck Drivers Still Out on Strike

Lear and Oliver Ice Cream Company and Two Transfer Firms Affected

The strike called by Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs union, against three Cumberland concerns on Sept. 19 is still in force with no immediate prospect of a settlement in sight.

Fifteen A. F. of L. workers left the Lear and Oliver Ice Cream Company and the Bennett and Appel Transfer Companies Sept. 19 when called out by C. E. Stutzman, union business agent.

In the case of the transfer concerns, the union is seeking a four-hour guarantee which means that once a worker is called out the company must provide him with at least four-hours of work. Previously, the company has been calling men out and then paying them off after one or two hours of work, Stutzman said.

Want Six Day Week

In the case of Lear and Oliver, the union wants a six-day week and a wage increase. At present, the ice-cream company is on a seven-day week.

Stutzman said the union now has a standard contract with a competitor of the ice cream company and wants Lear and Oliver to sign up too.

Pickets have been patroling the ice cream company, since the concern has a store, Stutzman said. The transfer companies have not been picketed to date although unionists intend to follow trucks that go out on jobs, the business agent said.

To Folow Trucks

Asked what he meant by following trucks, Stutzman said it simply meant that unionists would follow the vans to an address where it had a moving job. Once there, the unionists will inform the man hiring the work done of the strike and ask him to cancel the job, Stutzman said.

To date, a couple of conferences have been held with officials of the Bennett Transfer Company, Stutzman said, but no agreement has been reached.

Plans Are Made Here for Fire Prevention Week

Plans for the Fire Prevention Week program scheduled for Oct. 6 were made yesterday by the fire prevention committee with Thomas F. Conlon chairman reporting that fire losses in Cumberland have been gradually decreased in the last sixteen years.

Another point brought out at the meeting was the fact that fire rates on certain-type dwellings adjacent to non-manufacturing business units have been reduced forty-seven per cent since May 20.

Members who attended the meeting included Conlon, James Orr, police commissioner; Reid C. Hoenicka, fire chief, Oscar A. Eyerman, police chief; Carl Schmutz, Victor D. Heisey and H. W. Smith.

Chief Hoenicka agreed to have members of the fire department address school assembly programs in conjunction with the work of the Life Underwriters Association.

Ten thousand home inspection blanks for school children have been ordered and will be distributed in the schools.

And one interesting fact brought out at the meeting was that there were no fire larms registered in South Cumberland in September.

Balch Continues Operating Home For Juveniles

Commissioners Lease Institution; Patterson Doesn't Know Status

The Allegany County Emergency Home, still minus Rembrandts on the walls, childless experts on child psychology and other expensive geegaws, continued to operate last night despite the edict from the Department of Public Welfare ordering it closed Oct. 1.

Everybody concerned was being very quiet about the whole thing last evening. Yes, the Allegany County Emergency Home has not closed down Allegany county authorities said, sitting back complacently and folding their hands so to speak.

Status Is In Doubt

J. Milton Patterson, Department of Public Welfare director, said he did not know the status of the home on Valley road which he had ordered closed Oct. 1—not at the moment, anyway.

Patterson added that he had not had confirmation of a report that the county commissioners had leased the home at a cost of $1 a month.

Under Allegany county juvenile court law, the county commissioners may rent, lease or build a structure "as a house of detention for minors under the age of sixteen who may be held to await trial or hearing, and to which the minor may be committed by the magistrate as to other reformatories or schools."

This means, in other words, that the county apparently can operate a welfare home. For the commissioners have leased it and by so doing have assumed a responsibility for the conduct of the institution.

Question of Practicability

While nobody concerned would come right out and say it, the issue apparently boiled down to a question of practicability as against expensixe theoretical frills espoused by the Welfare board.

It all started when representatives of the Welfare board started poking around out at the Valley road home, making various calculations which were later submitted to the board in the nature of reports.

The conclusions reached by the various and sundry experts was that a drastic improvement program was in order and would have to be carried out.

Captain Harry C. Balch, who runs the home and started it from scratch, blanched when informed regarding the extent of the improvements called for—improvements which he estimated would cost something like $5,000.

Balch admitted the improvements called for were mostly foreign to him. His idea of running a home was to give the youngsters plenty of good, wholesome food, see that they got plenty of exercise to keep them out of mischief and plenty of sleep.

"I started this home and I never got a penny of state aid," Balch declared. "And there's not a family in Cumberland that could meet the requirements of the Welfare board. In other words, thesec hildren are supposed to live higher than anybody else in the city."

This being the case, Balch notified the Welfare board that he couldn't possibly meet their requirements.

County Authorities Act

At this point, county authorities started putting their heads together. State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris made the announcement that the home served "an almost indispensable purpose" in Allegany county due to overcrowded conditions in state juvenile institutions.

Mrs. Elizabeth Menefee, juvenile court judge, said the court had to have a place where minors could be kept until arrangements could be made regarding their future.

As Captain Balch put it, "people can't make snap judgment regarding these matters in five minutes."

Next, the commissioners quietly leased the home and according to Captain Balch plans are now underway to work out a more definite program in regard to the maintenance and conduct of the institution.

The attitude of Captain Balch has always been that he would be more than willing to comply with the Welfare board's standards . . . if he could afford it. Not being able to afford it, he has gone ahead and done the best he could.

Local Persons Will Attend Convention Of Churches of Christ

Several members of the Church of Christ, Bedford street, this city, are planning to attend the North American Christian Convention of Churches of Christ, which will be held in the Cadle Tabernacle in Indianapolis, Ind., October 9 to 13.

The Christian churches and Churches of Christ which go under the general denominational name of Diciples of Christ, constitute the fifth largest Protestant body in the United States. They have a membership of 1,900,000 and Cadle Tabernacle, which seats 10,000 persons, will be in all probability be taxed to capacity.

The theme of the convention will be "Preach the Word" and it will be a preaching convention with very little business. P. H. Welshimer of Canton, Ohio, is president and the leading ministers of Deciples of Christ from all parts of the country as well as from Mexico and Canada will attend

Tells Kiwanians of Good Accomplished with Children Last Summer

Years ago, near the City Temple in London, the ground was cleared of some very old buildings, between Holborn and the Strand.

It lay for a year exposed to light, air and rain. The soil had not felt the touch of spring since the Romans sailed up the Thames.

In June, strange flowers began to bloom among the rubble—some of them flowers unknown to England. They were plants brought by the Romans.

The seeds lay dormant—not dead. Given sunshine, an unguessed beauty was set free and burst into bloom.

Hidden Flowers Brought Out

Such was the story told yesterday by Joseph W. Young to illustrate the untold good accomplished by the Kiwanis club's Sunshine Camp for underprivileged children.

Speaking at the club's weekly luncheon-meeting at the Fort Cumberland hotel, Young, who served as camp director, told the Kiwanians how "hidden flowers" had been brought out by "the warmth of the Sunshine Camp."

The approximately 120 boys and girls given vacations at the camp last summer all had "fine characters," Young went on, but they had been given little or no opportunity to develop fully.

Through its camp, the club is "helping life to blossom—life that may mean much to the next generation," the members heard.

Young explained how the camp had led the children to "a community spirit in play, discipline and consideration of others"; how it has "encouraged the discouraged; turned the cynical mind to one of better outlook; showed that kindness and discipline could emanate from the same source; fed the heart that was hungry for love and affection; provided recreation that was wholesome; fed the hungry stomach; and directed thought to the fact that God is a God of love and is greater than the selfishness and strife that is around us and that God leads man to expressions of love for his fellow man."

Camp a Real Success

For these reasons, the speaker declared, the camp was a real success, providing as it did a wholesome influence on boys and girls at the impressionable and flexible age—an age when lives can be changed and characters moulded.

The camp director recounted several incidents to show in a concrete way what had been accomplished. One little girl, he said, was "the kind who would break a brick every time she would spit; the shrug of her shoulders, the curl of her mouth would all indicate she had been on the outside taking care of herself and was becoming hard.

"At the end of the first week, she said, 'There is one thing that you have done out here, and that is to tame me down a lot.'

"During the first part of the second week, she told her counselor, 'You know, I don't know what I was when I came out here, but I certainly wasn't a little girl. Since I have been here, I've learned to be a little girl. And, Oh, how I love it! From now on, that's what I'm going to be.'"

To Continue Camp

Looking forward, Young urged the club to continue its program and expand it if possible.

Assurance of such development was immediately given by President W. M. Somerville and Dr. C. L. Owens, general chairman of the camp committee.

Dr. Owens, speaking briefly, said plans were underway to operate the camp three months next year and to take care of 150 children. He also revealed that a swimming pool is to be installed.

Lloyd Rawlings, chairman of the budget committee, reported over $2,100 spent and a surplus of $305 to be carried over for next year's work.

The Kiwanians not only heard about the camp; they re-lived some of its activities through the medium of motion pictures taken and shown by John Parks.

B. and O. Railroad To Purchase 1,000 Steel Hopper Cars

The national defense program is expected to stimulate railroad traffic to such an extent that the purchase of 100,000 additional freight cars by railroads in the country will be necessary within the next year.

Directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company have authorized the purchase of 1,000 steel hopper cars and the construction at its own ships of 1,000 wagon tox box cars of fifty ton capacity.

The company's car forces are now engaged on the repair of bad order hopper cars, of which there are about 2,500 on hand. This work is expected to be completed before the first of the year to make way for the construction of the new box cars, materials for which are now being assembled.

The cars will be fabricated in the forge shops in Cumberland, and will be constructed entirely by Baltimore and Ohio forces. About half of this work is planned for Keyser, W. Va., the remainder to be distributed to other points.

Since the program calls for the completion of ten cars a day, the order is expected to keep all the company's regular car forces employed well into 1941.

Airport Plans Are Discussed By Engineers

Rizer Expects To Submit Master Outline in the Next Month

Plans discussed Wednesday by Albert H. Wessell, division airport engineer of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer call for four runways at the proposed new municipal airport for Cumberland to be located at Wiley Ford, W. Va., the field would be classed as a No. 4 airport.

The city engineer said yesterday he expects to submit a master plan to the CAA within the next month. The master plan will show the location of the administration building, hangars, runways and a profile of the runways.

The runway grades will be within the maximum limit of one and one-half percent. One of them will be 4,500 feet long, which is a requirement for a No. 4 airport. The shortest will be 2,700 feet.

Runways will be 500 feet wide with a center stripe 150 feet of hard surface. By purchasing more land it will be possible to make one runway 6,000 feet long, said Rizer.

Rizer and Wessell spent most of yesterday afternoon going over the ground and preliminary plans for the airport, which will be big enough for transport planes to land.

Local Girl Will Attend Conference Of Junior Colleges

Jean Witherup Will Represent St. Mary's Female Seminary at Meeting

Miss Jean Witherup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, of Cumberland, a junior in St. Mary's Female Seminary-Junior college, of St. Mary's City, has been selected to attend in Washington, D. C., October 5, an educational conference of junior colleges. Representing her classmates in the commercial course, Miss Witherup will attend sessions dealing primarily with vocational education in the semi-professional fields.

St. Mary's Female Seminary-Junior college will be among forty junior colleges of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia meeting to discuss two-year courses in junior colleges, especially for students who will not continue their education beyond the sophomore year.

Mrs. Witherup will be accompanied by other representatives from her school, Miss M. Adele France, president; Miss Margaret Hight, registrar and head of the social science department; Miss June E. Newkirk, head of the business department; Miss Mary B. Renshaw, head of the physical educational department; Miss Frances Gill, secretary and NYA administrator; and Miss Edna Pace Booth of Reedville, Virginia, a student in recreational leadership.

This conference will be one of twenty meetings in various parts of the country, from Boston to Los Angeles, to discuss vocational and general education for students just out of secondary school. Supplementing four similar conferences held last spring, these discussions are expected to reach almost all the 600 junior colleges in the country, as a part of an investigation conducted by the Commission on Junior colege terminal education.

Two Damage Suits Totaling $4,000 Are Filed Here

Two suits totaling $4,000 were filed in circuit court yesterday against the Reliable Motors, a corporation, by George D. Keith and Marion Goff, the latter through her father, Porter Goff.

Keith contends that he purchased a 1933 model coupe from the used car concern in May 1939, and that the firm guaranteed it was in perfect working order.

Keith contends he was operating his car in a prudent manner on Bedford road Sept. 22, 1939, when the steering gear broke. As a result, the car struck a stone abutment, he charges.

The plaintiff charges he received serious injuries and that "twenty-one stitches were required to close his wounds."

All this was due to the "false statements and misrepresentations made by the defendant for the purpose of inducing the plaintiff to buy the car," Keith claims.

Marion Goff, who says she was riding in the car with Keith, charges she was "seriously and permanently" cut and bruised in the accident and also asks $2,000.

The suits were docketed by Attorney Edward J. Ryan.

Potomac Park Woman Is Injured in Fall

A Potomac Park woman fell from the porch at her home last evening and was admitted to Memorial hospital after she complained of pains in her chest and back.

The woman, Mrs. Genevieve Wagner, 36, will be X-rayed today to determine the extent of her injuries.

TO GIVE THEIR FEET A REST—These two men have tramped hundreds of miles up and down Cumberland city streets and know hundreds of Cumberland people. They are, seated, Walter D. Logsdon, 61, of 136 West Third street, and C. E. Statler, 65, of 522 City View terrace. Logsdon has been a postman for thirty-three years, Statler for twenty-nine years. Both retired from the service last night. The normal life of a special made shoe with these men is from six to eight months. Composition-soled shoes stand the gaff better than leather-soled shoes, they aver. Leather lasts about six weeks, composition from four to five months. But any way you look at it, these boys are mighty hard on shoe leather. Both men got together last night, mused for awhile regarding their experiences. They were well-worth hearing. Logsdon looked somewhat solemn when he propped his feet up on a chair and stared at them. Statler was more interested in Logsdon's shoes, gave the present pair another six months now that he's retired.

Six New Willkie Clubs Organized In Maryland

Richard F. Cleveland Has Been Named Chairman of Speakers' Group

Lewis M. Wilson, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, announced yesterday that he has been advised of the formation of six new Willkie clubs and their inclusion in the Associated Willkie Clubs of Maryland.

The new clubs are in Hagerstown, Frederick, Reisterstown, Chestertown, Easton and Talbot county.

Officers Are Named

Officers of the clubs are:

Hagerstown — William J. Clapp, chairman; George Orrick, treasurer; George Swartz, secretary.

Frederick — Peter W. Chichester, chairman; T. Poole Jones, treasurer; Mrs. R. R. Lewis, secretary.

Chestertown — Dr. Alex C. Dick, chairman.

Easton—James Dixon, chairman; Mrs. E. McNeal Shannahan, treasurer.

Democrats for Willkie Club of Talbot county — T. Hughlett Henry, chairman; Howard N. German, treasurer.

Cleveland Is Chairman

It also was announced that Richard F. Cleveland, of Baltimore, has been named chairman of the speakers' committee of the Associated Willkie Clubs of Maryland.

In a letter accepting membership on the directing committee of the Associated Willkie Clubs of Maryland, R. E. Lee Marshall, for many years Baltimore city solicitor under the Democratic municipal administration, declared that he intends to support Willkie.

"Briefly stated, the reasons . . . are clear and simple," Marshall said. "The essence of dictatorship is self-perpetuation in the office of Chief Magistrate. The essence of democracy is rotation in that office.

"All previous chief magistrates of the United States, Democrats and Republicans, have recognized and honored this principle and it remains for the present chief magistrate to violate it. Why? The iconoclast himself offers no explanation of any sort. His political confederates say that he is the indispensable man, and the campaign for his reelection has so far been run solely upon this fictitious and fradulent basis."

Two Men Receive Suspended Sentences

Lawson Perdew, 510-512 Central avenue, and Charles Perdew, 507 Central avenue, were technically charged with "failure to connect a sewer and abate a nuisance," when brought to police court yesterday.

After neighbors complained of the condition the health department told the men to remedy the situation.

The court gave the men sixty days to comply with the order. Both men said they had been out of work for some time and it would be a hardship to have the changes made.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew, no relation to the defendants, gave the men a suspended sentence of sixty days in jail.

Two Veteran Cumberland Mail Carriers Retire

Walter D. Logsdon and C. E. Statler Give Interesting Account of Long Public Service

A reporter who interviewed two veteran mailmen last night decided it would be a good idea if all newspapermen and all mailmen swapped jobs.

For newspapermen are notoriously stupid fellows since nobody, of course, ever tells them anything of importance. Mailmen, on the other hand, are always sharp as tacks since housewives all along their routes are continually stuffing them full with lively gossip for which the postmen have little if any use.

However, it must be admitted postmen, by their very natures, inspire more confidence than most people since their job of carting news, both good and bad, into countless homes softens them up, makes them more sympathetic and tolerant than most folks.

Inspire Confidence

This is undoubtedly true in the cases of Walter D. Logsdon, 61, of 136 West Third street, and C. E. Statler, 65, of 522 City View Terrace, who officially retired last night after piling up a total of sixty-two years' service between them.

Mr. Statler, who looks a little bit like Cordull Hull and who has traipsed every route in Cumberland except one, finished up his mail-toting career in the Frederick and Decatur street section.

Mr. Logsdon, who looks a little bit like Mr. Jones of the Jones family movies, started out as a rural carrier and finished up by carrying the mail to everybody who lives west of Virginia avenue.

Routes Are 10 Miles

Both routes constitute ten-mile daily hikes and both men have been making these ten-mile hikes 306 days a year for thirty-three and twenty-nine years respectively.

"No, I never kept track of the amount of shoe leather I've used in the last twenty-nine years," Mr. Statler said. "Personally, I wear a special shoe with a heavy sole which lasts me from six to eight months.

"A composition shoe," Mr. Statler continued seriously, getting technical," lasts longer than a leather shoe, I've found. Your leather-soled shoe has to be tapped every six weeks. Your composition shoe on the other hand, will stand up from four to five months."

Tell of Early Life

Changing the subject, Mr. Logsdon recalled that he first started out as a rural carrier out Bedford road and over into Pennsylvania.

"I used a horse and buggy," he recalled, "and at that time Nave's Crossroad was the jumping off place. It was mud from there on out.

First Mechanized Carrier

"Later, I was the first carrier in Allegany county to use a motor vehicle for delivering mail. It was a motorcycle and I started using it in 1907 to take mail out in that section where the dam is now," Logsdon declared.

Rosh Ha-shono was observed by Cumberland Jews as well as others throughout the world Wednesday and Thursday.

Rosh Ha-shono, the Jewish religious New Year, opened Wednesday evening (eve of the first day of Tishri, according to the Jewish calendar). It is a holy day which brings a welcome message of eternal values to Jews throughout the world.

Observed for two days by orthodox and conservative Jews, Rosh Ha-shono is observed by Reform Jews for one day, as prescribed originally.

Once a part of the feast of ingathering at the end of the harvest season, the New Year festival assumed its present solemn character within two generations after the fall of the second temple.

As a separate holy days, Rosh Ha-shono has no connection with nature or with historic events. It urges the individual to live a worthy life and to remember that life is very short in contrast to eternity. It ushers in the Ten Days of Penitence, which conclude with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

Blowing of the shofer, a ram's horn, in the synagogue is a feature of the Rosh-Ha-shono service. Special delicacies eaten on the eve of the New Year include honey, which represents the hope for a sweet year. The exchange of New Year's greetings is a custom connected with the holy day.

In accordance with the traditional idea that God judges and assigns the destiny of each individual on Rosh Ha-shono, one greeting often used is "May you be inscribed (in the Book of Life) for a second year.

Patterson added that he had not had confirmation of a report that the county commissioners had leased the home at a cost of $1 a month.

Under Allegany county juvenile court law, the county commissioners may rent, lease or build a structure "as a house of detention for minors under the age of sixteen who may be held to await trial or hearing, and to which the minor may be committed by the magistrate as to other reformatories or schools."

This means, in other words, that the county apparently can operate a welfare home. For the commissioners have leased it and by so doing have assumed a responsibility for the conduct of the institution.

Question of Practicability

While nobody concerned would come right out and say it, the issue apparently boiled down to a question of practicability as against expensixe theoretical frills espoused by the Welfare board.

It all started when representatives of the Welfare board started poking around out at the Valley road home, making various calculations which were later submitted to the board in the nature of reports.

The conclusions reached by the various and sundry experts was that a drastic improvement program was in order and would have to be carried out.

Captain Harry C. Balch, who runs the home and started it from scratch, blanched when informed regarding the extent of the improvements called for—improvements which he estimated would cost something like $5,000.

Balch admitted the improvements called for were mostly foreign to him. His idea of running a home was to give the youngsters plenty of good, wholesome food, see that they got plenty of exercise to keep them out of mischief and plenty of sleep.

"I started this home and I never got a penny of state aid," Balch declared. "And there's not a family in Cumberland that could meet the requirements of the Welfare board. In other words, thesec hildren are supposed to live higher than anybody else in the city."

This being the case, Balch notified the Welfare board that he couldn't possibly meet their requirements.

County Authorities Act

At this point, county authorities started putting their heads together. State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris made the announcement that the home served "an almost indispensable purpose" in Allegany county due to overcrowded conditions in state juvenile institutions.

Mrs. Elizabeth Menefee, juvenile court judge, said the court had to have a place where minors could be kept until arrangements could be made regarding their future.

As Captain Balch put it, "people can't make snap judgment regarding these matters in five minutes."

Next, the commissioners quietly leased the home and according to Captain Balch plans are now underway to work out a more definite program in regard to the maintenance and conduct of the institution.

The attitude of Captain Balch has always been that he would be more than willing to comply with the Welfare board's standards . . . if he could afford it. Not being able to afford it, he has gone ahead and done the best he could.

Local Persons Will Attend Convention Of Churches of Christ

Several members of the Church of Christ, Bedford street, this city, are planning to attend the North American Christian Convention of Churches of Christ, which will be held in the Cadle Tabernacle in Indianapolis, Ind., October 9 to 13.

The Christian churches and Churches of Christ which go under the general denominational name of Diciples of Christ, constitute the fifth largest Protestant body in the United States. They have a membership of 1,900,000 and Cadle Tabernacle, which seats 10,000 persons, will be in all probability be taxed to capacity.

The theme of the convention will be "Preach the Word" and it will be a preaching convention with very little business. P. H. Welshimer of Canton, Ohio, is president and the leading ministers of Deciples of Christ from all parts of the country as well as from Mexico and Canada will attend
